THE 13TH CMJ MUSIC MARATHON shook the walls of the Waldorf-Astoria last week, a somewhat unlikely location for a convention whose panel topics included "Bitches Ain't Shit but Hos and Tricks" and "The F Word: Being a Feminist in the Music Industry" and whose College Day Keynote speaker was Jello Biafra (who says alternative music is "safe, happy, 'shut up and shop' music"). Good heavens, who let them in? Performers included Matthew Sweet and NYC's The Spelvins, Concrete Blonde, The Verlaines, Rise Robots Rise and Codeine.

FRIDAY NIGHT AT COLUMBIA University found Craig Handy (who you've heard blow tenor for Betty Carter on her last two Verve albums) orchestrating a two-hours-plus extravaganza at Columbia's stately Miller Theatre. Handy has just released his first album as a leader, entitled Split Second Timing (Arabesque) and he proved, for this performance at least, that he's long been ready to assume the mantel; an ensemble that could well have steamrolled out of control was kept focused on the tunes but in no way restricted by Craig's capable hand. Exuberant drummer Ralph Peterson discovered himself flanked by not one but two percussions, one playing in a Brazilian m.o., another African. The band also included renowned pianist Danilo Perez being paired with synth-man Adam Holtzman, who supplied eerie, subliminal chord voicings, adding an extra flavoring of moodiness. Handy's own style is more meditative than grandstanding, although his suave appearance might suggest otherwise, his sound is cool but not cold, graceful but not over-polished, and if I'm not mistaken, I daresay I hear some Joe Henderson influences in there, although Handy is most assuredly his own man.

WHY WAIT FOR THE HOLIDAYS? RuPaul can't! He has just released his own version of "The Little Drummer Boy" (Tommy Boy) and will be doing a U.K. television special with Boy George and Nirvana, among others, in which he will be performing an extra special version of RumpPumpPum.

ATLANTIC'S NEXT HOTSHOT may well be Giovanni Salah, a songwriter of but 23 summers who is bent on having his own sound, which these days mixes a laid-back rap style with electric and acoustic guitars and lush, sung passages with percolating drum loops. The album, Caged Bird, is just out, with two videos about to surface on MTV. The album's most stirring song, "Void The Temptation," will be among them: "A lot of people really like that song," he says, "and a lot of people really get weirded out by that song. It was just one of those songs that came out of me in 10 minutes. Sometimes you're lucky enough to get one of those." The company may be shying away from using it as his first single, as they are a little nervous about its controversial tendencies, though he says it's his favorite.

The album was almost entirely performed by Giovanni and his co-producer/writer Rob C., but his live shows are strictly a two-guitars/bass/drums line-up and tour plans are in the works, possibilities being Duran Duran, Blind Melon and Lenny Kravitz. Until all of that gets underway, he'll be doing more NYC gigs and continuing to write songs for other artists, as he's done for Vanessa Williams. He also produced and wrote tracks for Lisa Lisa's next record.

It doesn't exactly make up for his recent Rock 'n' Roll Hall Of Fame snub, but the announcement that Frank Zappa has been inducted into the Hollywood Rock Walk was good news indeed. Since 1965, Zappa has been at the forefront of musical and technical innovation, so it's only fitting that the Walk, whose new inductees are elected by previous honorees, would honor him. The Rock Walk is at 7245 Sunset and is open seven days. The Yellow Shark, Frank's recordings with Germany's Ensemble Modern, has just been released, through Rhino, on Barking Pumpkin.

SPEAKING OF THE ROCK WALK, the next act to be enshrined will be Emerson, Lake and Palmer, as the groundbreaking progressive rock trio celebrates its 25th anniversary with a noontime November 23 ceremony. On November 16 Victory/Polygram releases The Return Of Manticore (the name of the band's original label), a four-CD box set that gathers much of E.L.P.'s best works and also includes a disc of newly recorded songs associated with the three performers (much from their earlier bands) as well as the first studio recording of the trio's interpretation of Mussorgsky's "Pictures At An Exhibition," a piece that they performed on stage in the early '70s. Victory also issues a new E.L.P. album in 1994.

NOTED HARD ROCK JOURNALIST Jon Sutherland is now hosting This Is L.A., a weekly rock performance show that airs every Saturday late-night at 2:00 a.m. on KCOP, Channel 13. The program tapes on Sundays at W. Hollywood's Troubadour and admission is free. Some of the program's first guests have included Mercury's Greta, funksters Total Eclipse, Hollywood Records act The Things and MCA's Sativa Luvbox. Plans are for the show to turn syndicated for national distribution.

IN BRIEF BUSINESS NEWS, L.A.-based, national hip-hop paper Rap Sheet has announced, in a statement from editor-in-chief Darryl James, that the magazine will no longer carry advertisements containing guns, glorifying extreme violence or containing death threats and called on other publications to follow suit. Said James: "I believe that ads that gratuitously appear to advocate violence with automatic weaponry have no place in a magazine with a substantial portion of urban teen readers."... Author J. Randy Taraborrelli and Motown Records founder Berry Gordy have settled a lawsuit, with no further action due, that had claimed that the writer, in his Michael Jackson: The Magic And The Madness had portrayed Gordy in a light that "seriously and unjustly" injured his reputation. Future editions of the Carol Publishing book will, without admitting wrongdoing, delete the offending remarks.

TALENT REVIEWS

Pearl Jam

By Troy J. Augusto

EMPIRE POLO CLUB, INDIO, CA—Did they live up to all the pre-show hype? Yes and no. When Pearl Jam's singer and lyricist Eddie Vedder is at the top of his game—when he reaches down deep into his soul, like he often did at this Indio show—the band is an engrossing and moving one, lifting often told tales of inner rage and youthful angst to dizzying and affecting new heights. But when reluctant star Vedder is tentative or the focus moves to the rest of this Seattle-based quintet, questions about Pearl Jam's ultimate impact are inevitable.

As it was, the stirring, effective moments by far outweighed the questionable ones at this desert concert. After a slow, anxious start, "Animal," a muscular stomp from the band's new, mega-selling Epic album Vs, provided the 100-minute show's first inspired moment. Startling words of inhumanity were wound around a tightly delivered rhythmic groove that set off a tidal wave of swaying bodies that rolled from the front of the stage to the rear of this giant, dusty field, carrying with it the soul-squeezed exhortations of Vedder.

Other powerful moments, like the police brutality reviling "W.M.A." or hit "Jeremy," with its dramatic and horrifying tale of adolescent suicide, saw Vedder, otherwise an introverted performer, caught up in his art, drawing strength from both his words and his captivated, though reserved audience.

Musical highlight of the show was a mid-set string of music that included the energetic, near-Zep thrash of "Blood," early band hit "Alive," a slick take on "Once" and "Rats," a bizarre tune that portrays people as less respectful than rodents. Naturally, that song was followed by a shoe-throwing spree from some of the assembled who seemed set on proving the song's anti-human sentiment. As the big crowd began filing out, during a particularly lame version of The Who's "Baba O'Reilly," one had to wonder if Mr. Vedder has the necessary internal fortitude to keep Pearl Jam at or near the rock world's cutting edge. This show asked that $64 question but didn't answer it.

Meat Loaf

By Fred L. Goodman

WADSWORTH THEATER, WESTWOOD, CA—It was 16 years in the making, but one of rock's most amazing comebacks has happened. In 1977 Meat Loaf burst upon the rock scene with Bat Out Of Hell, an album that over the span of those 16 years has become a classic. Consistently going gold in the U.S. year after year, the album is now the longest-charting record in British chart history and has sold in excess of 23 million units. All this, plus his odd name, weight, stage presence and acting career made Meat Loaf a cult figure in rockdom, but not a star.

Now with the release and instant success of his long-awaited sequel, Bat Out Of Hell II: Back Into Hell (MCA), Mr. Loaf is mainstream once again. The single, "I'd Do Anything For Love (But I Won't Do That)," is #1, and that's the tune with which he opened his "warm-up for world tour" show that he performed in front of 1,900 adoring fans at the Wadsworth, probably the smallest venue he'll play for a long time.

Culling material from his two Jim Steinman-penned hit albums, the slimmed-down Meatman from Texas sang such favorites as "Two Out Of Three Ain't Bad," "You Took The Words Right Out Of My Mouth," "Bat Out Of Hell" and "Heaven Can Wait" plus new songs "Objects In The Rear View Mirror" and "Life Is A Lemon." His now classic "Paradise By The Dashboard Light" was a fitting encore, with comely background singer Patricia Russo sharing center stage with Meat. Their comical/sexy jousting was a high point. Meat's manic/moving readings of Steinman's highly theatrical tunes made for an evening that was part Springsteen, part Spector and part Lloyd Webber. It's rock 'n' roll at its most dramatic and bombastic—and it's terrific.

Welcome back, Mr. Loaf.

28 TUNESMITHS IN HARMONY: In Harmony With The Homeless is the project brainchild of creative arts therapist Katherine Woodward and independent music publisher David Powell, whose goal it is to give a voice to the men and women who have made it off the streets and are in the process of transforming their lives, and to spread their message of hope and inspiration by creating an album of songs based upon their experiences.

Phase One, led by Powell and Woodward, began last spring at the Los Angeles Mission with the pre-screened group of 14 "Mission Writers" attending five workshops focusing on the craft of songwriting, creative writing exercises and the formulation of song ideas based on the heartwarming and emotional sharings of the individuals in the group.

Phase Two saw the addition of 28 "Pro Writers" pairing off with the Mission Writers for four summer Saturday workshops to turn those stories into finished songs. Engineers, musicians, and producers all donated their time and skills to complete the demos. Award-winning video producers Barbara Kraft and Kert VanderMeulen shot over 10 hours of documentary footage.

A "Demo Party" for the press, media and music industry will be held Wednesday, November 17 at the Troubadour in West Hollywood to coincide with National Hunger and Homelessness Awareness Week. The songs will be performed live by the Mission and Pro Songwriters, as well as by guest artists. Proceeds will benefit the Los Angeles Mission. Woodward and Powell can be reached at (310) 398-9650.

NAS HONORS WEBB: Jimmy Webb is the recipient of the 1993 Lifetime Achievement Award and will be honored at the 8th annual Salute to the American Songwriter benefit concert December 3 at the Wilshire Ebell Theatre in Los Angeles. Paul Williams has been set to host.

Other "writers behind the hits" set to join the festivities are Glen Campbell, Hoyt Axton, Mae Axton, Johnny Mandel, Will Jennings and Dave Frishberg. All proceeds will benefit the educational programs of the National Academy of Songwriters. For more information please call Bobbi Marcus Public Relations at (310) 829-9800 or NAS at (213) 463-7178.

ASCAP SENIORS NAMED: In line with the new ASCAP agenda adopted last month by ASCAP's board of directors, ASCAP COO John A. LoFrumento has appointed five of ASCAP's top managers to the society's new Senior Group. They are: Peter Boyle, chief economist; Todd Brabec, director of membership; L. Barry Knittel, director of licensing; Karen Sherry, director of communications; and Al Wallace, director of operations and systems. A new chief financial officer, to be named shortly, will also be part of the Senior Group. LoFrumento reports to ASCAP president Morton Gould.

DOTTED LINES: MCA Music Publishing has signed a new worldwide co-publishing agreement with songwriter/producer and Grammy award-winning arranger Glen Ballard.

Ballard's credits include having written and produced both of the Wilson Phillips albums and Curtis Stigers' debut lp. He has written hits for Michael Jackson including the Grammy-nominated song "Man In The Mirror" and also written for Trey Lorenz, Barbra Streisand, Quincy Jones and most recently K.T. Oslin. Ballard has been a songwriter on the MCA Music staff for 15 years...Singer/songwriter Kathy Fisher recently signed to Sony Music Publishing. Called "strikingly beautiful and possessed of a vocal range that goes from a husky whisper to a primal scream" by BAM magazine, one of Fisher's songs has been recorded by Katey Sagal (of Married With Children) for her Virgin Records debut, and another will be featured in the upcoming James Spader film, Dream Lover, out in Spring of 1994...Producer/writer Chad "Dr. Ceuss" Elliott signed an exclusive worldwide publishing agreement with PolyGram Music Publishing (PMGP). He is the producer and co-writer of such singles as Johnny Gill's remix of "I Got U," Raven Symone's "That's What Little Girls Are Made Of," Jodeci's "Let's Go Through The Motions" and Heavy D & The Boys' single "You Can't See What I Can See (You're Blind)" from their 1991 multi-platinum album.

INTERNATIONAL

By Christopher Pickard

Peter Gabriel: Rio, my oh me-o!

RIO DE JANEIRO—Less than three weeks separated the visits of Madonna and Michael Jackson to Brazil, allowing the country's critics and public to make direct comparisons between two of the year's biggest tours, two of the world's most closely scrutinized performers; and two of the biggest-selling international artists in Brazil. In the end there was no real competition with Miss Ciccone walking away an easy winner after 70 percent of those interviewed at her Sao Paulo show who had also seen the Jackson show voted in favor of The Girlie Show over the Dangerous Tour. The critics were also unanimous in their choice of Madonna.

Jackson had arrived in Brazil in mid-October on the tail-end of the child molestation charges hitting the world headlines and not surprisingly became even more reclusive than had been expected. Part of the singer's reclusion may have been a result of the news that there had been no takers among possible sponsors for a Rio show. This left Jackson with just two shows in the less exotic, although larger city of Sao Paulo which were backed by Pepsi and Nestle.

Jackson rarely left his Sao Paulo hotel while in Brazil. When he did, his routine included a visit to the city's main amusement park and an aborted attempt to visit the factory of Estrela, one of the largest toy manufacturers in Latin America. This visit resulted in one of Jackson's support vehicles running over two of his fans, one of which was hospitalized with a badly broken leg.

Perhaps the hype surrounding Jackson and his previous tours had been just too much, because the general impression in Brazil was one of disappointment while those that had seen the artist perform before found his two Sao Paulo performances to be cold and bureaucratic.

What disappointment Jackson had caused was not repeated by Madonna who, in Sao Paulo and then Rio, played to the two largest audiences of her career, the sell-out crowds estimated to be around 85,000 at Sao Paulo's Morumbi Stadium and 120,000 at Rio's Maracana Stadium.

As was to be expected, Madonna fell in love with Rio de Janeiro, a city which, perhaps, she felt she had a lot in common with. During her short stay she went sightseeing and dined out with members of her troupe. On the night of her show on November 6, she told the Rio audience that she could not understand why more Americans did not visit Rio or why the city received so much bad press. She also thanked the Rio audience, for showing her that there were still audiences willing to relax and enjoy themselves. American audiences, she said, could learn a lot from the Brazilian ones.

While Jackson had been cold to Brazilian influences, Madonna had taken the time to learn a few words in Portuguese, many of which would be unprintable in most family publications, and to the audiences' delight—and that of its composer, Tom Jobim—included a version of "Girl From Ipanema" in her 17-song set. She ended her show in Sao Paulo dressed in the shirt of the Brazilian soccer team while in Rio she chose a shirt from the city's most popular soccer team, Flamengo.

While Jackson's Sao Paulo shows had been a joint production of Xuxa's production company and DC-Set, Madonna's show finally went to Duetto, the production company best known for staging the annual Free Jazz Festival in Rio and Sao Paulo. It was Duetto's first move into mega-shows and counted on the Brazilian brewer, Antarctica, as its main sponsor.

The 1993 version of Free Jazz, in September, had been highlighted, perhaps surprisingly, by the fierce competition between Chuck Berry and Little Richeard who shared the bill and honors on four separate nights. For jazz purists the main night brought together the Joe Henderson Quartet, McCoy Tyner Trio and Elvin Jones. Another highlight of the event was a tribute to Tom Jobim, which had as its MC, Herbie Hancock. Among musicians taking part were Ron Carter, Shirley Horn, Jon Hendrix, the Cuban pianist, Gonzalo Rubalcaba, Harvey Mason, Alex Acuna, and the Brazilians, Gal Costa and Oscar Castro Neves, as well as the man himself, Tom Jobim. Such was the success of the tribute that it is one to watch for at other festivals in the coming year, including the Montreux Jazz Festival.

With still a month to run in the year, it is unlikely that when the Brazilian critics choose to make their selection of the best shows of 1993 that either Madonna, Jackson, or Free Jazz will top the list. That spot looks likely to go to Peter Gabriel who discreetly gave, in October, what can only be described as the year's best, most eclectic and most politically correct show which had the 3,000 people crammed into Rio's Emperor screaming for more and others who did not attend asking how they had come to miss such a highly rated performance.

Without many of the special effects which normally travel with the Secret World Tour, Gabriel showed in Rio just why he is considered one of the world's most complete performers. His only true rival being Bowie.

While other performers look embarrassed when it comes to foreign languages or foreign ways, Gabriel appeared totally at ease as he talked at length with the audience in Portuguese and performed with Milton Nascimento and the junior drummers of Olodum. Gabriel proved to be a true ambassador of world music in every sense of the word.

The success of Gabriel's tour, as well as those of Madonna and Jackson, prove beyond doubt that despite the continuing economic problems that face the region, Latin America is now a very viable tour option with Buenos Aires, Mexico City, Sao Paulo, Rio de Janeiro, and Santiago leading the way as possible venues. All the tours proved, especially in Brazil, that a visit is rewarded by saturation media coverage and airplay which results in dramatically improved record sales. Madonna, for example, will now be looking for sales to top the 3.6 million units sold in Brazil over the last 10 years.

Other acts now scheduled to perform in Brazil between now and the end of the year include Paul McCartney, Bon Jovi, Jethro Tull, Jerry Lee Lewis, Spin Doctors, Living Colour and Ziggy Marley. January will see the annual Hollywood Rock festival and among the names being discussed are Aerosmith, Whitney Houston and Robert Plant.

Carlito's Way

By John Goff

Sean Penn and Al Pacino; lawyer and client in Carlito's Way

AL PACINO'S PERFORMANCE POWER isn't amazing anymore; it's not surprising or startling the way it used to be. It is, quite simply, trustworthy. You know he's not going to take you down a road you've been down before, you know you're going to get 200% of probably the best actor currently working, and you know you're going to see an absolutely complete character. You don't have to worry if you're going to get your money's worth when you go to see Pacino, you're confident you are—whether the framework around him's worth a damn or not. That's trustworthy.

When that framework around him is complete and polished, as with the current Universal release, Carlito's Way, you not only don't mind the price of admission you don't even resent the overpriced popcorn and watery sodas.

Heading that framework is producer Martin Bregman, whose other teamings with Pacino include Sea Of Love, Scarface, Dog Day Afternoon, and Serpico, and Scarface director Brian De Palma. With that trio to begin with, when the lights go down in the theatre an audience can sigh back in anticipation rather than get their hackles up with a "Show me" attitude.

But it all starts with a solid script by David Koepp, taken from a pair of books by New York State Supreme Court Justice Edwin Torres—Carlito's Way and After Hours. Safe to say the source material is authentic, and Koepp has crafted a ruggedly solid, hard-edged, and at the same time, touching screenplay from it in relating the final period of an anachronistic NY East Harlem, one-time bigshot hood returning from prison with a dream to get out and live peacefully.

De Palma's vision bookends the central story with what appears to be an out-of-body experience, which to a certain extent misleads with a false hope. The beginning sequence is eye-catching in B&W, showcasing cinematographer Stephen H. Burum and sets the acceptance of Pacino's V.O. narration. But it's in the narrative where the misleading occurs, carrying us through the main body of flashback with the feeling Carlito will rise again, sometime. End, in color, picking up the beginning again sees him quickly give up. Ah, but in between those moments is where we live. And we are carried along in great De Palma style; with shock, violence, humor, tenderness and insight.

Pacino's performance is central, and it emerges with every nuance embodied in a human being. He has one moment, discovering his girlfriend/love dancing topless, which is absolutely brilliant, expressing their relationship, his feelings past, present and future, macho, forgiveness of her and himself and ultimate acceptance, love and even pride—without a word. And it is not studied. It's an internal involuntary reaction, an occurrence, a happening. What it is is damned fine Acting.

Sean Penn takes on the role of Carlito's coked-out lawyer who's gone over the edge with the powder. He offers a strong visual of the character to go with the sleazy interior. A solid portrayal.

Penelope Ann Miller is Carlito's dancer-with-the-fading-dream girlfriend. She offers a vulnerable portrait, nicely shaded with simplistic love and the longing not to be hurt, but still willing to follow her heart once more. A fine job. James Rebhorn turns in another solid portrayal as an Establishment stick while managing to inject some humanity. John Leguizamo and Ingrid Rogers get introductory billing here as an up-and-coming hood and sexy playgirl respectively. Both are fine. Luis Guzman and Jorge Porcel turn in interesting portrayals.

Patrick Doyle composed the original music for the film while the majority is taken up, within the club, of source music assembled by music supervisor Jellybean Benitez which keeps an exciting, palpable beat to the action. Look for strong sales on the soundtrack album, available on 550 Music/Epic Soundtrax, and a resurgence of the Billy Preston- and Bobby Fisher-penned, Joe Cocker rendition of "You Are So Beautiful."

Executive producers are Louis A. Stroller and Ortwin Freyermuth and producers with Bregman, Willi Baer and Michael S. Bregman. Film is an Epic Productions presentation, Bregman/Baer Production, Brian De Palma Film for Universal Pictures release.

FILM TALK

By John Goff

Director Orson Welles on sea location, Brazil circa 1942

ORSON WELLES—GENIUS OR GOAT?: Cinematic pioneer or profligate wastrel? Depends on who you talk to, who you read, or whether your heart sides with the creative or the accountant type. The entertainment industry has always held Welles up as a beacon but the entertainment business hasn't. Welles is not the first nor, undoubtedly, will he be the last, to be hailed as a genius, hoisted to the top of the mountain and then be pulled down and torn apart by the very people who put him there. It's the nature of the beast called business. It's also the nature of the industry to need heroes to feed the business. And so it goes, ad infinitum.

It's All True, is the Paramount release of lost footage of the project which gave Welles the reputation that dogged him until the day he died of obsessive filmmaking arrogance and profligacy. It also supports the Welles admirer's opinion that he was a genius and, cleansingly, upholds his claim that he was a victim.

As Welles was being hailed as the new genius after Citizen Kane and World War II erupted he was asked by the U.S. government's Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs (CIAA) Nelson Rockefeller and John Hay Whitney to undertake a filmmaking mission to Brazil. He hurriedly completed filming The Magnificent Ambersons and Journey Into Fear and left with the blessings of all, his studio RKO (Rockefeller was on the studio's board) included. While there, a new regime took over RKO Pictures, hacked up Ambersons, cut off his funds for the South American filming, kicked his production company off the lot and blamed it all on the working man. Welles continued to film with his own funds because he cared about the communicative concern and creative integrity of the project on which he was involved. It is this footage that was, until September of 1985, "lost." It was discovered in a vault at Paramount Studios which, years ago, purchased RKO. It has now been cut together as a silent with music added, and it glowingly holds up, a tribute to creativity. Without dialogue it tells a comprehensible story, in cinematic terms which the majority of the current crop of overpriced auteurs can't touch with all the technology they have at their fingertips.

Welles continued to make movies, as an actor and director, funding his own projects mostly out of pocket from acting work. His worth as a filmmaker was never utilized fully by the studios because of that early reputation, and what some consider to be a conspiracy amongst the "controllers" but his genius was recognizable in whatever he undertook to do. And his concern for creativity and the freedom of creative people never failed to move him.

He hired on as a performer in Butterfly, a film based on the James M. Cain book from which I had crafted a screenplay in the early '80s. The role was a relatively small one, but pivotal, a Judge. It needed a commanding presence and Welles became it. He took that role and went beyond what was on paper, beyond what was expected. He created and displayed subtext to the character which went even beyond what Cain himself had written. "Creative differences" regarding the ending of the project arose and changes were made which considerably weakened it and brought it down from what it should have been. Some years later I was told by a source close to Welles at the time that he had opposed the alterations from the text he had initially read and accepted and had made his objections known. His objections were noted and filed away, but the alterations remained.

Whether absolutely true or not I have no way of knowing, but what I find interesting about that is; this occurred almost 40 years after the man's own bitter experience, and it said to me that Orson Welles was still concerned about the integrity of the creative endeavors and spirit of others so long after living with the rejections and thefts of creativity that would have destroyed a lesser human, that he believed so in creativity, the indomitable spirit remained intact.

At a screening of It's All True I ran into Gary Graver, a director and friend I had worked for in the past who also was Welles' cinematographer. Gary told me he was with Welles when word came from Paramount of the discovery of It's All True. It was offered to Welles who mused over it a few days and then said no... Too far in the past? Too painful? Or had the creative spirit of one of the great artists of the industry finally been crushed? Had the business at last succeeded? A month later, Orson Welles died.

VIDEO REVIEWS

By John Goff

ELVIS PRESLEY WAS A MONEY-MAKING MACHINE. In the Hollywood Business vernacular, that translates into Mega-Hit!; Wonderful!; Star!; Acceptable! Hal Wallis summed it up for the "Biz" when he stated, "A Presley picture is the only sure thing in show business." And when you become a $ icon in H'wood (especially in the '50s and '60s era), kiss your creative dreams so long. Gelson's doesn't exchange beans for dreams. Neither does Ralph's. None of them do. Never have, never will. That's reality.

A November release from BMG Video, Elvis In Hollywood, looks at the beginning film career of a young Elvis. It's the portrait of a dreamer, with hopes and aspirations, unaware (along with everyone else) at the time of the ultimate impact he was having upon the world. Focusing on the first four, and best, films of Presley's career—Love Me Tender, Loving You, Jailhouse Rock and King Creole—through film clips and interviews with Presley, intimates and persons connected with the projects it offers a picture of a young man hungry to learn and become an Actor.

Unmentioned but inherently present, when considering what transpired after those four films, is the picture of the ultimate Hollywood Business dream: A performer who can turn a profit no matter what the framework around him. No need for creativity, challenge or change, all of which are costly. But there is cost on the other side also, the stifling of dreams, talent and determination; elements business doesn't recognize, or at least, attempts to ignore.

Jerry Schilling wrote the narration and produced Elvis In Hollywood for BMG. Schilling, who grew up in Memphis, met Presley in 1954 when he was 11 years old and went to work full time for him 10 years later, told Cash Box that the motivation for doing Elvis In Hollywood and focusing on this early period of Presley's film work was to "go back to the essence of what he was doing," to show that Presley was serious about a career as an actor, and not the joke that some consider him to be.

Within the body of the piece you can hear the enthusiasm in Presley's voice as he talks about the initial screen test he made for Hal Wallis, an acting test for the supporting role of Jimmy Curry in The Rainmaker. He didn't want to sing in films and Love Me Tender started as a non-musical but then Business decreed Presley was wasted without music; music was inserted. The youth who had dreamed in movie houses in rural Mississippi and Tennessee of being on that screen wasn't able to prevent what happened after that and that initial enthusiasm waned. Unfortunately, all that remains of that acting test are still shots, but they are dynamic and reveal the enthusiasm and conviction behind the eyes of the performer.

In the years that Schilling was close to Presley he says the performer "studied" movies and even challenged Hal Wallis as to the fact that his movies (Wallis had him under a seven-picture contract) made enough money for Wallis to permit prestigious projects like his (Wallis') Becket and then asked, "Mr. Wallis, when do I get my Becket?" He was never given that, nor the opportunity to develop. As voiced on the tape by Jailhouse Rock AD Bob Relyea, "I don't think he ever was challenged." Essentially the same feelings are expressed by Hal Kanter, Loving You director and others.

Schilling, who opened Jerry Schilling Management in 1975, is also agent and consultant for Elvis Presley Enterprises and has been closely connected with other projects involving the Presley image, which is just as large as it was at the time of Presley's death. Sitting in his offices on Sunset, surrounded by Presley memorabilia, Schilling admits that even 15 years after Elvis' death there is a void, that it's hard to imagine at times his not still being here. That seems to be true with millions of people and it's interesting to pose the question: What if?... What if, those businessmen in control had encouraged and allowed such a potent natural force to develop beyond what it did accomplish? Those possibilities could be endless. But then a darker question would be: Why didn't they? And the ironic answer to that is: money. Perhaps this would have been a case where to go for the two in the bush rather than squeezing the one in the hand would have been even more profitable.

■ DEPECHE MODE: "One Caress" (Sire 6626)
 Interesting new cut from Depeche Mode's latest Violator album is more proof that Martin Gore and Co. have no immediate plans to lose their always-innovative creative sensibilities. Sweeping love song has a lushly arranged string accompaniment that handsomely frames Gore's warm and tender lyrics. (Heavy violins may prevent much radio play, though.) Co-producer Flood (of U2 fame) turns in his usual sharp effort. Band's sold-out tour arrives at L.A.'s Forum for five nights beginning this Saturday.

■ TERENCE TRENT D'ARBY: "Let Her Down Easy" (Columbia 77231)
 Sassy slice from Sir D'Arby's latest "Symphony Or Damn" album is an odd mix of tender, sweetly delivered ballad and risqué, misogynistic verse that finds Terence struggling with the decision to sleep with a 17-year-old or not. While subject matter may prevent round-the-clock top-40 airplay, song's accessible, light production almost makes this one too difficult to ignore. Could this beauty be the one to finally land D'Arby his much promised return to the top 'o the charts? Unfortunately, no.

■ DARYL HALL: "Stop Loving Me, Stop Loving You" (Epic 5554)
 Hall's current Epic album, Soul Alone, has gotten off to a slow start, but that could very well change with the issue of this radio-friendly, dance rave that has multi-format acceptance written all over it. Thoughtful, sweeping production from Michael Peden also adds to this tune's mainstream appeal. No word yet on a tour for Hall, who always wows 'em in the live setting.

■ BAD COMPANY: "Ready For Love" (Atco 5322)
 Classic track from this veteran band's extensive catalog is our first peak at What You Hear Is What You Get, Bad Co.'s first ever live album. It's not the same without original singer Paul Rodgers, who apparently pulls clumps of hair from his head every time he hears this version of the band (featuring vocalist Brian Howe), but this incarnation of Bad Co. has actually been together longer than the original line-up was.

PICK OF THE WEEK

■ BELLY: "Gepetto" (Sire 18358)
 One of the many highlights of Belly's nifty live show is this sweet, melodic tune, whose single release gives this Boston-based three-piece, fronted by the lovely and talented Tanya Donnelly, its first legit shot at top-40 success. "Feed The Tree," the first single/video from Belly's current Star release, was a big hit at alternative and college radio, formats that will also enjoy "Gepetto." Look for a quick move to hits radio once the buzz on this lovely song begins. Keep an eye also on Donnelly, who appears to have just enough pleasant charisma and songwriting talent to blossom into a media star in her own right.

REVIEWS by Troy J. Augusto

■ K.D. LANG: Even Cowgirls Get The Blues (Sire 45433)

Who better to score this movie of a girl's asphalt-lined search for freedom and self-worth than the wonderful miss lang? Along with long-time collaborator Ben Mink, k.d. has crafted an elegant and moving soundtrack that further establishes her as one of contemporary music's most eloquent and thoughtful chanteuses. From the tender "Hush Sweet Lover" to the playful lead track "Just Keep Me Moving" to the country-tinged "Curious Soul Astray," lang weaves an irresistible musical fabric that warms all who wear it. A gem.

■ VARIOUS ARTISTS: No Alternative (Arista 18737)

This album is the latest in the Red Hot AIDS benefit series and features a who's who from the world of modern and alternative rock music. The CD has 18 tracks, including unreleased music from Soundgarden, Urge Overkill, Matthew Sweet, Beastie Boys and Pavement. Highlights include Buffalo Tom's "For All To See," the Goo Goo Doll's sharp cover of the Rolling Stone's "Bitch," Soul Asylum doing Marvin Gaye's "Sexual Healing" and the delightfully talented Sarah McLaughlin doing "Hold On." Look for hidden Nirvana track.

■ BODEANS: Go Slow Down (Slash/Reprise 45455)

Now that the music world has finally caught up with Wisconsin's Bodeans, maybe the band will finally start to see some of the success that it's been due since the issue of its 1986 debut. The homey, soothing vocals of Sam Llanas and Kurt Neuman, the band's rootsy, "li'l bit o'country" style and fresh sound and its tales of everyday struggle make for an accessible group whose time has come. "Idaho," the sensuous title track and "Texas Ride Song," a snappy cowboy dance number, are this frisky, satisfying album's best.

■ MUDHONEY: Five Dollar Bob's Mock Cooter Stew (Reprise 45439)

New project from one of the original Seattle grunge combos (some say they were the first, but the Young Fresh Fellows beat them to it) is this seven-track mini-alb that offers four new punk-y tunes, the best of which is a Stooges-like "Six Two One," two b-sides ("Deception Pass" and "Underide") and a re-recording of "Make It Now," a song from the band's 1992 record. Recorded in four days (and sounds like it), this one's a tasty, raw treat that'll nicely tide fans 'til the next full-lengthier, due next year.

■ IRON MAIDEN: A Real Dead One (Capitol 89248)

The second live set of the year from this legendary Brit metal outfit is comprised of the band's oldest material, recorded earlier this year in a number of European concert halls. Old faves like "Sanctuary," the dramatic "Hallowed Be Thy Name," live staple "The Trooper," evil "Number Of The Beast" and oldie "Running Free" all sound as frightening and sordid as ever. Singer Bruce Dickinson has quit the band, so this here's his last appearance with the group he's fronted since 1982. Pentagrams for all.

■ FOREIGNER: Classic Hits Live (Atlantic 82525)

Concert set collects the New York band's best live moments, including some never-before-heard nuggets. Foreigner's biggest hits are all here, including the smash "I Want To Know What Love Is," "Cold As Ice," "Juke Box Hero" and "Feels Like The First Time," the band's first success. Album tracks like the dirty "Women," power ballad "Damage Is Done" and "Dirty White Boy," as well as unreleased covers of Buddy Holly's "Not Fade Away" and "Love Maker," from a 1977 radio broadcast, complete this fine Foreigner roundup.

■ CHUNE: Burnt (Headhunter 026)

Never has a case for the old "music is just music" argument been made clearer than on this seven-song debut from San Diego scenesters Chune, a mixed-up and rowdy pot-smoking alternapunk crew that eschews songs of political intrigue (the latest thing!) and correctness in favor of songs that simply sound good. "We write songs about the strange little things that go on around us" says bassist Mike Truffa, a musician who works days in a mental lock-up. No doubt this twisted record is a big hit there. Play "Pasta Ragioli."

PICK OF THE WEEK

■ KATE BUSH: The Red Shoes (Columbia 53737) Producer: Kate Bush. First album in four years from the mysterious Bush is perhaps her most satisfying effort since her 1978 debut, Lionheart. Layered thick with the same striking drama and affecting lyrical twists as her previous work, The Red Shoes takes a big step forward musically, as sly arrangements and moving, atmospheric structures add to the album's sensual appeal. Best of this beautiful collection includes the frisky "Eat The Music" (read the lyrics and you'll never look at fruit the same way again), lovely "And So Is Love" (her voice has never sounded better), and "Why Should I Love You," a moving semi-ballad that features guest Prince. Now if only she'd tour . . .

REVIEWS by M.R. Martinez

■ LOUIE RANKIN: Lethal Weapon (Mesa R2 79063). Producers: Various.

This guy counts as an original "O.G." in the dancehall toasting universe. Combining broad humor, ribald sexism (is that redundant?) and some of the best production heard in a long time on such records, Louie stays constantly engaging while employing slight reggae riddim, R&B/funk fusion and hip-hop sensibilities to make this diverse collection attractive. Top tracks include "Put On Your Neglige," "Stretch Out," "Girls Perform" (featuring rap by Mike Smoothie), "Fat Nuff" and "Louie, Louie."

■ JOMANDA: Nubia Soul (Atlantic Big Beat 7 82504). Producers: Various.

They all trade lead vocals with equally effective skill and they sound like the classic retro-soul girl group. They'll inevitably be compared to Jade and other groups that employ the Supremes trio configuration to deliver the soul. Respectable songwriting is framed by respectable production. The harmonies are smoother than some of the leads, but tracks such as "Don't Deny" (a midtempo rollicker), "I Cried The Tears" (an uptempo dancer track) and "Back To You" (a funky love ballad) demonstrate this handsome act's range.

■ PUDGEE, THA PHAT BASTARD: Give 'Em The Finger (Giant 9 24498-2). Producers: Trak Masterz & others.

This album is dedicated to revenge and delusion, according to Pudgee. Check out tracks like "Check Out The Noiz Niggas," and you have a sampling of what this homeboy is up to. Red Hot Lover Tone and the rest of the Trak Masterz crew have done some phat production. If only they hadn't dissed him as a child. Pudgee's got major league mike skills, it's just a shame the inspiration for their demonstration is not more upscale. Although as hard as his other tomes, "Checkin' Out The Ave." looms as one of the best balanced tracks on this album.

■ 10' BELOW: 10' Below (Flashpoint/Priority P2 53870). Producer: C.J. Moore.

Let's talk about hip-hop funk. Then we can talk about 10' Below. They get funky with a sense of humor and adventure through the production on this 10-track debut for Flashpoint. C.J. Moore's production goes from the funk to the blues. Seventies funk is in full effect, but not sampled into a trite haze. While the lyrics are sometimes questionable and inane, tracks like "Poverty Blues" and "Midnight Thief" show up large. They like to have horizontal fun, too. So check out "Hey, Hottie."

PICK OF THE WEEK

■ SHABBA RANKS: Rough & Ready, Vol. II (Epic EK 57203). Producers: Various.

Shabba ranks high in the dancehall universe because he manages to find hybrid grooves for his sex-me-up attack. On this album, he brings the diverse likes of Maxi Priest, KRS-One and Krystal to his party. And Shabba chants with strength. With Brit reggae soul crooner Maxi Priest, Shabba has created a solid following with the track "Housecall (Your Body Can't Lie To Me)." The American hip-hop flavor is in major evidence on the re-made track "Ting-A-Ling," which is produced by Marley Marl & K-Def. But he really gets busy on the dancehall/hip-hop mixture of the track "The Jam," featuring KRS-One. Major growth in the house on this collection.

THE RHYTHM

The Beatrice Berry Show got a special treat recently, when the host (top) got a double dose of soul from Mercury recording artists Oleta Adams and Will Downing (both seated at the piano). Adams is out in support of her latest album Evolution, the follow-up to her platinum album Circle of One, and Downing was making an advance trip to Chicago in support of his newest album, Love's The Place To Be, featuring the single "There's No Living Without You."

SAMPLES: Brit-based torch songstress Sade will bow her first television special Nov. 24 for PBS, a filmed concert titled, Sade: An In The Spotlight Special. Part of PBS' WNET/New York's pop music series, the concert footage was culled from the Epic recording artist's 1993 world tour in support of her recent album Love Deluxe. Most of the footage comes from a show at San Diego State University's Open Air Theatre. In The Spotlight executive producer David Horn says: "[Sade's] an ideal choice for public television because, as an artist, Sade has created a very unique and individual style." ...Donna Summer, Taylor Dayne, Gloria Gaynor, Thelma Houston, Jade, Shai, Sister Sledge, The Spinners and The Stylistics are among the acts that will be featured Tuesday (Nov. 16) on the NBC-TV special A '70s Celebration: The Beat Is Back. The Ken Ehrlich Production was taped before a live audience at Los Angeles' Wiltern Theatre...Pacifica Radio on Nov. 19 & 20 will broadcast the live concert commemorating the 20th anniversary of the soulful a cappella group Sweet Honey In The Rock. Pacifica will broadcast from Cramton Auditorium on the Howard University campus...Lyrics from Lullabies To Dreamland, the 1991 children's album by songstress Deniece Williams, will be published as part of a Harvest House Publisher's book that will also feature illustrations by artist Matt Hall.

Reggae crooner Beres Hammond recently inked a deal with Elektra Entertainment. Pictured after the signing are (l-r): David Bither, senior vp/gm, Elektra Entertainment; Hammond; Dante Ross, vp of A&R, Elektra; Elaine Valentine, director of operations, urban marketing and promotion, Elektra; Mervis Walsh, Hammond's manager; and Fred Jackson, manager of urban marketing, Elektra.

Bad Boy Entertainment was just inked into the Arista Records universe (see story below). According to Bad Boy chief Sean "Puffy" Combs, the company's roster includes underground rapper Kraig Mack, female vocal trio Total 3 and hip-hop singer Q. Pictured at post-signing schmooze session are (l-r): Roy Lott, Arista executive vp/gm; Arista; Combs; Janice Combs; Clive Davis, Arista president; and Kirk Burrowes, Bad Boy gm.

BAD BOYS ON THE BLOCK: "Wunderkind" aptly applies to 22-year-old former A&R vp and producer Sean "Puffy" Combs, who just recently inked a pact with Arista Records for marketing and distribution of all artists signed to Bad Boy Entertainment, owned by his mother Janice Combs. Puffy Combs is credited with shepherding the debut albums by Jodeci and Mary J. Blige to double platinum status. Combs also has produced or remixed tracks for Heavy D. & The Boyz, Father MC, Christopher Williams, Keith Sweat and Supercat. In addition to the double platinum albums, he is credited with five gold singles, eight #1 singles and two #1 albums. If that weren't enough, Combs has directed videos by artists like Jodeci, Heavy D. and Erick Sermon.

Kirk Burrowes, former marketing manager for Orion Pictures and co-promoter of New York Live, has been named general manager of the new label. The roster of the new company includes underground street rapper Kraig Mack, female vocal trio Total 3 and hip-hop singer Q. The label's first release early next year will feature Kraig Mack.

A PARIS PRIORITY: Paris, the Oakland, CA-based rapper who called for the death of former president George Bush, has signed his Scarface Records into a deal with Priority Records. The pact calls for Paris to deliver several albums over the long haul. Paris is currently in the studio recording his debut album under the deal. The record is due in February. Priority's first Scarface release is the Paris-produced debut album by Oaktown rappers Conscious Daughters, which is due out in late November.

They can't seem to stop the EFX as EastWest recording act Das EFX is riding a cresting wave with the single "Freakit" from the duo's album Straight Up Sewaside, the follow-up to their platinum-plus debut Dead Serious. The group recently completed shooting a video to "Freakit" in Los Angeles. Pictured are (l-r): Books of Das EFX; Blitz, a road manager; Michelle Webb, director of video production, EastWest; DJ Dice and Crazy Drayz of the group; Wayne Isham, video producer; and Cury Mavis, video producer.

RAP SINGLE REVIEWS

By Dr. Bayyan

■ DOMINO: "Ghetto Jam" (Outburst/RAL OSK 77298).

This record has caused a big buzz and is being re-serviced in the marketplace because of the deal between Outburst and RAL/Chaos. The buzz probably started as soon as people peeped the phat bass line and the sturdy drum groove click trackin' on top. Domino flows easily between sing-song, rap-rap delivery. Not quite alternative, but not mainstream ghetto ghoulish madness either.

■ MELLO K. FEATURING SHAWNY RANKS: "Do Me" (L.A. Boy 60855-5770-2).

This is all about sex. It's about the prodigious skills of one Mello K., who wants to do and be done. Shawny Ranks breaks through with some tasty chant interludes. The music transcends the mega beat and offers some textural variety. After awhile, however, the constant sexual imagery is like a porno movie—it leaves very little to the imagination.

■ MR. MYSTIC: "Back Up, Baby (Why You Stressin' Me?)" (THG Music CDP 1057).

Mr. Mystic seems to be delivering an autobiographical tale of how his baby girl stressed him while he's in the midst of honing his skills as a hip-hop entertainer. However, there's not enough tension in Mystic's delivery. Even though some of the lyrics hit the mark, there's not enough punch in the flow to get the question—"Why you stressin' me?"—answered.

CONTEMPORARY CHRISTIAN

COVER STORY

Michael W. Smith: Christian Music's Boy Wonder

By Kathleen A. Ervin

FOR THE UNINITIATED, Contemporary Christian music, that often curious mix of message and music, is relegated to church and the hard-to-find bin at the local record shop. Artists like Michael W. Smith have been changing the musical status quo with a patented brand of positive pop and an equally positive presence that widely appeals to consumers old and young alike as well as the more discerning radio programmer. But none of this is new to Smith, who, for the past 10 years, has done his fair share of stretching the limits in both the mainstream and Christian marketplace. Defining the growing genre of Christian pop in the early '80s and now in the '90s, Smith has become a textbook example of crossover success.

Smith's across-the-board commerciability has proved he can hold his own in the often fickle and political mainstream, and is not just a product of accidental niche marketing. Strong management, namely Blanton/Harrell of Nashville, Tennessee and an equally decisive artist development team at Reunion Records, has achieved many calculated firsts in the last 10 years.

With over eight albums and two videos totaling 4.5 million in catalog sales, Smith has four gold-certified albums: Change Your World; Go West Young Man; i 2(EYE); and Michael W. Smith Project. His Change Your World tour played to an impressive half million people in 1993's sluggish concert market. He is the recipient of a Grammy, countless Doves, an American Music Award and received the dubious honor of People magazine's "50 Most Beautiful People" in '92. From the Tonight Show to Live With Regis and Kathie Lee, the guy from Kenova, West Virginia, population 5,000, has seen a lot of his hard work pay off.

In retrospect, it doesn't seem that long ago when Smith first appeared in 1982 at the piano for Amy Grant's Age to Age tour. "That was my first memory," recalls Smith. "Going out and opening up for Amy Grant. The first real introduction. I had just made a record—the Project album—and all of a sudden I was thrust out playing for Amy in theatres. It was a bit overwhelming. I spent two-and-a-half years on the road with her. What a way to start."

Seemingly endless were the countless awards, accolades and #1 radio hits the young Smith would garner. While he was busy building his own audience on the road with Grant, Project was quickly becoming a hit. His second album Michael W. Smith 2 would put him back on the road with Grant's Straight Ahead tour in '84 and land him a Grammy for Best Gospel Performance (Male).

The years that followed would be a blur of non-stop touring and recording. Notes Smith, "I don't have any bad memories of my career in terms of all the stuff we've done. It's really been an adventure, a journey and I feel like we progressively moved up. There hasn't been any dips. It's been a slow and steady move up the ladder."

Perhaps the only noticeable disappointment for Smith resulted from 1985's The Big Picture. Co-produced by John Potoker, this third album was a significant stylistic departure from Smith's prior self-produced albums. Lots of programming, synthesizers, keyboards and arrangements created a sound that was progressive for the secular market, let alone Christian. "Lamu," "Pursuit of A Dream," and "Wired For Sound" were songs that reflected the musical atmosphere of the day and were nothing short of stunning in concert. Critics praised the results and there were rumblings that there might be crossover potential in the single "Wired For Sound." However, it was not to be. Despite a Grammy nomination and Dove award for The Big Picture, Smith shelved his hopes of getting his music out to mainstream pop.

Remembers Smith, "I was disillusioned, but I learned a lesson. I was chasing it a bit and I decided to really back off. This music business is too fickle anyway. Just be who you are and make great records. If it is meant for you to crossover to the pop market, let it happen naturally. And that's all we did."

Smith wins 1988 Dove award for Long Form Video of the Year—The Big Picture Concert Video.

Smith's patience would pay-off. In 1991, Go West Young Man would produce Smith's first mainstream hit. With Reunion Records' newly inked distribution and limited marketing agreement with Geffen Records, the pump was primed. Recalls Smith, "I always felt that 'Place In This World' really had a shot, even when I wrote it. It was my belief if we got the right people, got the record company to believe in it, this thing could be a hit. I was at the right place at the right time with the right people."

Actually it was a bit more difficult than that. The single originally released to adult contemporary formats was stalling on the charts until a Geffen radio promoter championed the song to both the label and radio programmers. The calculated risk paid off in a #1 AC hit while CHR landed the single in the Top 15. Smith's foot was in the mainstream pop's door and the rest as they say is history.

While the secular industry has apparently been able to swallow the religious quotient in Smith's music, there are still the conservative hold-outs in the Christian market that can't or won't assimilate Smith's new pop stardom into their playlists or album shelves. Whether it's a problem with lyrics to Smith's latest single, "Kentucky Rose," or the fact that he has hosted VH-1 which advertises condoms and beer, the small but vocal right wingers have made their position clear by refusing to play a particular song or sell a certain album.

Smith's response to this is one of ongoing disappointment. "I think it's sad. I think that people have a very, very narrow view of life. For them things have to be done in a certain way." It's this legalistic, black or white approach, all too common in Christian music, that Smith feels contributes to the mainstream's cautious distance of anything that hints at religion. "You've got these people who are a bit out to lunch, a very small but vocal minority. People like Jimmy Swaggart and Jim Baker are begging for money. There are people that get all bent out of shape because Amy Grant's singing 'Baby, Baby.' [We don't judge what she's doing but she is a pop artist.] People see all of this, and it becomes people's perception of Christianity."

While Smith understands and appreciates the Christian music industry's sometimes militant need to maintain the integrity of what it's doing, that particular approach remains far removed from his own work. He insists he has never written music to fit a particular marketplace. "Who knows what my next album will be like. I've walked a fine line when I did Go West.... I knew Geffen was going to get involved with the record, and I had this song 'Agnus Dei' that was a worship song that I wrote for my church. My spirit, my heart, told me, 'You need to record this song.' The other part of me, my mind—trying to figure out this music business—said, 'Oh you can't put this song on here. Geffen will not know where you're coming from.' The whole record is very pop and all of a sudden we've got this worship song on here. I battled that and you know what? I went with what my heart told me. I put it on the record. I didn't care what they thought. I just knew that this song needed to be on the record."

"I hope I can always make a judgment call from that standpoint and not put some songs on a record just because I think Geffen or RCA is going to think 'Gosh, he's on the gospel crusade.' And, who knows, I might add two songs or eight songs about God on the next album. It does not matter to me. I choose not to write for a certain marketplace. I want to be myself. My faith is the most important thing in my life, and the love of Jesus changed my life. It's a personal relationship. A lot of people don't understand it, but it has changed me. That's what drives me. That's what makes me write."

What will the next 10 years bring? Writing for his next album holds his immediate attention and time. He's currently working on his second book, Place In This World, a more mature follow-up to '87's popular Old Enough To Know. Work continues on opening a legitimate nightclub near his homebase called Rocket Town. There might even be a possible acting career looming in the horizon. "I think if I found the right script with a positive message I might consider it."

Smith shrugs it off as a possibility, not a necessity. "For me a lot of things have always been, if it happens, great, if it doesn't, no big deal. I've always thought that I had what it takes to be a long-term artist. I can continue to do this 10 years from now." Just as long as it doesn't take him from his family of five, wife, Debbie, and the hills of Franklin, Tennessee.

"I get a lot of letters and just got one recently that came from a girl who really had some horrendous stuff in her life going all the way back to abuse as a child. Her letter said: 'I've never heard of you before, and I was listening to my radio station and heard "Place In This World." It just changed my life. I'm a better person. I gave my heart to the Lord. I have a family now. My whole life is changed.' Her life is great now, and it's all because she heard 'Place In This World' on a pop station. Now that's neat."

On hand for the big-screen premiere of Smith's Change Your World Live are some old friends (l-r): Gary Chapman; Reunion CEO, Terry Hemming; Amy Grant; Smith; and Smith co-manager Mike Blanton of Blanton/Harrell Inc.

Judd Memoirs: Love Can Build A Bridge; PLUS Ashley Judd in award-winning film role

NASHVILLE—It was three years in the making. Naomi Judd, the Cinderella of country music, has completed her autobiography, Love Can Build A Bridge (Village Books, $24.00, December 1, 1993). The 560-page hardcover volume, profusely illustrated with 80 revealing photographs, has a first printing of 350,000 copies. The Judds were on top of the world and at the pinnacle of fame when Naomi made the announcement that she was being forced to retire because of a life-threatening liver disease. Their Farewell Concert, televised on cable, was the most successful musical show in pay-per-view history. "As we stood hand-in-hand, beginning our last song together," Naomi writes, "I knew this was the bottom of the ninth in the World Series with the bases loaded and Wynonna up to bat. As I joined my dearest companion in harmony for our last time, it was like lucid dreaming."

Then the curtain fell on one of the most beloved acts ever. Naomi spent the next two years in isolation, combating hepatitis and reliving for this book her life and career—a saga which her long-time manager Ken Stilts jokingly calls "part Greek tragedy, part soap opera." Funny, shocking, wise, spirited and vulnerable, this is a behind-the-scenes look into the Judds' private life that spares no one and nothing. Here for the world to share is the whole complex, pyrotechnic, on-and-off stage relationship between Naomi & Wynonna—"beloved enemies," in Wynonna's words, who were literally too close for comfort but joined at the hip. Here too, is what Naomi's younger daughter Ashley calls "the indomitable spirit of the Judd matriarchy," embodied in the former nurse's dedication to gaining control over her disease by bringing mind and body into harmony. "Wynonna, Ashley and I are the quintessential rags-to-riches story," Naomi writes. "Tangible examples of the American dream, hope sellers, and living proof that it pays to believe in miracles. In our struggles and triumphs you glimpse the prospect of your own."

NASHVILLE—The award-winning motion picture, Ruby In Paradise, starring Ashley Judd, will mark its Nashville premiere with a benefit screening for My Friends House, a Nashville shelter for abused teens on Monday, November 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the Carmike Cool Springs Galleria Cinemas in Franklin, TN. Judd, along with her family and friends will be in attendance to greet Nashvillians who come not only for an evening of entertainment, but also to help a very worthy cause.

Ruby In Paradise, the winner of the Grand Jury Prize at The Sundance Film Festival, is an October Films release and is written and directed by acclaimed independent filmmaker, Victor Nunez. It is the story of Ruby Lee Gissing (Ashley Judd), who is on the run, determined to find a better place and time than her past closed world of the mountains of Tennessee. Tickets for the Nashville premiere may be purchased from My Friend's House, 626 Eastview Drive, Franklin, TN for a tax-deductible price of $7.00. For more information call (615) 790-8553.

Curb/MCA Records superstar Wynonna recently gathered with family and friends to celebrate the success of her 1992 solo debut, Wynonna, the first studio album by a female country artist to sell triple platinum (3,000,000 copies). Wy's latest album, Tell Me Why, is also a platinum hit, with well over 1,000,000 sold to date. Pictured (l-r) are: Bruce Hinton, chairman, MCA Records/Nashville; Mike Curb, chairman, Curb Records; Al Teller, chairman, MCA Music Entertainment Group; Curb/MCA artist Wynonna; Ashley Judd; Naomi Judd; and Ken Stilts, manager of Wynonna.

Knockin' The Boots

HOUSTON—Reprise/Warner Bros. recording artist Dwight Yoakam recently co-hosted MTV's very first country music special, Knockin' The Boots, which aired twice in the first week of November. Along with MTV VJ Duff at his side in Houston, Yoakam co-hosted this 60-minute program featuring country music videos, interviews and live-performance footage. Yoakam was seen in three videos including "Fast As You" and "A Thousand Miles From Nowhere" from his current platinum album, This Time, plus "Suspicious Minds" from the Honeymoon In Vegas soundtrack, as well as performing live in Houston from a concert filmed in late September. Why Dwight? Perhaps Vanity Fair said it best when they noted, "Yoakam strides the divide between rock's lust and country's lament."

In other Yoakam news: Peter Fonda, Dennis Hopper and Yoakam were joined by an eclectic array of celebrities for the grand opening of Thunder Roadhouse, the Sunset Strip eatery, motorcycle shop and clothing emporium they co-own. As reported in USA Today, over 1,300 friends came out to join the festivities. "This is a place guys on bikes can come to and feel comfortable," says Yoakam. "Our motto is: 'Thunder Roadhouse, where they're not ashamed of you.'" Meanwhile, the clothing store sells Dwight's own hip clothing line, DY Ranch Wear.

SMOKE OUT, MAN!—November 18 is the date of the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout: an upbeat, good-natured effort to encourage smokers to give up cigarettes for 24 hours. This year, the Tennessee Division of the American Cancer Society is honored to have as its Honorary Chairman, George Lindsey, co-star of the new Hee Haw Live show, scheduled to open on May 6, 1994, at the Roy Acuff Theater at Opryland USA. A three-pack-a-day smoker for many years, Lindsey gave up the habit 2 1/2 years ago. "I want to ask all smokers to give up cigarettes for at least 24 hours on Smokeout day," Lindsey says. "Do it and join the quitters' club. You'll be glad you did!" For more smokeout information call (800) ACS-2345. You'll be glad you did.

HEAVEN ON EARTH: The Honky Tonk Angels—Loretta Lynn, Dolly Parton and Tammy Wynette—are flanked by Sony and Columbia Nashville executives at the press conference and private reception to celebrate the November release of Honky Tonk Angels, at the Country Music Hall of Fame in Nashville. Pictured (l-r) are: Jack Lameier, veepee of Sony Nashville promotion; Roy Wunsch, president of Sony Nashville; Lynn; Parton; Wynette; Steve Buckingham, veepee of Columbia A&R; and Connie Baer, veepee of Sony Nashville marketing. The release has been hailed as an artistically rich and historically important album.

REVIEWS by Brad Hogue

The second single from his Atlantic debut, A Little Piece Of Heaven, "You Can't Get There From Here" was written by Keith Stegall & Roger Murrach. A melodic ballad which showcases Ballard's soulful style of country, the tune sees Roger seeking sanctuary from his broken heart in another time and place. While it's the time of year for slow tunes, this one's a lot better than average. Let's see if it makes it through the clone factor. Bob Montgomery & Don Goodman produced. Good Stuff!

■ MCBRIDE & THE RIDE "No More Cryin'" (MCA MCAC-10927)

This lively one comes from the upcoming MCA soundtrack, 8 Seconds To Glory, starring Luke Perry. It's a guitar-picking, bass-drum crashing, harmony-laden country kicker which demonstrates McBride & The Ride at their best. Written by Terry McBride & Josh Leo, "No More Cryin'" provides a welcome relief from country sorrow, giving a little bit of happiness in the midst of all the standout instrumentation. Josh Leo produced another good one.

■ DIAMOND RIO "Sawmill Road" (Arista ASCD-2610)

From the Gold Arista CD, Close To The Edge, "Sawmill Road" is a mid-tempo, coming-of-age tune written by Sam Hugin, Jim McBride & Dan Truman. It ponders the loss of innocence while offering trenchant personal insight into the changing times. "We knew Jesus was the answer and Elvis was the king/Blue Suede Shoes' and 'Rock Of Ages' were the songs we learned to sing/Innocence went out of style and we just watched it go/Yesterday got left beneath the dust on Sawmill Road." Monty Powell & Tim DuBois produced.

■ DOLLY PARTON, TAMMY WYNETTE & LORETTA LYNN "Silver Threads & Golden Needles" (Columbia CSK 77294)

If you missed their performance of this classic tune on the CMA Awards show this year, don't fret. It can be found on Columbia's Honky Tonk Angels release, which features Dolly, Tammy, and Loretta at their best. "Silver Threads & Golden Needles" was written by Jack Rhodes & Dick Reynolds and interpreted uniquely by these beloved matriarchs of country music. Check it out. Steve Buckingham & Dolly produced.

■ BLACKHAWK "Goodbye Says It All" (Arista)

During a recent press reception for these guys at Nashville's Ace Of Clubs, Arista-Nashville label head Tim DuBois referred to the female character in the accompanying video as "one pissed-off lady!" Maybe so, but she's the only one that's unhappy here. Radio's gonna love this! Written by Johnny MacRae, Charlie Black & Bobby Fischer, "Goodbye Says It All" conjures multitudes of images in just over three minutes. This is the hardest-hitting single I've heard since Brooks & Dunn's "Lost And Found." Excellent debut! Looking forward to the album release.

INDIE REVIEWS

DON RICHMOND "Ask The Man Upstairs" (Time Records TRCD 1573-93)

They're calling it "positive country" on CDX but "Christian Country" is a more appropriate tag for this new single from Don Richmond. Initiating the song is a finely tuned steel in perfect harmony with Richmond's mellow croon. Written by Richmond with David Walker and produced by Richmond, the tune provides inspiration that He is no further than our prayers. "If you don't believe me/Ask the man upstairs."

BILLY JOE SHAVER "The Hottest Thing In Town" (Zoo/Praxis International)

Haven't heard much from this guy in a while? Well, don't expect to hear this one on the airwaves either. While "The Hottest Thing In Town" indeed serves as a riotous barroom stomp, it's way too rocked-out for country radio. Written by Shaver. Produced by R.S. Field.

INDIE NEWS BRIEFS—Step One Records has released Clinton Gregory's first Christmas project, For Christmas. With styles ranging from bluegrass to swing, and from contemporary to traditional country, the project is sure to be a fan pleaser. Additionally, this holiday should be particularly special for Clinton and his wife, Mary, as they are expecting their first child in December. Congrats to the Gregorys!

FORMER MRS. UTAH-AMERICA, Patti Miner, is proving her talents are not limited to her good looks. Miner has just released a new, self-penned country single titled "Outlaw Blues" from her latest album titled, Simply Patti Miner on the RCM Nominee label. Patti wrote seven of the 10 songs on the album. The video for the new single, which was filmed in Nashville, has also been released. This is not Patti's first venture into the world of major league country music. She proved herself earlier this year when her first single release, "Here Goes Nothin'" went into the Top 40 nationally for the BFE label. Watch out for "Outlaw Blues" coming your way soon!

NAMA Show Draws A Record 260 Exhibitors

CHICAGO—The 47th annual National Automatic Merchandising Association convention and trade show, staged in Chicago's McCormick Place (9/30-10/2), attracted a record 260 exhibitors who displayed their product lines in the largest amount of space ever occupied by this show. Equally impressive was the total attendance count of 7,350.

R. Craig Estey, chief executive officer of a group of Portland, Oregon-based, family-owned businesses in the vending and food service industry, was elected chairman of the NAMA board of directors. Estey, whose one-year term will begin on January 1, 1994, had been senior vice chairman of the association. He will succeed Lawrence Levine, president of Woburn Vending, Inc. (Woburn, Massachusetts).

Other new NAMA officers for 1994 will include: Jack E. Thomas, Jr. (Coin Acceptors, Inc.-St. Louis, MO) senior vice chairman; Charles A. Bryden (Canteen Co.-Spartanburg, SC), vice chairman; and Donald J. Hesch (A.H. Vending and Food Services, Inc.-Rolling Meadows, IL), secretary-treasurer.

Several NAMA board members were also elected for terms beginning in 1994.

Award Winners

A number of operators from Ohio and Arkansas shared NAMA's Chairman's Legislative Award, in recognition of their "legislative efforts" at the state level. Among those cited were Dick Batholic (Canteen Co.-Columbus), who led the industry in its drive for a state law indexing the local health vending licensing fees to the Consumer Price Index; along with Arkansas operators Billy Yarbrough and Margaret Motley (CM Vending-Russellville); Joe Hewgley (Joe Hewgley, Inc.-Rogers); Dave Becton (Ten-Ark Distributors-Little Rock); J. Earl Gill, Sr. (Earl Gill Vending-Hot Springs) and Mac Bellingrath (Automatic Vending of Arkansas-Pine Bluff), who actively campaigned to pass a law requiring an annual decal tax on coin-operated vending devices that dispense food, beverages and other items. The vending machine decal tax replaces state and local sales taxes.

William A. Russell (Canteen Service of Steel Valley, Inc.-Youngstown, OH) received the NAMA Arthur Nolan Award, in recognition of his efforts and contributions in behalf of the vending industry. When the Ohio legislature passed a state health law affecting vending, Russell worked with state health authorities as a representative of the vending industry, to assure that amenable regulations were developed, that were beneficial to both regulatory agencies and the vending industry.

Food Donations To Homeless

Chicago's homeless people were provided with more than 8,500 meals, donated by companies who exhibited at the NAMA show. Working with the Greater Chicago Food Depository, 11,000 pounds of food were donated from the leftover food items at the convention, according to Stuart Aizenberg, NAMA's director of trade shows. "We have done this for a number of years, after each of the two trade shows and conventions we have every year," said Aizenberg.

AAMCF Continues Its Efforts To Combat Child Abuse

CHICAGO—The American Amusement Machine Charitable Foundation recently participated as a sponsor for the National Committee for the Prevention of Child Abuse's 1993 Gold and Silver Ball, which was held on October 1 at the Four Seasons Hotel in Chicago.

AAMA executive director Robert Fay and AAMA assistant Michele Piazza represented the association at the event, which saw such celebrity representation as singer/songwriter Michael Bolton (NCPA national honorary chairman); NBA basketball players B.J. Armstrong and Mitch Richmond (recipients of the 1993 NCPA Special Friend Award) along with members of Chicago society.

Attendees at the ball also had the opportunity to help raise money for this worthy cause by purchasing tokens to play two pinball machines that were donated for the occasion by Frank Gumma Jr. of American Vending Sales in Elk Grove Village, Illinois. According to Fay, "The machines were a huge hit at the ball. It was really interesting to see all of these people, attending a formal event, getting excited about playing coin-operated games."

Although 1993 marks the first year AAMCF has served as a sponsor for this event, the relationship of the two associations goes back a number of years. Six years ago, AAMA and NCPA launched a poster series designed to promote positive parent-child relationships, and to raise public awareness of child abuse prevention. Past celebrity participants in the program include Patrick Ewing, Bo Jackson and Fred Savage. The poster project will take place again this year and the 1994 spokesperson is in the process of being selected.

In summing up the event Fay added, "Overall this gave AAMCF the opportunity to be recognized for its continued efforts towards the fight against child abuse."

Data East's Tales From The Crypt

CHICAGO—Here you have a pinball machine that is "frightfully fun" to play; the keywords being "fright" and "graveyard," which should certainly peak the interest of players as they take their turns at Data East's new Tales From The Crypt pinball machine.

To quote Joe Kaminkow, Data East Pinball's vice president of design and engineering, "Tales From The Crypt pinball is based on the comic book first published in 1950 and the HBO television series that's now enjoying its fifth anniversary. Several of Hollywood's biggest producers including Dick Donner, Robert Zemeckis and Bob Gale are joining forces to develop a multi-million dollar Tales From The Crypt movie."

This machine will obviously be accompanied by a great deal of national promotions, publicity and tie-ins.

The play features provide a fiendishly difficult experience for pinball enthusiasts who will be amazed as the ball traverses the gravity defying 360-degree horizontal and 180-degree vertical ramps. As the tombstone sinks into the playfield there is the follow-up excitement of three playfield spinners, which ultimately provoke the shaking of the cabinet, to add to the excitement. The play action is non-stop and ongoing throughout to keep players interested.

Further information about Tales From The Crypt may be obtained through factory distributors or by contacting Data East USA, Inc. at 408-286-7080.
