Union Label and the Labor Movement

WE are now passing into the seventh year of an economic depression which has never had its equal in all history. While there has been a large degree of recovery in certain business lines, and stocks are generally on the upgrade, the upturn has not been reflected into permanent employment for workers. It is true that through governmental projects and other Federal activities many men and women are temporarily employed, but there are still over eleven million workers who are waiting for steady work at a wage which will keep their families in comfort according to the American standard of living.

Regular employment means increased purchasing power and only through work at decent wages for all can America pull itself out of this disastrous economic situation which still confronts over forty million souls when we include the entire family with eleven millions jobless workers who are willing to work.

What is the solution of this gigantic problem of the man who wants a job. Are we going to continue gambling with fate for another seven years and just trust to luck as the dice thrower who mumbles "seven-come-eleven," hoping that it will be only four more years instead of seven. No, we can't, and Americans won't wait! We must solve this unemployment problem and the only practical solution is the one which is offered by the American Federation of Labor. It is shorter hours with no reduction in pay. By reducing hours, more workers can obtain jobs. By maintaining the prevailing weekly wage scale, and with more men at work, we shall be able to increase purchasing power. It is simple arithmetic.

If, in 1930, Senator Black's 30-hour-week bill had been passed by Congress and signed by the President, it would have done more to solve the problem of obtaining jobs for the eleven million idle workers than all the other legislation with its uncertainty owing to inefficient administration and the interpretation of the courts.

Senator Black's 30-hour-week bill is the most constructive measure that has been advanced for the solution of unemployment. It will mean a six-hour day and a five-day week. It is the paramount issue of the American Federation of Labor. It is hoped that everyone who is interested in a shorter work week program will write to both their United States Senators and also their representatives and ask them to vote for the Black-Connelly 30-hour-week bill. Do not delay. Write today. These members of Congress are your representatives in the national capital and are at your service. They will be glad to hear from you and know what you desire in legislative reforms. Everyone should know the names of the two Senators from his state and also the name of the Representative of his Congressional District. Simply address them: Honorable, followed by his name, Washington, D. C.

The only certain way in which the workers of America can meet technological progress, that is the use of machinery and new inventions, is to join a labor union and when they have joined in sufficient numbers, they will be able, through collective bargaining, to shorten the hours of work and maintain the American wage standard.

When hours are shortened machinery will be a blessing instead of a curse. There will be more time for education and self-development. More time for spending the increased purchasing power which will accrue from shorter hours with the same pay. This is the path and the only path on which America will work its way back to better times for the average citizen. It is true that a few may prosper now and the newspapers may display this limited prosperity of the few as if it were the end of this depression for all of us, but the fact remains that millions of small independent manufacturers, business men and professional men, as well as the jobless workers, have reached the last of their savings and equities and want a general upsurge like a great tidal wave across the entire continent instead of a few ripples in Wall Street stocks.

As hours are adjusted to absorb the idle workers, we must continue to buy our own products. First, we must buy all the American-made goods that we can to keep the purchasing power at home. Then we must buy union-made goods and union services to maintain the high standards of wages, hours and working conditions which have been established by and only by the American labor movement.

The American Federation of Labor, and especially those labor unions affiliated with the Union Label Trades Department, are also deeply interested in the measure before Congress known as the Walsh Bill which provides that all persons who sell to the U. S. Government or enter into any contractual relations with it shall conform to the conditions contained in certain specifications, the purpose of which will be to maintain fair labor standards in connection with purchases, loans or grants where Federal funds are involved directly or indirectly. This measure seeks to confirm in law the principle that the first charge on any industry is the performance of its duty to society by paying adequate wages and maintaining decent working conditions. It will prevent the purchase by Federal officials of foreign made and other unfair products to be used by the Government. Uncle Sam should set an example by buying American products which are made under American standards of living, established by the American Federation of Labor.

The bill has passed the U. S. Senate and is now before the House of Representatives. In behalf of the Union Label Trades Department, I urge all members of labor unions and their friends to write to their Congressman and ask him to support the Walsh Bill.

A review of the progress made by the American Federation of Labor shows that at least one million new members were gained by the labor movement in 1935. We feel confident that an equal gain will be made in 1936. A most conservative estimate places the organized workers at six million.

Wage gains made by the unions run into hundreds of millions of dollars. A ninety million dollar wage boost was made by one union affiliated with the A. F. of L. The railway labor unions succeeded in the restoration of a 10 per cent wage deduction, adding 170 million dollars to their pay envelopes and at the same time prevented a 15 per cent cut in wages which would have meant a loss to the railway workers of 217 millions of dollars. Numerous other examples could be given wherein labor unions have either prevented wage reductions, or gained increases.

Hours of labor have been reduced by seventy-three out of 109 national and international unions. There are now over two million union workers on a 40-hour week; half a million on a 36-hour week and over 13 thousand have already won a 30-hour week.

These facts are actual proof of the benefits of labor unions to their members. The results give the union worker greater purchasing power and more leisure time to spend their earnings for self-education and advancement. Higher wages and shorter hours are the only remedies which have been advanced to cure depression. They have been gained through the economic power of organized labor through collective bargaining. They can be maintained by the American workers through the collective buying of products and services that bear the union label, shop card and working button.

Since the National Recovery Act and the Agricultural Adjustment Act have both been declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court, the road to legislative reforms seems to be temporarily blocked. But workers and farmers can obtain substantial advancement through organization in the economic field. Great possibilities may be found in the reciprocal agreement which the Union Label Trades Department recently negotiated with the National Farmers' Union. These two organizations have agreed to buy each other's products. Time will not permit my giving in detail the provisions of this agreement, but if anyone is interested he can obtain the facts by writing to the Union Label Trades Department. The first requirement in this plan is that city workers join a labor union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and that farmers join a farmers' union.

If you are a city worker and desire to better your own conditions and those of your fellow workers, you should become acquainted with the facts concerning the American Federation of Labor.

If you are a woman member of a worker's family you can also become informed about labor unionism and you can greatly help the cause of organized labor by buying only from firms that display the union label, shop card and button.

If you desire to buy only American-made goods, made under American standards, always ask for union labeled products.

If you want to obtain immediate results in securing greater purchasing power, try collective bargaining through a labor union and collective buying under the union label.

The labor movement is the only organized effort to place more money in a worker's pocketbook and that problem surely concerns most of us. Results are what count and they cannot be obtained by acting alone. The big business interests may preach "rugged individualism" for the rest of us, but when it comes to action, they join their own organizations and through them they have obtained at least 80 per cent of the nation's wealth.

In the clamor of the approaching Presidential campaign when so much attention is focused on the national capital, on account of the Federal Government's activities to regain prosperity, the fact is overlooked that private enterprises, including all industries, construction and consumption, spent 95 per cent of the total amount of money expended in this country during 1935. More stress should be placed on these private enterprises and a method through which the workers can obtain their equitable share of the wealth produced. The only method as yet devised, which has been successful, is the labor union. During these trying times, many have been compelled to depend upon the government, and I am making no criticism of the efforts of any administration to help the idle workers, but for a permanent remedy we must obtain greater purchasing power through higher wages. It will require collective action to obtain better wages and that is why the labor union forms the most effective weapon. Then to maintain the higher standards of living, we must buy union made goods and union services.

Not only has the American Federation of Labor been the single force in this nation that has fought for and gained shorter hours and higher wages for all working men, but it has been the pioneer in education, social legislation, workmen's compensation and other laws which are not confined in their benefits to organized workers alone. Factory inspection laws have saved the lives of thousands of workers to such an extent that in the past fifty years, together with advance of science, they have doubled the length of the average life.

No better summary of the benefits of labor unions can be made than the one expressed by the late Samuel Gompers, when he said:

"The trade union movement fosters education and uproots ignorance; shortens hours and lengthens life; raises wages and lowers usury; increases independence and decreases dependence; develops manhood and balks tyranny; discourages selfishness and establishes fraternity; induces liberality and reduces prejudice; creates rights and abolishes wrongs; lightens toil and brightens men; makes the workers' shop safer and brighter; cheers the home and fireside and makes the world better."

MID-YEAR MEETING OF THE INTERNATIONAL EXECUTIVE BOARD

Palmer House, Chicago, Ill.,
January 6, 1936.

Meeting called to order by President Weber at 1:00 P. M. Present: Bagley, Brenton, Weaver, Hayden, Greenbaum, Jarrott, Petrillo and Kerngood.

A request of member Earl Murdock for remission of National Initiation Fee of $50.00 is received and, on motion, the request is granted.

The Board considers a request of member Irving Rose for remission of part of a modified fine of $500.00 paid by him. The sum of $250.00 is remitted.

The Board considers the legality of the following proposed law of a Local:

Where any band, orchestra or other musical unit is definitely engaged and employed on any engagement within the jurisdiction of the Local for a specified length of time by contract, whether by individual contractor, leader or by booking agency, it shall be the right of any member of the Local (or booking office) to solicit such engagement at any time (during the life of such contract) providing the future engagement period being solicited takes place at the termination of such present contract. However, the privilege of making such solicitation must be established with the business representative previous to exercising this right, in order to determine whether or not such contract exists, and further to establish the termination of such contracted period.

On motion, the Board holds that such a law cannot be maintained by a Local.

Bach trumpets, cornets and trombones have won first place in the field of quality brass instruments. Wherever genuine artist instruments are required, the BACH is sure to be given first consideration not only because of its unexcelled playing qualities, but because it is made of the finest materials and by the most skilled artisans. It is a CUSTOM-BUILT instrument.

THIS IS THE AGE OF THE SPECIALIST and Vincent Bach has devoted himself to the improvement of the three principal brasses: cornets, trumpets and trombones. Through intensive research he has developed these instruments to the highest perfection and is building for the professional what he has all his life desired—an instrument that he can both use and enjoy.

What orchestras use BACHS? The Casa Loma, Isham Jones, Rudy Vallee, Ozzie Nelson, Benny Meroff, Enric Madriguera, George Olsen, Jimmy Dorsey, Leon Belasco, Little Jack Little—in fact, so many orchestras that it is easier to count those who DO NOT use Bachs. If you want an instrument with an easy high and low register, one with ample resistance so you can play for hours without tiring, then you want the BACH.

Write for our latest catalog; state what instrument you play.

Some Lapses of the Supreme Court

THE Supreme Court in the Bedford cut stone case imposed upon the striking workers restrictions which Justice Brandeis, long a member of that court, described as "reminding of involuntary servitude."

The Supreme Court, in Coppage vs. Kansas, ruled that a workman has no right to a job if he will not quit his union. There was dissent here, too, but the majority of the court had its way.

The Supreme Court, in Lochner vs. New York, knocked out a New York law which limited hours of labor in bakeries to 10 a day or 60 a week. Justice Peckham, delivering the verdict of the Court, said that "clean and wholesome bread does not depend on whether a baker works but 10 hours a day or only 60 hours a week."

The Supreme Court, in Adkins vs. Children's Hospital, knocked out the minimum wage law for women in the District of Columbia. Justice Sutherland, who spoke for the court, said that "the Nineteenth Amendment emancipated women from the old doctrine of special protection."

These are a few of the cases which makes labor slow to accept the doctrine of the flawless wisdom of the Supreme Court; and a few of the reasons why labor takes no pleasure in that court's onslaught on the New Deal.

Make your Union wages work overtime by spending them for Union-made merchandise.

Public Opinion Polls

FOR a number of months the American Institute of Public Opinion has been taking so-called polls of "the people of the United States" on various questions in which the masses are vitally interested.

Some of the "polls" have indicated negative convictions toward social welfare measures and principles.

A doubt has been expressed as to whether the persons included in the "polls" accurately reflect mass public opinion. This doubt is accentuated by the result of the census which the Institute has taken on "Government Old Age Pensions for Needy Persons."

Persons on the Institute's mailing list were asked if they favored old age pensions. If so, how much they believed should be paid monthly to each single person, how much monthly to a husband and wife, and at what age the pension should begin.

The "poll" reveals that 80 per cent of those who voted favored old age pensions, with 60 years as the most popular eligibility age.

And then comes the rub. With respect to the size of the pension, Dr. George Gallup, spokesman for the Institute, declares "the largest single number of voters" favored $30 per month for one person and $50 for a husband and wife.

There isn't a city in the United States where one person can buy food, clothing and shelter, and the other necessities which constitute even the smallest decent living, for $30. Nor is there any city in the United States where a husband and wife can buy a similar decent living for $50 a month.

And yet, the American Institute of Public Opinion seriously informs us that its "poll" showed a preference for the $30 and $50 standards.

Evidently the persons who are now required to live on old age pensions or who will come under old age pensions in the future were not included in that section of the public which makes up the Institute's voting list.

Vital Need of Labor Press

THE freedom of the press, guaranteed to us by the Constitution, must depend, after all, upon the support which the readers of the press give to it. We need scarcely more than mention the fact that the usual daily newspaper, to say nothing of the magazines, do not feel called upon to espouse the cause of organized labor. Such fair play as is given this cause by these publications is based upon the unanswerable strength of the position of the labor movement.

But we wish to emphasize the fact that if there were no great section of the national publications known as the Labor Press, which gives its first and last loyalty to the workers of the nation, and especially to those who are members of the organizations of labor, the other sections of the nation's publicity organs would probably pay much more scant attention to the rights of labor.

Circulation is the life of any publication. Given readers, any publication is in a position of power, in proportion to its friends who show their loyalty to their own cause by their subscriptions to their own press, and by their activity in helping to enlarge its circulation.

The rights of labor will always depend, to a great extent, upon the freedom of the labor press. A labor paper which circulates freely in its own community is not only an index of the power of labor in that locality; it is a very definite part of the organization itself, and its functions are so vital that neglect of the labor press is sure to reflect upon the qualities of the labor movement itself.

Mussolini's African Stew Boils Over

TWO thousand men who fled from Italy to escape military service in Africa are interned in Jugoslavian camps, and the number is increasing daily.

The general chosen to command the Ethiopian expedition was called home.

The Italians admit retirement in some quarters, and the Ethiopians claim to have repulsed a mass attack on another front.

Two regiments of Italian troops mutinied in protest against being sent to Africa.

The first two items of these four bits of news from the war zone are not open to question. The second, indeed, had to be announced by Mussolini, though the significance of it was carefully kept in the background. The Italian retirement is certain; but the victory of the Ethiopians will bear watching. The story of mutiny comes, of course, by the grapevine route; which all through the World War brought out information which the fighting powers wished to suppress.

But the stories of mutiny deserve notice, even if they are exaggerated. Italy is a poor country, unable to finance a first or even second class war. Her wage scales, before the Ethiopian expedition, were among the lowest in Europe. There is no dependable information that these wage scales have been changed; but the cost of living in Italy has climbed rapidly ever since the fighting began. Italian workers must have tightened their belts till they are sick of it; and the triumph which was to reconcile them with hardship seems to have been indefinitely postponed.

Clergy Attack Slums

PROTESTANT, Catholic and Jewish clergymen in New York City have united in a joint statement denouncing slum conditions there, coupled with an appeal for a combined State and city program to rehouse millions of "under-privileged citizens in the nation's metropolis."

The manifesto declares that in New York City alone more than 500,000 families, including millions of children, are still compelled to live in old tenements condemned as unfit for human habitation. In addition, it emphasizes the well-known fact that infant mortality, disease and crime are rooted in the slums and repeats the axiom that it is impossible to create in such conditions a home environment in which a wholesome family life can be maintained and nourished.

The rights to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," set forth in the Declaration of Independence as the unalienable heritage of all our people, the clergy say, are nothing short of travesty as long as slum conditions remain.

In stressing the practicability of activity by public authorities in providing decent housing for the masses, the joint statement declares that in England the Government since 1919 has built over one million low cost rental housing units providing new homes for more than four million persons.

This forward position emphasizing the responsibility of Federal, State and local governments for proper housing for the masses is a significant trend of thought in progressive circles. It is reflected in the plan backed by Senator Wagner of New York asking an appropriation of $800,000,000 to subsidize the construction of low cost dwellings.

Among the Union Label League sanctions is the demand that each member buy Union-made goods and services.

Out Beyond the Surf

Where thought, un-hastened by necessity or trepidation, sometimes penetrates to truth.

Here, where the shallows throw no spray, let us ponder and enjoy the lessons of the art and the work and play of life.

Congressman O. H. Cross of the Eleventh District of Texas has introduced a bill which would put a decided crimp in the favorite sport of the Federal courts—that of declaring laws unconstitutional. The bill provides:

That no "inferior" Federal court, which means Federal district and circuit courts, shall consider any plea which attacks the constitutionality of an act of Congress.

That any such plea shall be ordered by the court to be stricken from the record.

"That in all cases which may be appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States, the court shall pass upon the rights of the parties both as to law and fact; but in no case before the court on appeal shall the court pass upon or consider any plea which raises the question of the constitutionality of an act of Congress."

Mr. Cross bases this law on Article 3, Section 2, Clause 2, of the Constitution, which reads:

"In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a state shall be a party, the Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned, the Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, WITH SUCH EXCEPTIONS, AND UNDER SUCH REGULATIONS AS THE CONGRESS SHALL MAKE."

This means that only a state can attack the constitutionality of an act of Congress, and it must do so by filing an original suit in the Supreme Court.

Mr. Cross' bill should be passed at once. It is long overdue.

The Federal courts, in large measure, have become a state church for Big Business; ready to excommunicate and curse by bell, book and candle any law to which Big Business objects. This assumed power of the courts is pure usurpation. There is not a line or word in the Constitution of the United States which gives any court any authority to declare any law unconstitutional.

Congressman Cross' proposed law is really very conservative. Under that measure, the Supreme Court, for the first time in our history, would have definite authority to consider the constitutionality of an act of Congress; but only when a state thought the matter important enough to file an original suit in that court.

"I do not suppose that the Republic would come to an end if we lost our power to declare acts of Congress unconstitutional," said the late Justice Holmes in one of his dissenting opinions. The quotation is from memory and may not be letter perfect; but it is substantially correct. Justice Holmes might have gone farther. He might have said that the Republic is likely to come to an end of its period of liberty and glory if a handful of Federal judges may continue, without warrant of law or Constitution, to block reforms which the people demand and which Congress and the President have enacted into law.

One doesn't have to be a handcuff king to remove his chains. All you have to do is to buy Union-labeled goods.

Over FEDERATION Field

(By CHAUNCEY A. WEAVER)

Authorization is made for announcement through the medium of this column that William J. Kerngood, for seventeen years Secretary of the American Federation of Musicians, will voluntarily retire from that position at the annual convention which convenes at Detroit, Mich., June 8, 1938.

The field will thus be opened for a successorship contest which may easily become one of the high spots of convention deliberation.

Secretary Kerngood's decision is one which must be both regretted and respected. He retires for the purpose of seeking that restoration to health which has been his concern for an extended period, and to obtain the rest which his faithful service so deservedly merits.

Secretary Kerngood has been a Federationist of uncompromising loyalty. In the early part of his career he was orchestra leader with traveling musical shows. He was President of Local No. 161, at Washington, D. C., in 1902-3-4. He was President of Local 310, of New York in 1910-11-12. During the year 1913 he was first assistant to President Joseph N. Weber. Following three years as Vice-President of the national federation he began his long career of secretarial service as successor to the late Owen Miller.

As all readers of the International Musician know the position of National Secretary involves something more than routine keeping of records. The official publication maintenance and the management of a large printing plant are major responsibilities. Year after year the Secretary has been able to give an account of his stewardship which has received the approval of the Convention delegates. The depression years have been survived and the new Secretary will find a healthy and growing business concern over which to assume charge.

As a member of the National Executive Board Secretary Kerngood's career has been marked by independent thinking and constructive action. His colleagues on the board will see him go with sincere regret and earnestly hope that his future years in California, where he intends to find his home, will result in rich returns on all the hopes now entertained.

It is more than a century since the pen of the English poet, William Cowper, dropped from his nerveless hand, yet the soundness of his commentaries on life stand unimpaired in the passing of the years. For example, he was author of the lines:

God made the country, and man made the town.
What wonder then that health and virtue, gifts
That alone make sweet the bitter draught
That life holds out to all, should most abound
And least be threatened in the fields and groves!

It is often an urban characteristic to refer to the rural districts as "the sticks." To those who move about, in and around "where cross the crowded ways of life," there is often skepticism as to the possibility of flowers of culture budding and blossoming out in the regions where sheep and cattle roam the hills and plain, where the tall corn grows, and where the whirl of the market-place does not disturb the atmosphere of bucolic calm.

These meditations are suggested by an event which took place in Des Moines during the month of January when the Iowa Farm Bureau was holding a convention. A feature of the proceedings was the evening presentation of "The Bohemian Girl." The entire cast was recruited from young people from the farms of Iowa. An audience of more than two thousand people witnessed the performance—some going under the impulse of happy expectation; others in a most incredulous frame of mind. What did these young people know about operatic interpretation, dramatic emphasis, tone color and the one hundred and one things so essential to anything like a correct elemental ensemble? Well, those who ventured to follow the leadings of curiosity learned something. An orchestra of 14 picked musicians from Local No. 75 played the score. Principals and chorus did the rest in a fashion which took the vast audience by storm. Voices rich and clear, fine touches of dramatic fire, and intelligent responsiveness to instructions given during very brief rehearsal opportunities, gave impressive demonstration of the talent which the "sticks" may sometimes be able to provide.

And Cowper made another observation:

Nor rural sights alone, but rural sounds
Exhilarate the spirit, and restore
The tone of languid nature.

A-A-A sounds like a stuttering attempt to recite the alphabet.

Let it be borne in mind that neither Hitler, Mussolini or Stalin is handicapped by a Supreme Court.

Six counties of central Pennsylvania are promoting an ambitious program this season—the results of which will be awaited with considerable interest. The plan devised is for developing music appreciation in the public schools through the organization of young people's symphony clubs and attendance at symphony concerts. Harrisburg is the center of this line of activity, and the symphony orchestra of that city, under the direction of George King Raudenbush, will be the fountain source of community inspiration. The concerts will be adapted to the pupils of the various grades and the programs will each have some distinctive feature for educational stressing purposes like: "The Orchestra and Instruments of the Orchestra," "The Expressiveness of Music," "Composers of the Classic Period," "Composers of the Romantic Period," and other topics of kindred interest. This would seem to be cultural promotion along lines eminently worthwhile. Educational philosophy has long since made plain that things learned during the impressionable period of youth are the most permanently retained. Musical tastes acquired in the formative years will not grow stale when maturity comes, but will help to enrich the entire individual life. This central Pennsylvania experiment should be watched and studied.

It would have been an exhilarating experience to look in on the recent conference of the New York Musicians, held at Jamestown—in the county among whose Chautauqua hills we first saw the light; and out upon the beautiful lake over whose waters we played a cornet (or thought we did) as the Hamlet band made musical contribution to the participants of a Sunday School excursion. Then we would have realized how the years have flown and what changes time hath wrought. Leonard Campbell of Rochester presided. George Keene of Middletown was official pen-pusher. Forty-two delegates from all sections of the commonwealth were present. Harry J. Steeper was present as fraternal delegate from New Jersey. Fred W. Birnbach represented President Weber's office. A large variety of subjects of peculiar interest to musicians came up for discussion. An interesting feature of the occasion was a "Smorgasbord." The context of the official report reveals that that to which we have just referred is a lunch which Swedish people are experts in preparing—people from that nation having a dominant part in the citizenship of the Jamestown community. This fifth semi-annual conference was an all-around success. The next one will be held at Troy, with Local No. 13, on the third Sunday in May of the current year.

BENJAMIN PODEMSKI, now playing his fourteenth year with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, is an outstanding figure among the really great artists in the drum world. Playing under Leopold Stokowsky in Philadelphia's famed Academy of Music, for Victor recordings, and in the Robin Hood Dell summer concerts, his talent has gained nation-wide recognition. Formerly with Arturo Toscanini, Fritz Reiner, Victor Herbert, Richard Strauss, Victor Kolar, Sokoloff and many other great symphony directors.

Mr. Podemski has used Leedy drums during twenty-five of his thirty years in the profession. He gives them a generous measure of credit for his success.

Leedy equipment has been first choice with leading professionals for nearly forty years. Their experience is a safe guide for you.

makes a New Year suggestion to its membership which is deserving of a wide range of mastication and assimilation:

Let us try to live up to the rules by paying our dues promptly, sticking to price list and always remembering that the other fellow has to live also, so when you get a chance to take a job do not turn it down just because you have a job, but rather try to get it for a friend of yours instead of letting it go to some outsider. Above all, go on an engagement looking neat and ready to start on time, and above all—Keep sober!

Study the new License law. The Federation wanted it. Do not permit it to become a dead letter. If its practical application stamps it as an unpopular and unworkable measure it can be repealed by the body which authorized its creation. President Grant is credited with the observation that the best method of securing the repeal of an obnoxious statute is that of rigid enforcement.

In the January issue of the Chicago Intermezzo we note a poetic soliloquy by Jack Bramhill, entitled "My Sweet-Toned Cornet," as follows:

How many happy hours I've spent
In company with thee,
I count them o'er in deep content,
They soothe and comfort me.

I care not what the future brings,
We, too, shall never part,
Through all the years your soft voice sings
Its passion to my heart.

And so I dedicate to thee
The melodies within
This book of tender memories,
My sweet toned old cornet.

Now we do not wish to appear hypercritical in analysis of the literary creations of other people, and yet we must insist that the last stanza will not do. If the author made the closing line read: "My sweet-toned violin," it would have harmonized in true poetic fashion with the second line of the closing stanza. Perhaps the author did use violin in the first place and then some envious cornet player got hold of the proof sheet and proceeded to gum up the works.

Those convention delegates who always champion a "central location" should be well pleased with Detroit.

And Canada is just over the river.

In Boston the issue of licensing of cats is being animatedly discussed. Surely, their penchant for discordant nocturnes on moonlight nights should have some sort of New Deal regulation.

As we write these lines the radio announces "42 degrees below zero at Sioux City." How the wind must whistle around that magnificent new band-shell!

For the purpose of giving a public showing as to what home city musicians can do, Local No. 166, of Madison, Wisconsin, gave a symphony concert and dance program on January 13th which called forth an appreciative patronage of something like two thousand people. The symphony orchestra was composed of 30 musicians under the direction of Ray Dvorak, while for the Crystal Ballroom, the Pompeian and main dining rooms of the Hotel Loraine twenty modern terpsichorean inspirationists gave new meaning to the Byronic lines:

On with the dance! Let joy be unconfined;
No sleep till morn, when Youth and pleasure meet
To chase the glowing hours with flying feet.

Madison is a beautiful city, enveloped in an atmosphere of culture, capital of the State, home of the great Wisconsin State University, and a Local of the American Federation of Musicians with a membership of 400. It is offered by the following: President, Charles C. Halvorsen; Vice-President, Ramsey Eversoll; Secretary, Frank P. Fosgate; Treasurer, August C. Schroeder; Sergeant-at-Arms, Ernest Dangi; Executive Board, Dr. Sigfrid Prager, Norman Phelps, Thos. J. Holstein.

Although this is Leap Year, looking before leaping would nevertheless seem to be an act of sound discretion which feminine matrimonial inclination will not overlook.

Those no longer susceptible to beguilement by the witcheries of the Drake estate fantasy might hitch their dream wagon to the Townsend star for a ride.

Some of the more tender Presidential buds are liable to become badly frost-bitten if this severe winter weather continues.

The scientists who recently held forth at St. Louis included among their solemn disclosures that man's brain is "like a department store." The test was probably made in the period immediately preceding the Christmas holidays.

The mid-year meeting of the National Executive Board of the American Federation of Musicians, met pursuant to law, at the Palmer House in Chicago, Monday, January 6, 1936, and was in session four days. Forty-three appeals from all parts of the international jurisdiction were passed upon and adjudicated, besides many minor matters involving detail administration. All members of the Board were present. Those from the Pacific coast enjoyed the zero weather, while Easterners and Mid-Westerners appreciated occasional glimpses of the sun which the impressive smoke-pall brooding over the great city afforded. Local No. 10, officials and members, constantly exemplified the fine spirit of hospitality for which the organization is noted. Elsewhere in the columns of the International Musician will be found a resume of the official proceedings of the mid-year session.

According to Secretary Eddle B. Love of Local No. 6, the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra is facing a most promising season. The intelligent hard work put forth by the Local recently to place the orchestra on a solid municipal foundation seems to be bearing rich fruit. Pierre Monteux is the new conductor, while William Van den Berg, one of the country's greatest cellists, is assistant conductor. We glean these facts from the current issue of the San Francisco Musical News.

With so many musicians driving Fords the Detroit convention should seem like a sort of family reunion.

No fatalities are reported from the scene of the various annual elections.

Congress seems determined to help the taxpayers keep their money in circulation.

The Rocky Mountain Conference of Musicians is the latest sectional organization which has come to our notice. The initial meeting was called by State Officer James D. Byrne of Local No. 69, of Pueblo. Every Local in Colorado was represented but one. Cheyenne, Wyo., responded with three delegates. Dr. Bruno David Ussher of Hollywood, Calif., made a special trip to the conference for the purpose of explaining the workings of the WPA as applied to musicians. The delegates were entertained at luncheon at the far-famed Printers' Home and taken on a tour of inspection through the institution, which is one of the notable achievements of organized labor in this country. Officers elected were: President, Michael Muro, of Local No. 20, Denver; Vice-President, H. L. Helzer, of Local No. 590, of Cheyenne; Secretary, E. D. Woodworth, of Local No. 154, Colorado Springs. We bespeak for this new conference an intelligent approach to the problems which confront it and feel confident of a substantial growth in numbers and in influence.

As we bring these random observations to a close scene changes are being enacted before the nations of the earth of such interest and importance as to dominate the columns of the universal press. King George V has surrendered to the same Decree before which his humblest commoner must bow. King Edward VIII has been proclaimed ruler over 500,000,000 people and over 14,000,000 square miles of the earth's surface. To those who have always lived, moved and had their being in a democracy, the pomp and circumstance and pageantry incidental to monarchical transition may seem stilted and out of harmony with the spirit of these latter days. Nevertheless, the nations which do not respect in some degree the traditions with which their history are thoroughly intertwined, are the ones which show most tendency to lose their poise and drift aimlessly on the uncertain sea of human destiny. But even when the trumpeters were sounding forth the proclamation: "The King is Dead, Long Live the King!" the Kipling lines were reverberating through a wide range of the deeps of human consciousness:

The tumult and the shouting dies,
The Captains and the Kings depart;
Still stands thine ancient sacrifice,
An humble and a contrite heart!

Remarkable Things Said

It is an ancient legal truism that "there is no right without a remedy," and the American workman is speaking in the best legal tradition when he says that unless the law will restrain persons who prevent him from combining with his fellows into a union, the law is only mocking him when it tell him he has a right of self-organization.—J. Warren Madden, National Labor Relations Board.

I find . . . a widespread belief that the fundamental policies of maintaining fair competitive and labor standards are sound and desirable. Responses concurring in this view have come from heads of great corporations with far-flung interests and little business men who operate single factories and other enterprises in small towns from which the trend of opinion of the masses may be discerned.—George L. Berry.

Of Some Value

Agri—Did college equip your son with anything useful?

Culture—Yes, the cigarettes he smokes drive away mosquitoes and the sweaters he wears make good scarecrows.—Carolina Buccaneer.

The Tune Detective Goes Collegiate

By SIGMUND SPAETH

THERE is a story about a pet chameleon whose owner, after experimenting with various solid colors, put it on a piece of plaid and the little animal "busted itself trying to make good." That is just about what happens to a Tune Detective when he finds himself prowling around the composite college campus.

Our collegians borrowed most of their good tunes, but they knew where to find them, and in many cases the unanimity of their approval is remarkable. The old Irish melody, "Annie Lisle," for example, also known as "Amicl," has been used by no less than seventeen colleges and over a hundred schools as an Alma Mater song. Cornell heads the list with "Far Above Cayuga's Waters," closely followed by Syracuse, Lehigh and the Universities of Chattanooga, Kansas, Missouri and North Carolina ("Hark the Sound of Tarheel Voices"). Ireland also scores with "Fair Harvard," to the familiar tune "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," which also inspired the "Old Gold" of Iowa State.

Almost as popular as "Annie Lisle" is the Latin "Lauriger Horatius," best known in America as "Maryland, My Maryland," and in Germany as a Christmas song, "Tannenbaum, O Tannenbaum." Cornell uses it, too, as an evening song; at Pennsylvania it is called "We Gather Here," and it appears also at New York University, Mount Holyoke and elsewhere.

Lots of Princeton men do not realize that the words of "Old Nassau" were originally set to the Scotch tune of "Auld Lang Syne"—which stands high among college favorites of the nationalistic type, numbering among its offspring "The Good Old Days at Penn," "In Praise of M.S.U." (Missouri) and that classic of the old college song books, "Bohunkus." Karl Langlotz composed his fine Princeton tune only after the words of "Old Nassau" had become established.

The Irish "Son of a Gamboller" has known even more college life than "Auld Lang Syne," appearing at West Point as "He Done His Level Best," at Hobart as "A Son of a Gun," at Georgia Tech as "A Rambling Wreck" and in Missouri as "A Son of Old Missouri!"—Not to speak of its original form and the "Dunderbeck" version, both popular in many colleges. It is only a step from the "Gamboller" to "Solomon Levi," originally written by a Hobart man but now best known through the M.I.T. "Take Me Back to Tech" and the far western "Utah Man."

The French flavor appears in that popular tune, "Vive la Compagnie" (also known by its chorus opening as "Vive l'Amour"), which has found a place in most of the old college song books in its original form and also boasts special words for New York University and a curious adaptation known as "Vive les Rutgers' Sons!"

The West Point Alma Mater has the German melody, "Ach, wie ist's möglich dann?" ("How Can I Leave Thee?"), also used at Western Reserve University as "Dear Old Reserve." "Army Blue," however, is of American origin, coming from that old close harmony favorite, "Aura Lee," known at N.Y.U. as "The Violet." "Goodnight, Navy," is naturally an adaptation of "Goodnight, Ladies," and that dignified hymn, "Old Pennsylvania," has to admit descent from a ribald ditty called "My Last Cigar" ("Twas Off the Blue Canaries," etc.). The University of Pennsylvania made a more sprightly use of "John Brown's Body," which to serious music lovers remains "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and whose other versions include the Grasshopper Song, "Glory for Columbia," and "Old John Henry Hobart Will Be Turning in His Grave." Colgate's Alma Mater is to the old "Juanita" tune.

Among still further borrowings to be found in college music mention should be made of Princeton's "Whoop Her Up" song, which goes back to George Root's "Music in the Air," a tune also echoed at Haverford and N.Y.U. and at least partially responsible for the Hawaiian "Aloha Oe." "Old College Chum" is a widely popular version of that 19th century favorite, "Sweet Genevieve." The physiologically detailed "Virgin Sturgeon," claimed chiefly by Williams, is to the tune of "Reuben and Rachel" ("Reuben, Reuben, I've Been Thinking"). "My Comrades, When I'm No More Drinking," sung in its original form at Yale, Columbia and Amherst, later became also "Dear Bucknell" and Haverford's "Breakfast." That beautiful melody, "Long, Long Ago" supports a burlesque "Romeo and Juliet" as well as the bawdy "Down on the Farm," beloved by the Mendelssohn and University Glee Clubs of New York. An ancient comic song known as "Hamlet, Prince of Denmark," reappears in a slightly altered form as "Dives Had a Son," in the Amherst song book (crediting an original "Scots' War Song") and eventually as "Swarthmore Had a Son," a reminder of the glorious football rivalry of the past between the warring Quakers of Swarthmore and Haverford. Curiously enough the melody we call "America," which has been used as a national anthem by fourteen different countries, has been almost ignored by the colleges, the outstanding exception being George Washington University, for which, of course, it was automatic. The Croatian folk song which Haydn turned into the Austrian hymn, later anathematized as "Deutschland uber Alles," and sanctified in every hymn book, appears as an Alma Mater song at Columbia University, Pittsburg, Western Reserve and a few other places.

Everybody ought to know that Yale's "Bright College Years" is to the tune of the German "Watch on the Rhine" (which is closely related to "The Star-Spangled Banner" as it happens). "Hall, Pennsylvania," is of course the old Russian hymn, also popular in our churches and appearing in Tchaikowsky's "1812 Overture." The Navy's "Benny Havens" is the same as the Irish "Wearing of the Green," and the Welsh "March of the Men of Harlech," one of the oldest of military tunes, has been used by Georgetown and several other colleges. The French "Marseillaise" has been adapted to collegiate purposes here and there, and Quaker Haverford's official anthem, "Comrades," is the Canadian march, "Soldiers of the King" (or "Queen").

There are also unintentional reminiscences to be found in college music. The much radioed "Maine Stein Song," for example, has a Brahms Hungarian dance for its melodic ancestor, with touches of "Our Director" in the rhythmic scheme. "Fordham Ram" is an ascending scale going back directly to the Scotch "Robin Adair" (which has an Irish parallel, with a more recent echo in the French "Madelon"). A somewhat similar scale tune is the famous "W. and J. Swing," by Thornton Allen, editor of one of the best of the college song books. This fine melody reappears as a football song at the University of Chattanooga and also as "Colorado Men" and "Fight for Dickinson." There is a rather brazen imitation in the familiar "Betty Co-ed"—that prolific lady, indeed, has already become the mother of a whole flock of pseudo-collegiate songs, all hinting, to say the least, at a promiscuity of varsity letters and fraternity pins.

With the appearance of such synthetic musical concoctions as "All-American Girl" the Tune Detective is forced to leave the college campus and return sadly to Tinpan Alley, which already has a volunteer alumni body similar to that of Notre Dame (in its good years) or the victorious Lions of Columbia. He has at least the consolation of knowing that a few collegians have turned out sterling examples of original song writing, including such gems as Kenneth Clark's "Going Back to Nassau Hall," Sanger Steele's

"Harvardiana," Sheiley Hamilton's "Lord Jeffrey Amherst," Linn Seiler's "For Haverford," and Stanleigh Friedman's "March, March on Down the Field." Princeton can also point with pride to the Cannon March of Hewitt and Osborne and to the beautiful Step Along of Ernest Carter. There is a charming bit of harmony by George Smith called "Secrets" that they sing at Wesleyan (and now also in a good many other colleges); but these are only parts of a long and honorable list. With so many collegians proving their ability to compose good songs one ends by wondering just why so large a percentage of college music should still be second-hand.

STATE-USE CONVICT LABOR

IS PLANNED FOR WEST VA.

Wheeling, W. Va.—Burleigh E. Oppenheim, assistant director of the Prison Industries Reorganization Administration, came to Wheeling to supervise a survey of West Virginia prison industries with the objective of reconstituting them for State-use production. The study is interpreted to mean the end of selling prison-made goods in the State in the open market in competition with goods manufactured by free labor.

The survey will determine what changes in prison manufacturing are desirable. A study is also under way on unemployment among prisoners, prison conditions and the general welfare of convicts.

Contracts for the labor of convicts at Moundville prison are held by the Kleeson Company, Inc., which manufacture work pants; and J. C. Bardall Company, maker of whips and brooms.

SENATOR WHEELER SEES

CURB ON SUPREME COURT

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana has become one of the group of Federal legislators who believe the action of the United States Supreme Court in holding the Agricultural Adjustment Law unconstitutional should result in restrictions on the court's assumed authority to invalidate Federal statutes.

"There has been a great deal of talk about the sanctity of the Constitution," he said. "But I suggest that constitutions are made for men, not men for constitutions. On what does the Supreme Court base this claim to power? The Constitution does not expressly bestow on the court authority to override legislative acts.

"I was not one of those who believed in the principle of curtailing production, but now I feel that if we are going to help the farmers we may have to amend the Constitution to do it."

SENATOR CLARK SUPPORTS

PRIVATE PENSION PLANS

Washington, D. C.—Senator Clark of Missouri announced that he would renew during this session of Congress his efforts to have private pension plans sponsored by many corporations exempted from the tax provisions of the Social Security Act.

His amendment covering this subject was inserted in the Act last year by the Senate. It was finally disapproved, with the provision that a joint subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee make a study of the question and submit a report to the 1936 session of Congress.

The Clark amendment was opposed by both the American Federation of Labor and the administration. Labor held that corporations use their pension schemes against the interests of the workers and frequently manipulate the rules so as to victimize older employees who are approaching the retirement age.

MOONEY'S COUNSEL SEES SUPREME COURT VICTORY

Washington, D. C.—John Finerty, counsel for Tom Mooney, declared at a meeting here that Mooney's hope for freedom rested with the United States Supreme Court. He expressed his deep conviction that the nation's high judicial tribunal would ultimately order the doors of San Quentin unlocked for the release of the victim of perjured testimony.

Reviewing the latest phase of the case before the referee of the California Supreme Court appointed three months ago to take testimony on Mooney's demand for a writ of habeas corpus based on the perjured testimony charge, Mr. Finerty said the testimony and court records already submitted run to over 16,000 pages, with more to come when the case is resumed the latter part of January.

He declared his belief that the California Supreme Court would rule adversely on the writ. He expected the decision would be handed down in May. After that the case would go to the United States Supreme Court, which originally refused to consider it on the ground that Mooney had not exhausted all of his rights before the California courts. The present hearing ordered by the California Supreme Court is the last step in the judicial technicalities stipulated by the United States Supreme Court as necessary before that body will assume jurisdiction of Mooney's demand that he be released from San Quentin prison and declared innocent of participation in the bomb outrage during the Preparedness Day Parade in San Francisco on July 3, 1916.

MILLIONS OF IDLE GIVEN JOBS, MISS PERKINS SAYS

Washington, D. C.—A roseate view of the improved conditions of working men and women during the past three years was given by Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, in an address before the convention of the International Seamen's Union of America here.

Wages, she said, are 50 per cent higher than they were at the low point of the depression, adding:

"Approximately 5,000,000 men and women who were without jobs in March, 1933, have been returned to work in private industries.

"One of the most encouraging signs of progress is the turn taken by the durable goods industries. They are always the first to suffer in a depression and the slowest to recover. They are now at their highest point since November, 1930."

The Cherry Tree

Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly

One of the interesting and important developments of the month is the manner in which the labor press has launched a demand for Constitutional remedy of the Supreme Court's acts of assassination of laws.

Almost as a whole the labor press has condemned the attitude of the Supreme Court and its usurped power to nullify acts of Congress.

Much more effectively than the daily press, with more intelligence and with infinitely more fearlessness, the labor press has grasped this great issue, has shown an understanding of it and has sailed in to demand a proper protection of human rights.

The Constitution is, in truth, a great document. It protects human liberties and it works as well as the Supreme Court will let it work.

But the Supreme Court has shown that there is a point at which the Constitution is not to be allowed to work, in its present form.

Concealed in the whole dispute is the elemental issue between property rights and human rights. The human rights enumerated in the Bill of Rights do not meet today's needs. There must be an extension of rights so as to cover collective rights as well as personal rights.

Three eminent justices believe this could all be done within the Constitution as it stands, but six say "no" and six are a majority. That is that—most emphatically.

Now it is true enough that any remedy that will work is a good remedy, but the best remedy is one that goes furthest to the root of the situation.

That seems to mean Constitutional Amendment.

The Supreme Court may continue to be just the same kind of tribunal it was when NRA and AAA were laid on the chopping block and slaughtered.

Once income taxes were unconstitutional; then we amended the Constitution and income taxes were made Constitutional.

Congress might—so some good lawyers say—define the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court so as to prevent challenge of a law on Constitutional grounds by any individual, limiting that right to States, which would help greatly; and Congress might define the jurisdiction of the lower courts so as to prevent them from dealing with Constitutional questions at all. And perhaps the only trouble with that is that what one Congress can do another can undo, as labor knows full well.

But a Constitutional Amendment can be undone only by the people themselves and that right they must always have as long as democracy and self-government live in America.

As for the ballyhoo about "sacredness of the Constitution"—that is ballyhoo and

FEATURED ON CHESTERFIELD RADIO PROGRAM

FIRST SAX WITH 20TH CENTURY FOX STUDIOS

El Moulton is well and favorably known among the many fine artists in Hollywood studios. First chair saxophonist with the 20th Century-Fox Studios. Formerly with KHJ—Columbia Broadcasting System. An artist of rare talent and ability, his work in the movies is so exacting that it requires the very best instrument that it is possible to obtain. He plays a Conn alto saxophone, and writes us on November 20, 1935: "My Conn is exceptionally good for recording work."

EUPHONIUM SOLOIST WITH U. S. NAVY BAND

The United States Navy Band, Washington, D. C., is one of the nation's finest, ably directed by Lieut. Charles Benter. Immensely popular at government functions and also on tour. Jean Mangano, solo baritone player with this great band, is shown above with his Conn 601 euphonium. On January 4, 1935, he said that in all his experience he never had "found intonation as perfect as it is in this instrument."

The great artists of today show a marked preference for Conn instruments. A late model Conn with its modern improvements will help you also to attain success. See your Conn dealer now or write for free book on your favorite instrument. Please mention instrument.

GREAT TROMBONIST APPEARS ON NBC STAR PROGRAMS

WCAU is Philadelphia's leading radio station—most powerful (50,000 watts). Outlet for the CBS chain. Its studio orchestra boasts a saxophone trio comprising three of the finest sax artists in the Quaker city. And they all play Conns. Left to right, as shown above: Frank Hopwood, baritone sax; Harry Roberts, tenor sax; and Milton Sobets, alto and baritone sax.

ALL CONN TESTIMONIALS ARE GUARANTEED TO BE VOLUNTARY AND GENUINE EXPRESSIONS OF OPINION FOR WHICH NO PAYMENT OF ANY KIND HAS BEEN OR WILL BE MADE

nothing else. The Constitution is not a sacred document; it is one of the humanest of all human documents. It was made to serve the needs of people; and the people have amended it twenty-two times. It is a better document because of that.

Sooner or later this great issue must be placed before the people in concrete form. Up to this time there is only general debate. It has not come down to "yes" or "no" on any specific proposition. Perhaps it is better that there be this preliminary examination. Americans are going to know what it is all about.

But meanwhile there is that outstanding fact of labor press leadership. It has actually led in discussion.

The labor press is far more wide awake, far more ably edited and far more powerful than its enemies will believe, or than most of its friends understand.

The labor press has taken this lead in one of the most important issues that ever faced the nation. If it continues to lead it can make history that will shape the whole future course of the nation. And it ought to blow its own horn about this achievement.

Why, O Why?

Father—Why were you kissing my daughter in that dark corner last night?
Youth—Now that I've seen her in daylight I sort of wonder myself.—Ski-U-Mah.

Too Late

She wanted to be in the beauty chorus, so she wrote an application, enclosed her photograph, and was asked to come for an interview. Imagine her surprise when she was told by the manager that she was too late.

"Is the position filled, then?" she asked.
"No," replied the manager. "I meant that you should have come when you had your photograph taken."—Ex.

Slang

A wealthy man engaged an English tutor for his son. "Take him up into the mountains," he said, "and break him of the habit of using slang."

"I will jolly well do that," replied the tutor.

Two months later the pair returned home. The anxious father rushed up to the tutor for a report. "Did you have a successful trip?" he asked the cultured Englishman.

"You're dern tootin' we did," was the genteel reply.—Ex.

A "Full" Course
