WIVK: A Legend Looks At 50

As legendary country station WIVK Knoxville, Tenn., prepares to celebrate its 50th anniversary next week, Airplay Monitor takes a look back at the station's colorful history and catalogs the "building blocks" that have made it great.

From its humble beginnings with a staff of six working in studios above a hardware store, the station has grown into Knoxville's perennial market leader that routinely pulls in 20 shares in the Arbitron ratings. WIVK has become best-known through the years for its larger-than-life personalities, charity work, University of Tennessee sports broadcasts, and a certain frog mascot who has become as popular as the personalities.

But the station's history also includes chain-saw-wielding talent, incarcerated contest winners, and a consultant named "Moses."

For more on this legendary station, see the story on page 29.

A 25-Year Odyssey . . . For All Personalities

WCKG Chicago afternoon host Steve Dahl has just celebrated his 25th year in Chicago radio. During that time, he has seen his style of radio change the paradigm of what's acceptable. "The biggest change [in radio]," Dahl says, "has been [how] it has gone from me being fired for what I do or did to that being a sought-after commodity."

Here's what Dahl has to say on:

- 1979's now-infamous riot-causing Disco Demolition. "Nobody was more surprised than myself . . . I was prepared to be humiliated by the whole thing. Obviously, it took on a life of its own."

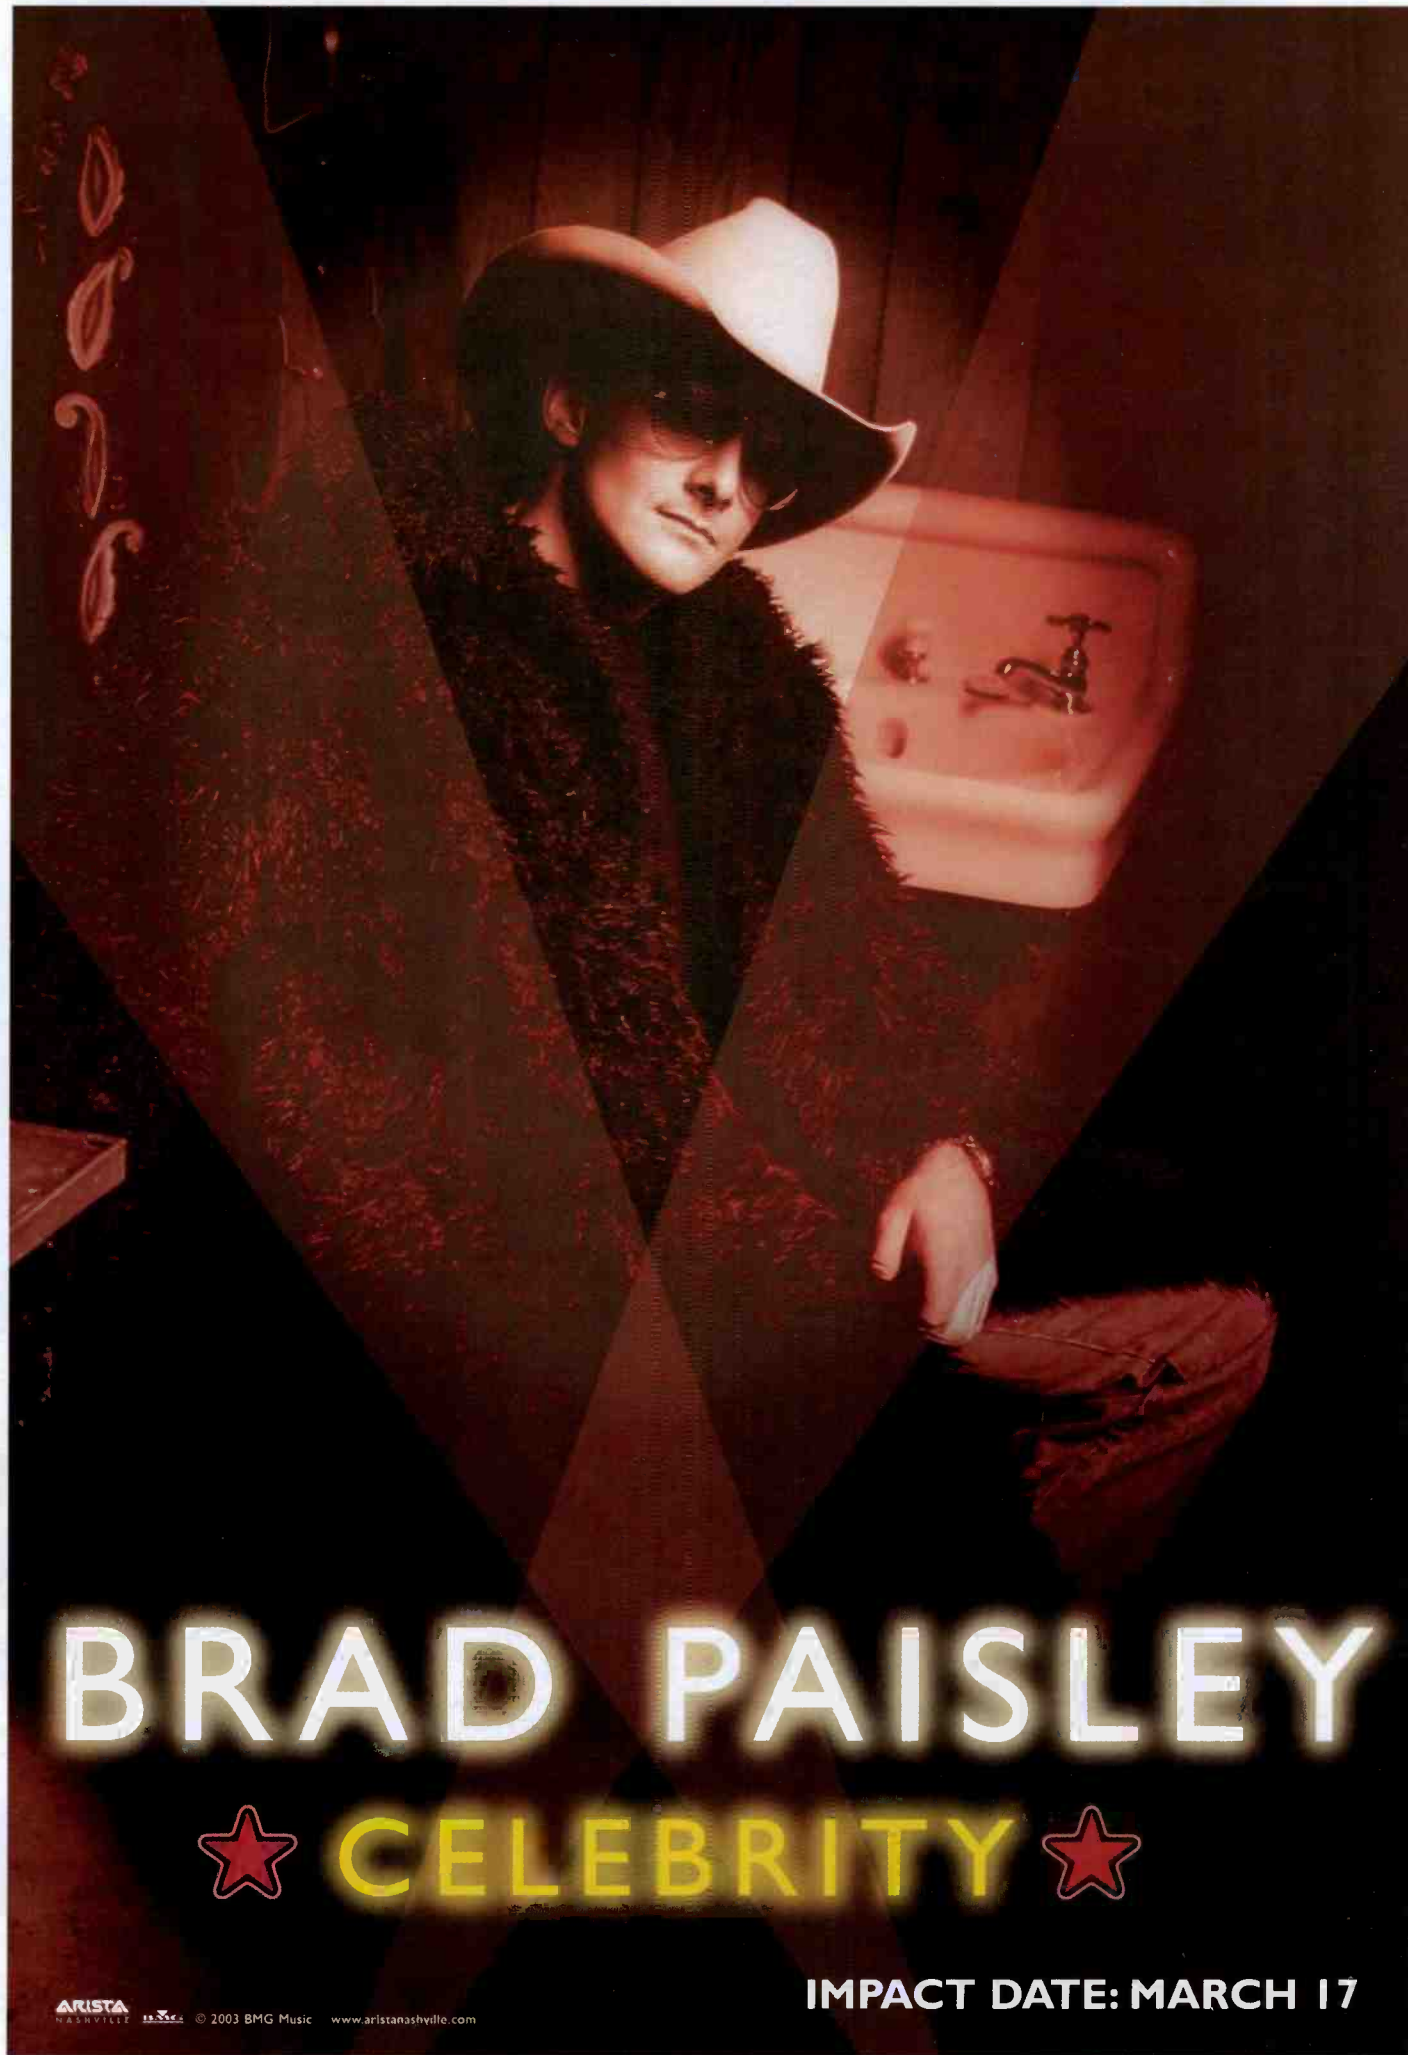

- Howard Stern, another personality-driven jock who came to prominence after Dahl. "I know he never publicly gives me credit for this, but I'd like to think I inspired him in some way."

- Classic rock. "I can't hear 'The Spirit of Radio' again. Every once in a while, it's fun to hear Lynyrd Skynyrd, but hearing a steady diet of it is not for me."

Read the rest of Dahl's exclusive interview with rock editor Bram Teitelman on page 35 of Airplay Monitor.

Study: Few Women In Programming

Only 10% of radio programmers are women, barely up from 8% eight years ago, according to a new study conducted by trade group the Most Influential Women in Radio (MIW). Women are much less represented in the programming ranks than they are among GMs, where 17% are women.

Among the companies that own 50 or more stations, Entercom has the highest percentage of female PDs, at 20%. Of the 41 PD positions at ABC Radio, 14% are filled by females. The study was based on data from M Street Publications.

Most station groups with 50 or more stations, however, are below the norm. Only 8% of Clear Channel's 824 PDs are women, according to the study. Seven percent of Cumulus' 175 PDs are women. At Infinity, 8% of its 146 PDs are female.

Among companies with fewer than 50 stations, Multicultural has one of the highest percentages of female PDs, with 17%, followed by Emmis (14%), HBC (13%), and Greater Media (13%).

CC NAMED IN NIGHTCLUB FIRE LAWSUIT

As lawsuits pile up in the aftermath of the Station nightclub tragedy, one suit filed on behalf of a 6-year-old girl whose mother died in the fire names album WHJY Providence, R.I., and owner Clear Channel among the defendants. The suit claims that CC and WHJY promoted and gave away tickets for the Great White show without mentioning that the show was sold out, leading to overcrowding. CC has released a statement stating that it was neither the producer, sponsor, nor promoter of the event and that WHJY and CC were merely paid by the club to run spots.

MANAGEMENT

R&B WPEG/WBAV Charlotte, N.C., GM Dianne Tucker exits.

AC WLTE/WXPT Minneapolis GM Dick Carlson is named Infinity market manager.

CHUM Group ups Paul Ski, VP/GM of its Vancouver cluster, to executive VP of radio.

Randy Bush is named VP/GM of Journal Broadcast Group/Tulsa, Okla., replacing Jay Werth. He was VP/market manager at CC/Oklahoma City.

WICC/WEBC Bridgeport, Conn., GM Vince Cremona is named senior VP/market manager for Qantum/Cape Cod, Mass.

UNEASY WRITER

Tamara Saviano, manager of Jones Radio Networks' Nashville office and a producer for Jones' cable network Great American Country, says she was fired March 7 after e-mailing Charlie Daniels' publicist with her response to a pro-war statement from Daniels that the publicist had circulated. Although Saviano wrote from her home e-mail account, she says she was told by Jones management that her "views were expressed in a company context because people on Music Row cannot distinguish me personally from my role at GAC." Saviano may be reached at 615-662-0803 or tsaviano@aol.com.

In a prepared statement, Jones/GAC said, "Our success as a television network requires that we have access to, and good relationships with, country music artists, their management, and their record labels. The recent termination resulted when the employee took actions that we believe jeopardized the company's relationship with the country music community."

COX INDIE DEALS NOW EXPIRING

Last fall, Cox Radio gained attention with the news that it was ending its handful of deals with independent promoters. Those deals include rhythmic top 40 WHZT (Hot 98.1) Greenville, S.C., where PD Fisher reports that the station's deal with Jeff McClusky & Associates ends March 15. R&B WBHJ (95.7 Jamz) Birmingham, Ala., also ended its indie deal last month.

PROGRAMMING: HE'S BACK

Former KIIS Los Angeles PD Dan Kieley returns to top 40 as PD of KRBV (Wild 100) Dallas. He replaces John Cook, who follows GM Reid Reker to the OM job at combo KTFM/KTSA San Antonio.

R&B consultant Tony Gray, who had been working with WBLS New York, is now consulting adult R&B rival WRKS, a station he once programmed.

Entravision names Robert Isaac OM of its new dance outlet KDLD/KDLE (103.1

KDL) Los Angeles. Isaac has been an imaging director, mixer, and morning producer for the group.

Infinity R&B WXYV (X105.7) Baltimore flips to N/T as "Live 105.7," picking up Howard Stern from sister WJFK-AM, which itself segues to sports talk. The station will also run Infinity's Don & Mike. PD Thea Mitchum will stay with Infinity. The cluster's director of programming, Bill Pasha, is handling programming duties. Mitchum's staff—middayer Malikha Mallette and p.m. driver Osei—exit.

Classic rock WDTW Detroit PD Jay Nachlis exits. CC/Detroit's Darren Davis assumes those duties. . . R&B WFUN (Q95) St. Louis PD/middayer Moshay exits. . . R&B WUBT Nashville PD Kiki Henson exits.

Jim Kressler has been named genre manager of the country division at Sirius. He previously was the company's director of programming operations.

Far From 'Gone' At Heritage

3 Doors Down's "When I'm Gone" (Republic/Universal/UMRG) sets the record for most weeks atop the heritage rock chart, logging its 20th week at No. 1. The old record was set by Staind's "It's Been Awhile" in September 2001. Elsewhere at heritage rock, Nickelback's "How You Remind Me" moves to recurrent after a record 86 weeks on the chart. 3 Doors Down held the previous mark with 73 weeks for "Kryptonite."

A cover of "In Da Club" by Beyoncé Knowles that surfaced at radio last week picks up 253 spins at mainstream top 40, 58 plays at rhythmic, and 145 plays at R&B/hip-hop. Some stations have taken to mixing Knowles' version with 50 Cent's original. In those instances, Airplay Monitor's mix-show rules will apply, and a detection will be credited to both titles.

Warner/Reprise Nashville's promotion team has begun working Kid Rock's "Picture," which features Sheryl Crow (or Allison Moorer), at country radio. Effective this issue, Universal South and WRN will split year-end points evenly. All label points had previously been assigned to Universal South.

WHERE DID YOUR STATION GO? Airplay Monitor's Power Playlist rankings for all formats have been adjusted to reflect TSA weekly cums according to Arbitron's fall 2002 ratings period.

The new cums are good news for country KPLX (the Wolf) Dallas and modern rock WXRK (K-Rock) New York, both of which move into the No. 1 slot on the Power Playlist pages.

PANEL NEWS: WBTF Lexington, Ky., and WWGR Fort Myers, Fla., return to the R&B/hip-hop and country charts, respectively, after being temporarily removed because of technical issues.

WXYV Baltimore is removed from the R&B/hip-hop panel following its flip to N/T.

Why 22-Year B94 Became 93.7 BZZ

Heritage top 40 WBZZ Pittsburgh has been known to listeners as "B94" since its debut in 1981. In recent years, it has been engaged in hand-to-hand combat with rival WKST (Kiss 96.1). And on Feb. 10, the industry was surprised first by rumors that the station might adapt the "Wild" nickname used by several Infinity outlets, then by its actual repositioning as "93.7 'BZZ."

So why, in a world where branding is king, change the "B" after 22 years? For WBZZ VP of programming Keith Clark, the decision to change did not come without mixed emotions. "After 22 years, there was quite a bit of nostalgia associated with the name," he says. "But the issue of 'rounding frequency' is becoming a true branding problem for some youth-targeted stations, especially ones like WBZZ, whose real frequency was so different from the rounded number. It would have been easier for us if the real frequency had been 94.3, so we could have just added the 'point three.' When everyone's radio says 93.7 and you're branding 94, it really doesn't make sense to the contemporary audience. The branding message can even suggest the station is stuck in the past when in fact our product is very contemporary."

But, Clark says, there was no need to scrap the handle altogether. "There are easier ways to refresh a station image than changing the name. Some situations may not need to go that far. In our case, it was more about synchronizing the branding with the reality of audience perception than just changing things for the sake of freshness... Using 'BZZ' keeps our tie to the 'B.'"

"Over 50% of our audience was already calling the station '93.7' or 'WBZZ' anyway, so we're just matching their existing expectation by using our real frequency and call letters," Clark continues. "It makes sense to have your listeners say what they're seeing on their radio dial. We were thinking about this and watching this for a while, in fact, for a couple of years," he adds. "It's a serious thing to do, and you don't want to make a change like this prematurely. We had been watching diary mentions and returns. [Initially, there was a point where 80% were [using] 'B94.' Over the past couple of years, that was dramatically changing, where 50% were either '93.7' or 'BZZ.'"

"We felt that if we do it now, we're at the right time to capitalize on grassroots momentum that's building, anyway. It was a situation where we didn't just wake up and decide to change. We watched for a long time, and we wanted to act without waiting too long."

Clark says that his staff, including APD/MD Ryan Mill, creative services director Spank, promotions director Brandon Davis, and events staffer Ron-Man, was able to bring off a "flawless" transition "from imaging to banners, in the blink of an eye. The changeover necessitated 50 pieces of production."

NO BIG BUILDUP

While many of Infinity's top 40s were among those who stunted in recent years with teaser campaigns that made it sound as though the station was going away, then didn't, when it came time for the change, Clark says, "We just went with it. We didn't build it up as some big change. We didn't want to give the impression of something more than we were doing."

"We're basically the same station as before, but now we're better positioned to describe and promote our brand more effectively going forward," Clark adds. "We actually may have been in the rare situation of having a simple solution provided to us. It sounds fresh, but it's not radically different from what the audience knows about WBZZ."

And for the time being, Clark is also using the liner "The station you've called B94 is 93.7 'BZZ," which initially ran several times per hour.

He says it's "a gentle reminder that we're still the station you love, [and that we're] just using our real frequency and call letters."

Musically, WBZZ had already transitioned during the past several years from a conservative, rock-leaning top 40 to a more rhythmic, more musically aggressive station that was more in line with the station's early heritage. "It's no surprise that after the whiny rock saturation of the 1990s, more energetic, fun music is what's hot right now, and top 40 has always been about whatever's hot," Clark says. "B94 has thrived by that philosophy through so many music style changes. 93.7 'BZZ is the latest model of that same station doing the same thing in 2003."

In addition to the repackaging, longtime morning co-host John Kline moved to adult top 40 sister WZPT (Star 100.7). "We still have five folks on the WBZZ morning show, and that's enough for now," Clark says. He's also bringing in Busta from top 40 sister WXPY Rochester, N.Y., for afternoons. "You don't want to know what I had to promise [WXPY PD] Mike Danger to get that done."

Beyond WBZZ's own issues are those that the overall market is confronting. "We're dealing with a big hub of an airline [USAir] that went bankrupt last year, and our winter has been dreadful," Clark says. "We want to be the station that is community-minded and focused on Pittsburgh. We want to have live jocks in all the important dayparts. We also want to be the 'escape' station."

CLARK

Q: Country radio already has a hit record that advocates invading Iraq. What if one of your core artists released a song that was either pro- or anti-war?

Chris Edge, PD, WDCG (G105) Raleigh, N.C.: "Top 40 is about pop culture. These topics are pop culture. Play the records and let your audience react, good or bad. I'm not sure what kind of response we would get. I think the majority of people would treat it like any other song. With regard to the [forthcoming] Madonna single [which reportedly has a "pro-peace" theme in its video], same thing: Hits are hits."

Jesse Duran, PD, KGGI Riverside, Calif.: "Ultimately the listeners decide... When the R. Kelly scandal first broke, we gave our listeners a public forum on whether they wanted to hear R. Kelly anymore, and the majority [said] they didn't. But time and a hit record heals all wounds, and they now want to hear 'Ignition.' The same will hold for any artist who is hawk or dove—the majority opinion will decide their fate, and that opinion may be different six months into war than it is now."

Jeff McHugh, PD, WKZL Greensboro, N.C.: "Great music is always about deep passion and great emotion. If the artist takes the humanist position that no one likes war, no one wants to die, to kill, or lose loved ones, how can that be wrong for anybody?"

"Having said that, great music is never about opinion. This is why Rush Limbaugh does not have hit records. An artist simply singing their opinion is boring, irrelevant, and irritating to people who disagree... What could work is an artist who is able to communicate the feeling behind their stance in a way that resonates with people's emotions. Even if a song pisses people off or makes them cry, that could be a good thing..."

"Personally, I can't wait for Madonna's new song. She is very good at making controversy entertaining, relevant, and danceable."

Dan Vallie, consultant: "It will depend on the song, the lyrics, the attitude, the approach: Is it an intelligent approach no matter what the position? And it will be a song-by-song decision, no matter who the artist is."

"We have to understand that when we play one of these songs, we are not just exposing product: The station is contributing to the spreading of the message in the song. No programmer should add a song with a message of this nature without realizing that..."

"I would hope radio people, artists, and others in media understand this is a difficult situation, no matter which side you take. This is not a fashion trend or typical social issue..."

"I hope and I pray the majority of people in our industry will give careful thought to any actions that may stir up others. [During the Vietnam era], both sides had good points, both sides were wrong in some very serious areas. I know, in retrospect, I was wrong in some of the things I believed and stated... It seems those uncivilized times have come again. Let's be smarter this time, and let's contribute to bringing us all together instead of tearing apart."

PROMOGANDA

You're Already Entered

Top 40 Key 103 Manchester, England, offers this intriguing twist on the old "tell a friend" or "pass it on" game. In 20 Grand Says It's You, a private investigator supplies the station with clues about someone in the station's listening area. The clues could be the time the person was spotted at a local shopping mall, what he or she was observed wearing, or the type of car the person was driving.

The station's morning team will read clues every morning this month, with the clues getting more revealing by the end of each week. PD Andrew Robson says the goal is to generate talk about the station among lapsed and new cume.

To help educate those P2 and P3 listeners on how the game works—since they're unlikely to hear the rules promo—there's an outdoor marketing campaign, a street team, and a flier campaign. There's also what the station describes as "a team of models dressed as comedy detectives" who'll be making appearances on the promotion's behalf.

Sharing Some 'Crazy Talk'

Greycliff artist Plural, center, is flanked by WBMX (Mix 98.5) Boston morning-team members Kelly Malone, left, and Stunt Boy George. WBMX later added Plural's new "Crazy Talk" following calls generated by the artist's appearance on the station.

Songs ranked by number of detections. (●) Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 20 become recurrenents and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

Songs ranked by number of detections. Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 15 become recurrents and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

H=Heavy (30+ Detections), M=Medium (15-29), L=Light (Under 15). Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Initial impact: songs appearing on this page for the first time in summary form. Airplay Adds are songs with 6 or more detections at all stations this week. The Airplay Leaderboard ranks taste-maker stations that have been the most successful in identifying future hit songs as measured by the amount of AIRPOWER titles for which they were Airplay Leaders. Refer to each format's Power Playlists page to see this week's Airplay Leaders.

Songs ranked by number of detections. (○) Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 15 become recurrenents and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

Songs ranked by number of detections. (○) Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first; if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 20 become recurrents and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

Daisy Davis Rises To The Challenge Of CC's Norfolk Cluster

Walking into a station, any programmer can come under scrutiny. But being new to a station that has been on top for years, and facing increased competition in an already cluttered market, can make even a veteran PD nervous. For Daisy Davis, OM of Clear Channel's Norfolk, Va., cluster that includes heritage WOWI, adult R&B WSVY, jazz WJCD, and hip-hop WBHH, the challenge was never insurmountable. In fact, in the fall 2002 Arbitron ratings, all four stations grew, with WOWI back at No. 1 for a second consecutive book, up 6.3-6.9 12-plus.

Davis arrived in Norfolk in August 2001, after a long stint as APD/MD at adult R&B WDAS Philadelphia. Her career in radio had brought Davis to jobs in her hometown of Chicago, as well as a brief previous PD gig in Norfolk.

"Honestly, in the beginning I was overwhelmed, and it took some time for me to get things together," Davis recalls. "We were facing a great deal more competition in the market, and when I first got here, we kept losing people. First the jazz station's PD resigned, and I had to absorb those duties. Then the production director for WOWI and WBHH left for a job in Detroit. Then, we were dealt a huge blow when WOWI's night jock DJ Bee left to take a job in Baltimore. He was a large part of the station's success, earning huge numbers at night. WOWI initially took a hit because we couldn't find as strong a night show after he left. Luckily, he has since returned."

Davis adds that the market competition also shifted on several levels. "WOWI had gone uncontested for so long. Granted, you always have competition in every market; we just had not had a head-to-head battle in a very long time. Then Hot 102 [WWHV] signed on, and even with signal issues they still make an impact. Add to that the fact that Clear Channel had made a flanking move in signing on WBHH."

All of WOWI's competition wasn't head to head, Davis says. "Our adult R&B station WSVY was facing competition from WVKL, which can also have an effect on WOWI, and depending on what they want to be, WNVZ can be seen as our competition. They go from being top 40 to rhythmic to straight-up hip-hop." Davis admits that while "WNVZ can still play something WOWI listeners would never want to hear, the fact that we do share many titles with them is a concern."

"The advantage that WOWI has is our personalities and how well-known they are in the market," Davis continues. "The Supreme Team has been in mornings for something like eight years. In afternoons, we have the Buddha Brothers, who have also been on for years, and [bringing] DJ Bee back was a major coup. He immediately turned around the numbers at night."

SIBLING RIVALRY?

Clear Channel had launched WBHH (the Beat) in February 2001. The move was a strategy to keep the younger demos with the cluster with the debut of rival WWHV (Hot 102). The Beat initially may have taken some younger demos from WOWI, but Davis says "we've balanced out the stations now to complement each other better. They still have very different personalities, but the Beat has found its niche. We saw that you can't play only underground hip-hop—you have to have some of the mainstream rap on as well to make it a successful station. And with WOWI, we still play both hip-hop and R&B, which the 18-34 audience wants."

Davis continues, "There is still a percentage of [the R&B] audience that all four stations are going after simultaneously, so it can be tricky... men are especially likely to have two to three station choices rather than one. But we want each station at any given time to be the favorite for at least one segment of that black audience."

Davis notes that "the Beat's also different because the staff is younger and a little more street in their on-air approach. In fact, sometimes you don't want them to sound like they're on the radio at all."

Still, Davis says, "we've toned it down just a bit from when they signed on. The imaging was very male-driven. But the shock value of that has worn off now, and the station concentrates more on letting the music set that tone."

Davis realized she was also dealing with a learning curve herself. "It wasn't just the competition I was dealing with; I was also facing the challenge of being in a new position and a new format," she says. "Let's be honest: I had been doing adult R&B radio for a long time, but I have always believed that if you know good programming basics, you can do any format. We're on the right track now, thanks to the help and support of my staff, and I think we sound better than ever."

Adult R&B WSVY also took a jump, increasing 2.9-4.1 12-plus. Did Davis bring some of that WDAS magic to Norfolk? "Actually, no," she says. "We don't want WSVY to sound like WDAS, because it's a very different market and situation. I wish I could tell you I brought all these ideas from Philly and that's what made the station jump, but I have to give all the credit to Heart Attack, who is PD. The station tightened up its music—it's much more current than WDAS—and imaging, [which] gave the Tom Joyner morning show more of a local feel. We also did a television campaign for the fall that gave us a kick."

And while jazz sister WJCD does play a great deal of R&B music from such artists as Luther Vandross and Anita Baker that could infringe on WSVY, Davis says that "to keep the stations separate, WJCD will really concentrate only on those songs that were more mass appeal."

In addition to giving credit to Heart Attack (also PD of WBHH and APD/MD of WOWI), Davis says her entire staff has been an integral part of the creative process on all of the stations. "DJ. Law, who is APD at WBHH, and Larry Halowell, MD at the jazz station, along with myself and Heart Attack are the programming team. We meet and brainstorm about all the stations. And of course, we have the support of VP/GM Janet Armstead, who is one of the strongest women I've worked with in the business. She shoots from the hip—with her, I don't have to guess; she says exactly what she wants, what she likes, and what she doesn't like."

differed from her first stint as a PD almost 10 years ago?

"This one has been a lot longer so far," Davis jokes. "But seriously, I think that first time gave me insight into the areas where I lacked experience. A lot of it was technical. It forced me to concentrate on those areas and sharpen my skills in all things technical. It also showed me how to better manage people. I used to be the kind of manager who wanted her staff to just 'Get it done. I don't care how you do it.' Now I feel I am more sensitive to what the staff needs and wants and if they feel good about their job. I want people to feel like Clear Channel is the shit and love working here."

Davis also advises that programmers today need to expand their knowledge of managing people as opposed to music. "As an OM, you have to deal with several different staffs at various radio stations and different departments, like marketing, sales, and promotions. It's more about strategy and budgets and less about what song is a hit or not. If you want to grow in this business, that's what you need to learn about."

Songs ranked by number of detections. (▲) Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 20 become recurrenents and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

Songs ranked by number of detections. (C) Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 20 become recurrents and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

"The new Airplay Monitor combines all of the music formats in such a way as to allow radio decision-makers to go to one place for all the data they need to make informed decisions. If it is possible to develop a strategic plan for a chart-based publication in which the whole is greater than the sum of its parts (even though the original parts were good), the new Monitor has done it. What a makeover!"

WIVK Spins A New Kind Of Gold As It Marks Year No. 50

On March 20, 1953, James Dick signed on WIVK Knoxville, Tenn., with a staff of six people working from studios atop Green Hardware on Gay Street in downtown Knoxville. With call letters that stood for "independent voice of Knoxville," the AM station programmed blocks of jazz, gospel, and country music.

Fifty years and one legendary legacy later, WIVK will celebrate its golden anniversary March 19 with a party at the Knoxville Convention Center. Artists scheduled to appear include Kenny Chesney, Dolly Parton, Kenny Rogers, Ray Price, Charlie Daniels, Aaron Tippin, Tanya Tucker, Darryl Worley, Tammy Cochran, Phil Vassar, and Joe Nichols. Proceeds from the sold-out event will benefit the United Way. Another celebratory concert with major headliners is being planned for this summer and will be announced March 19.

WIVK first signed on as a 1,000-watt daytimer at 860 AM. Included in its block programs was the two-hour daily show Cas Walker Live Country Music Show, where Parton, an area native, began her singing career. The station unsuccessfully tried a full-time top 40 format for about a year before switching to country in 1964 and beginning its climb to ratings dominance. In 1965, WIVK-FM debuted at 107.7, simulcasting the AM.

For a station that has been around so long, WIVK has had surprisingly few owners. Two, to be exact. Dick Broadcasting, which by then had grown into a 14-station chain, was sold in 2000 to WIVK's current owner, Citadel Communications. WIVK was no doubt an attractive prospect for Citadel. The station is consistently No. 1 in the Arbitron ratings and routinely earns 20 shares 12-plus.

BUILDING BLOCKS OF SUCCESS

Current director of operations Mike Hammond first joined WIVK when it launched a news department in 1973. He says the station has remained consistently successful because of what he calls its "building blocks," which include high-profile personalities in every daypart, its nearly 25-year-old frog mascot, and a strong news department that has included a helicopter traffic reporter since the late '70s and a meteorologist since the early '80s.

Another key building block has been the station's affiliation with University of Tennessee (UT) sports, a partnership that began in the late 1970s. WIVK currently broadcasts all UT football games, as well as the school's men's and women's basketball games.

"The tie with the university is huge," Hammond says. "We do a lot with them as their flagship station. We're a very active partner."

WNOE New Orleans PD Les Acree, who was PD at the station from 1990-1999, says the station's sports coverage "rivals any pro or college network I've ever heard." In Knoxville, he says, UT sports "are a way of life, and so is WIVK."

One event Hammond says listeners still talk about happened in the early '80s, when UT beat Alabama for the first time after a long stretch of losses. The on-air hosts "had been celebrating," Hammond says, and one of them—former player Tim Priest—produced a chain saw and proceeded to saw the table in the control room in half while still on the air. He then took the tool outside and proceeded to do some damage to the shrubbery.

While Hammond's own news career has been otherwise distinguished, his most embarrassing on-air moment happened at WIVK while he was covering returns for a close mayoral race. While gathering the returns, the staff accidentally tallied one precinct twice, causing Hammond to project the wrong winner on the air. As for the candidate who ultimately prevailed, every time he saw Hammond after that he would taunt, "If it's on WIVK it must be true."

WINNING FRIENDS, KILLING RIVALS

Although it currently has the country format to itself in Knoxville, WIVK has knocked out several competitors along the way. They include WNOX, WIMZ (the market's heritage rocker that spent a few years as "Hit Kicker Country"), and WOKI, the one Hammond describes as "the most serious competitor," which, like many former top 40 outlets, went up against WIVK for about five years in the '90s.

Hammond believes WIVK's "consistency" protected the station, although he says WIVK is always prepared for a new competitor. "When you're in a market as long as we have been, you make a lot of friends," he says. Helping it win those friends has been the station's strong history of community involvement, which includes supporting the United Way, St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, and scores of local charities.

Acree says the thing that impressed him most about the station was its community involvement, which he called "far greater than anything I had been involved with before. They never asked for anything but were always first in line to help."

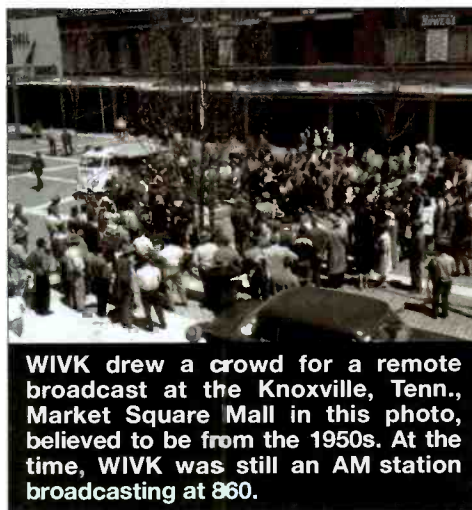

One thing the station hasn't produced much of is alumni who have gone on to achieve fame at other stations. Hammond says that's because jocks rarely leave WIVK but choose instead to make a home there. In fact, Hammond notes that the station has had only four morning shows in its history: Archie Campbell, Claude Tomlinson, Wilhite & Wall (now at WYCD Detroit), and the current team of Andy & Allison. The rest of the current lineup is MD Colleen Addair in middays, Gunner in afternoons, Jack Ryan in nights, and Hoss in overnights. Hammond says, "We have people who have been here a long time and know the market and the history of the station."

Tomlinson, a legendary character who passed away a few months after retiring from the station in the early 1990s, was known for his on-air characters, such as Lester Longmire and Old Man Schultz. Acree says he was "quite a talent" with characters and bits that were not only topical but also specific to East Tennessee.

PERSONIFYING THE MARKET

Bill Moyes of Moyes Research worked closely with the station for about 15 years under its previous owners and was nicknamed "Moses" by Tomlinson. He says WIVK has "always been about larger-than-life characters." He's talking about not only the airstaff but also Jim Dick and other station managers as well. "They're not just a radio station," Moyes says of WIVK. "they're a personification of that market."

The station's cult of personality even extends to its frog mascot, known as Wivick, which was created in 1979. Legend has it that a representative of a charity once called the station looking for one of its big-name personalities to make an appearance at an event. Told that none of the personalities were available but that the station could send Wivick, the reported response was, "That's even better."

WYCD's Darren Wilhite recalls "driving into Knoxville, seeing a billboard with Wivick the frog on it, and thinking, 'I hope we don't have to change our names to 'Wil-Pike and Wall-Eye' or something fish- or frog-related.' It took about one month to learn to love Wivick. They really know how to use him promotionally. He's more popular than Mickey Mouse in East Tennessee."

Although the mascot has suffered its share of indignities over the years from children punching and kicking it, it only required the services of paramedics once when a woman who was hired to wear the frog suit collapsed from heat exhaustion at a mid-summer event at the World's Fair site. Hammond reports, "That was her only time as the frog."

The station's other notable promotion mishap took place in the mid-'80s, when it held a drawing for a trip to the Sugar Bowl on live TV. The winner, unfortunately, was an inmate at Brushy Mountain State Prison serving a sentence for first degree murder. The station chose to give the inmate's family the prize's cash equivalent and redraw a new winner on TV the next night.

WIVK's music has been a consistent mix of "legends and new stuff," Hammond says. "We've always been big on breaking stuff," going back as far as the days of vinyl 45s, when the station would often play the B-side rather than the single being worked if the staff liked it better. "We've not been afraid to take chances," Hammond says. Among the acts the station has championed are Loretta Lynn, Conway Twitty, Con Hunley, Alabama, and local hero Chesney.

"It was a slow build for us, but WIVK always made me feel like a star long before I ever was," Chesney says. "They let the people who are 'Back Where I Come From' hear and believe in my music... Even before it all happened, those folks were part of my dream."

For a while, WIVK was actually in the concert promotion business (long before most stations found themselves involved, via listener appreciation shows), staging what it called Shindigs three or four times a year at the Coliseum, bringing the acts in to perform, and selling sponsorships. Its last Shindig was held in the 1970s.

In its history, WIVK has won four Country Music Assn. Awards for station of the year, as well as a Marconi Award and an Academy of Country Music Award. In 1993 it was awarded a Billboard/Airplay Monitor Radio Award for country station of the year.

"It was a place I can only say good things about," Acree says. "Everybody who's really passionate about this business deserves to work at a station like that once in their life."

Songs ranked by number of detections. () Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 20 become recurrenents and are removed from the chart after 20 weeks.

As On-Air Paradigm Changes, Dahl Celebrates 25 Years

For the past quarter-century, Steve Dahl has been a fixture at Chicago radio. Now heard on talk/rock hybrid WCKG, he started his career in February 1978 at WDAI (now WZZN) but came to his greatest prominence at WLUP (the Loop) during its heyday as the market's "kick-ass" rocker. And while 1979's Disco Demolition stunt-turned-riot put Dahl on the map nationally, he got just as much attention among radio people for his seeming disregard for formatic "rules" and his need to wedge in 10 songs per hour between bits. In doing so, Dahl changed the template for what was expected of high-profile personalities.

"The biggest change has been [how] it has gone from me being fired for what I do or did to that being a sought-after commodity," Dahl says. "For a lot of people, consolidation has changed things. It hasn't necessarily been a bad thing for me, especially because the more properties someone has in a market, the more they need to find consistent programming that can't be duplicated. So they've put a premium on that lately."

"What I do is just be myself, and that just kind of worked out for me," Dahl continues. "In a lot of cases, I think people might borrow from myself or other people—and not really understand the heart or soul of it—and go more with the outrageousness of it, which I never purposely did. When I started doing this back in the mid-'70s, I was in my mid-20s, and nobody in that demographic was really doing anything except playing records and backselling them. Anybody that got on and did anything else was considered outrageous and shocking. And it's kind of funny to see that as time goes on, guys like Opie & Anthony make me look like a choirboy."

Dahl offers his late-'80s on-air vasectomy as an example of how other jocks have co-opted the outrageous aspects of his act. "I really did it because part of my show is talking about what happens to me and my family," he says. "A month after that, there were guys all over the country not having vasectomies on the air themselves but having their listeners get them," thus losing the relatability factor. "Most things are done just for reaction. Howard Stern is still one of the few people who will work a topic and it will start to take on a life of its own, and he'll let it play out naturally, which I think works. All the times he gets in trouble, he just says something that he thinks, which causes a reaction. That's the way it should be."

As for the Disco Demolition, where blowing up records (to protest former employer WDAI's switch to disco) at a Chicago White Sox double-header resulted in riots, "Nobody was more surprised than myself," he says. "I got there that night and showed up in my Army helmet feeling like an idiot. Because even if 10,000 people came, in a baseball stadium, that's going to look kind of bad. I was prepared to be humiliated by the whole thing. Obviously, it just took on a life of its own. But I think in part that was due to the fact that it evolved naturally."

"It was a crazy thing, but it didn't seem like it at the time. It was just an outgrowth of leaving [WDAI]," Dahl adds. "So I started making fun of the station that brought me to Chicago. I try to stay away from anything that doesn't evolve naturally. It's like mixing chemicals. If you put something in a situation where it's going to blow up on purpose, the listeners can tell that, and it's fake."

CHANGING THE PARADIGM

Dahl came to national prominence roughly 18 to 24 months before another rule-breaking rock personality did the same. Ever since, there has been controversy about what Stern's act owes to Dahl's. "I know he never publicly gives me credit for this, but I'd like to think that I inspired him in some way," Dahl says, "and I definitely think that he has taken whatever it was that he might have heard from me and other people and turned it into something completely unique and certainly something that's a mind-boggling success. I respect him; I just wish he would give me a little love."

Dahl clearly did influence the PDs who came to realize, if grudgingly, that a personality could be more compelling than the next record. "I wasn't aware of this, but when we were at WLS, they actually did research that proved that it got to the point where we had something going that was more interesting than the song that was going to play," he says. "Since the songs were fairly accessible to people through other venues, it just happened naturally."

"I see one aspect of radio, the personality side, loosening up to the extent that maybe some people are on the air who shouldn't be, because they're looking for anything. And then you see the whole music side kind of shutting down and becoming ultra-conservative. They seem to be afraid of their own shadow. There are fewer risk-takers because once these people get into this corporate mentality, nobody wants to say yes and nobody really wants to say no—they just want to go along and not be noticed, it seems."

SYNDICATED TOO SOON?

In 1980-81, during the height of WLUP's success, Dahl's morning show ended up being syndicated to other markets, including Milwaukee and Detroit. In the late '80s, Stern's syndication would open the floodgates for numerous rock morning shows to do the same, but Dahl is currently heard only in Chicago. "I got fired on a Friday from the Loop, and the following Monday we were going to go on KROQ [Los Angeles]," he says. "That probably would have made things different for me."

"The only show that I'm really familiar with is Howard," Dahl adds. "I guess I'm familiar with [WKQX morning host] Mancow's show, since he's on here, but I don't get how that works here, let alone anywhere else."

He continues, "I think Howard does a really good job with it. I had kind of gotten pigeon-holed, to an extent where when people think about my show in terms of syndication, the feedback I always get is that it's too local. My response to that is that that's what it is. If it were on somewhere else as well, it would become whatever else it was. I haven't ruled out future syndication as a possibility. I think it can work if the person running the show is a true broadcaster. And that's the thing about Howard, when it really comes down to it. He's a communicator, and there aren't too many of those around these days. The rest of it is just filler. I think people put it on because it's cheaper, and I guess they do OK with it. At some point, I checked out of all of it, because I really don't need to know anymore."

Dahl says that consolidation has forced radio groups and owners to become more conservative. "When we were at the Loop [under owner] Cecil Heftel in the late '70s, it was important to do new things, and you would do whatever you could to attract an audience. These days, it seems to me that people go out of their way to over-research things and give themselves a ton of ways out of it, like 'It's not me, it's the research.' It's kind of ridiculous; you don't hear anything new anymore. You could blame the record companies for that partly, too. Everyone has gone into this 'duck and cover' mentality. They don't want to be the guy that comes up with the next big fuck-up, so they keep passing things along."

While radio is a huge part of Dahl's life, he doesn't spend much time listening to music there. "In the car, I either listen to news radio, because it's helpful to me for show content, or I'll listen to a CD or XM. There aren't too many stations that are playing what I want to hear in the right sequence for me. There was a time a few years ago when the modern AC format first got big, [and] I liked it, but as those bands dried up, the format dried up. It's probably heresy, but I do end up listening to XM a lot." Dahl says he prefers the satcaster's progressive station, the Loft, which he likens to "triple-A on crack." He'll also listen to triple-A WXRT occasionally.

Dahl doesn't listen to WLUP, which is now a harder classic rocker playing many of the songs that defined his era at the station. "I can't hear 'The Spirit of Radio' again. Every once in a while, it's fun to hear Lynyrd Skynyrd, but hearing a steady diet of it is not for me."

In addition to his WCKG show, Dahl is also co-producing a new Soundstage series for PBS, shot in hi-definition and recorded in 5.1, that will air this summer. As for future plans, he has no problem thinking about being on the air for another five years. "When it comes down to it, when I have to take the day off to have meetings, I can't believe anybody does that all day," Dahl says. "I just want to go somewhere and start talking about stuff. So it has become a pretty important part of my life, to have some place to go and unload this stuff. I really do value radio as a medium and the power that it has. So if in some way I've helped to inspire people to get on there and communicate, then that's great. And I know it sounds corny, but the best part of my job is when people come up to me and say, 'I had a tough time several months ago, and listening to you was the only part that got me through it.' That's really inspiring. So in the cases where it actually spawned actual communicating, that's great."

Songs ranked by number of detections. () Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 20 become recurrenents and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

~ Modern Rock Competition 15 Grand Prize Winner ~

"Well I guess I have to stop telling Dave that I suck at AIR! I truly am honored to have won the AIR Competition and to say I was shocked when Dave called me is a gross understatement. I look forward to my weekly conversations with Dave and Mark and value the honest and heartfelt opinions I get from them. It's also a great way to get big picture overviews each week on records in time for my music meeting on Tuesday. Big thanks to Jonas, Dave, Mark, and everyone else at AIR!"

Songs ranked by number of detections. () Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 20 become recurrents and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

Songs ranked by number of detections. ○ Songs showing an increase in detections over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. A song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections. Airpower awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Greatest Gainer awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections. Most Airplay Adds awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week. A song with a gain in detections over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections or each losing detections, the song being played on more stations is placed first. Songs below the top 20 become recurrents and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks.

Songs are blind tested online by Promosquad using multiple listeners and a nationwide sample of carefully profiled music consumers. Songs are rated on a 1-5 scale; final results are based on weighted positives. Songs with a score of 65 or more are judged to have top 10 callout potential, although that benchmark number can fluctuate based on the strength of available music. New Releases are songs that have been recently serviced to or impacted at their respective formats; Recently Tested Songs are the five songs tested during the past month with the highest score. Mainstream Top 40 respondents are divided into two age groups: 13-29 and 13-24. ROSS ON RADIO

BY SEAN ROSS 646-654-4617 • sross@airplaymonitor.com

Country's First Robin Of Spring

For country radio, it might have been the first robin of spring. I was driving into Nashville from the airport for last month's Country Radio Seminar. Country WSIX was playing Jennifer Hansen's "Beautiful Goodbye" and WSM-FM had Deana Carter's "There's No Limit." And I would have been happy hearing either of them.

That shouldn't be an unusual occurrence, but it has been a long time since there were two country stations both playing a record that I wanted to hear at the same time. Tempo and texture have been such rare commodities in country radio of late that I went down to Nashville monthly in 2000 and 2001 and only heard two records that I cared about during the course of 10 months, much less at once.

If I didn't have that experience every time I turned on the radio, it still felt like country radio was getting its energy back. If targeting 18-34 is still a luxury for stations that have to win 35-64, there at least seemed to be more records that a younger listener could handle.

So I looked through all the Airplay Monitor charts to figure out how many records existed in any given format that I cared about hearing. I went through the 40 most-played songs and chose the ones that I'd actually stay in a parked car to listen to this week. They weren't necessarily the songs I thought were real hits, just the songs that I feel passionate about.

- And here's the good news for country:
- Country 10
 - Mainstream top 40 9
 - R&B/hip-hop 9
 - Adult R&B 8
 - Modern rock 8
 - Adult top 40 6
 - Active rock 5
 - Heritage rock 4

That doesn't mean that country radio would have always won the punch. If you like nine songs on an R&B or top 40 station, faster rotations mean that you're likely to hear them a lot sooner than 10 country songs. And if heritage rock doesn't have many currents I care about at the moment, well, "Hair of the Dog" and "Sweet Emotion" would still win a lot of punches. (In fact, the Nashville station I probably spent the most time with was R&B oldies WVOL.)

Then I counted the songs that would actively make me tune out a station: songs that I either intensely disliked or, more often, had just heard too many times. This time, the count was:

- Country 12
- Mainstream top 40 10
- Adult top 40 8
- Rhythmic top 40 7
- Active rock 6
- Adult R&B 5
- R&B/hip-hop 5
- Modern rock 5

That country had both a higher proportion of favorites and least favorites reflects how much music there is left in the A&R pipeline from a few years ago, when being neutral was better than being polarizing. Most of the 12 songs weren't records I really hated—they just weren't songs I thought were worth four minutes of my time. And unlike the other formats, there weren't any country songs that I'd punch out because of burn, although that may be a function of not having access to a local country station and not just the relatively slow rotations.

One more count: were any of my favorites exclusive to a given format?

- Country 9
- Adult R&B 6
- Modern rock 4
- Mainstream top 40 3
- Adult top 40 3
- R&B/hip-hop 2
- Active rock 2
- Rhythmic top 40 0

(There are plenty of songs I like; they're just all shared with R&B or top 40.)

The most obvious sign of any format's health is when the hits are big enough to drive traffic into a station and the stiffs are pretty good, too. For top 40 in 1984 or country in 1993, there was an abundance of riches. Now, the songs that I'd change my plans to hear and the songs that I'd dispatch immediately cancel each other out. And if that's how someone in the music industry feels, how must it be for the listeners?

IS THIS THE BEST radio spot you've heard in the past two years?

Announcer: Advertising is simple. First, you must grab their attention.

Screaming kid: I have to go potty.
Announcer: And presto, your job is done.

Let's try it. Step one.
Screaming kid: Mommmmm!
Announcer: Step two.
Screaming kid: I want Pirro Brothers Pizza!
Announcer: Step three.
Screaming kid: Pirro Brothers! Pirro Brothers!
Announcer: Step four.
Screaming kid: If you let me go to Pirro Brothers, I'll stop making noises.
Announcer: Step five.
Screaming kid (sing-songy): La la la la la la la la la la la la!

Announcer: A little more of step three.
Screaming kid: I want Pirro Brothers! I want Pirro Brothers!
Announcer: And voilà...
Mom (exhausted, giving in): OK!
Announcer: ... Dinner is served!
Screaming kid: Yaaaay!
Announcer: The next time you're hungry, try advertising...
Screaming kid: I want Pirro Brothers!
Announcer: It works! ... Pirro Brothers Gourmet Pizza, in Woodstock on Route 47 next to Dollar Video... Pirro Brothers.

Screaming kid: Are we there yet?
The above, 2001's "Kid Advertising" by Steve McKenzie of suburban Chicago's WZSR, was the Radio Advertising Bureau's Radio-Mercury Award winner for a station-produced spot. In several years of helping judge that category, I've only heard a few other ads I like as much. And many of the entries seem to come from only a handful of stations. If you've heard something you like better this year, the deadline for entries is March 21 at radiomercuryawards.com.
