Foreword

With this volume, the 32nd edition, the INTERNATIONAL TELEVISION ALMANAC acquires a new name: TELEVISION & VIDEO ALMANAC, reflecting the introduction of extensive data on the important and burgeoning home video market. That business has grown in the space of a very few years to staggering heights which are indicated in these statistics: 28,500,000 U.S. video cassette recorder households in 1986 (compared to 1,850,000 in 1980) and annual sales of 62,000,000 pre-recorded video cassettes to retailers in 1986 (compared to 3,000,000 in 1980). This newly renamed ALMANAC supplies the who, what, when and where of home video, along with the other departments in the television fields it has covered now for over three decades.

The Year in Review

As it had in the 1984-85 television season and in decades before, network TV continued to dominate the American television market in attracting an overall audience in 1985-86. Signs of erosion in that position were more ominous than ever from the competition, however: cable and home video.

The number of basic cable households increased by one million in the first six months of 1986, making the total 41 million. The number of U.S. videocassette recorder households had ballooned to 28 and a half million in the same period—a six-months growth of 21.3%. The number of pay TV subscribers also rose—standing at 22,800,000 at the end of June, 1986. (For further information about developments in the home video field see that section in this book under the heading of “Statistics.”)

Not very encouraging news for the networks, two of which—ABC and NBC—were undergoing changes in ownership, while the other, CBS, was in upheaval due to a decline in net income in 1985 a staggering 87%. Along with its other troubles CBS was supplanted by NBC as leader in the 1985-86 ratings race (figures compiled by the A.C. Nielsen Company.) And ABC was third again.

1986 saw formal completion of the takeovers of ABC and NBC which had been set into motion the year before. Capital Cities Communications officially acquired ABC and the merged company's name was changed to Capital Cities/ABC, Inc. General Electric Corporation purchased RCA (for $6.28 billion), among the divisions of which is the National Broadcasting Company, operator of the NBC-TV network.

All three networks had important changes in top management in 1986. At NBC Robert Wright replaced Grant A. Tinker as chief executive officer, although Wright was not given Tinker's chairman title, that being taken by John F. Welch of GE. Instead Wright was named president as well as CEO. At ABC Daniel B. Burke replaced Frederick J. Pierce as president and chief operating officer.

Over at CBS there was no takeover by another company, but the network's largest stockholder, Laurence A. Tisch, was instrumental in bringing about the resignation of Thomas H. Wyman as chairman, president and chief executive officer. Until Wyman could be replaced, CBS' founder William Paley returned to active duty as acting chairman of the board. Tisch was named acting CEO.

This turnaround at the top followed the elimination of 700 jobs at the CBS Broadcast Group in 1986 in a drastic move to cut costs as sharply as possible.

At ABC the company laid off hundreds of employees after the merger in January. NBC, the new top-rated network, was also examining cost problems; but there was no wholesale rolling of heads before the new season began.

NBC's triumph in the ratings was its first in three decades of such tallying by Nielsen. It had tied CBS in prime-time ratings in 1969-70 and 1970-71, and ABC had led in three seasons, but the rest of the time CBS had reigned as king. NBC finished the 1985-86 season with a 17.5 rating, an increase of 8% over last season's 16.2 mark. CBS slipped from 16.9 to 16.7. NBC also led in every age-group division except for adults over 55, which remained the province of CBS.

The top ten shows for 1985-86, in order, were: “The Cosby Show” (NBC); “Family Ties” (NBC); “Murder, She Wrote” (CBS); “60 Minutes” (CBS); “Cheers” (NBC); “Dallas” (CBS); “Dynasty” (ABC); “The Golden Girls” (NBC); “Miami Vice” (NBC); and “Who's The Boss?” (ABC).

The list breaks down to five comedies, two soap operas, one action-adventure, one mystery, and one “news” program.

MGM/UA Communications Co.

Top-rated movies-made-for-TV of the 1985-86 season were "Return to Mayberry" and "Perry Mason Returns"—sequels in a way to long-gone prime-time series (but still available in syndication). NBC led in the TV-movies field with 11 out of the first 20 rated as most popular; CBS had nine; ABC none. The latter network, however, had the number one miniseries of the season: "North and South."

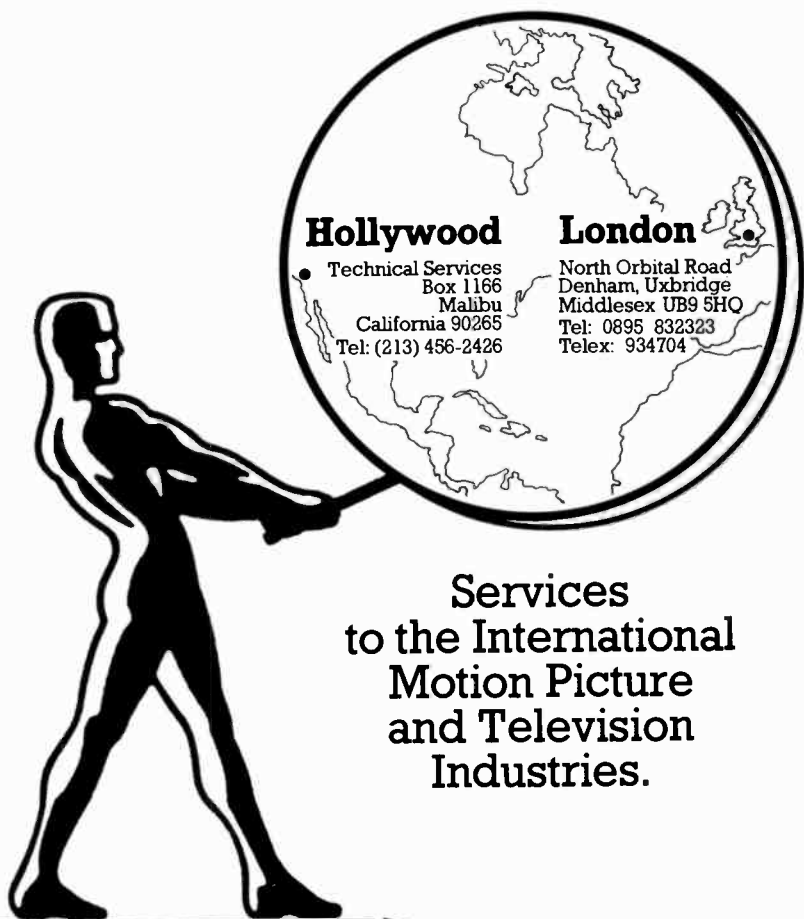

The major networks will have a new competitor in the 1986-87 season with the launching of a "fourth network" by 20th Century Fox: the Fox Broadcasting Company. Broadcasting commenced in October with "The Late Show Starring Joan Rivers" and more programs were slated to follow.

Predictably, it is comedy which leads in the new network programming for 1986-87. There are 28 such shows slated (for details of the line-up see the "Programs" section in this book). There are some new action-adventure series, too, but no new soap operas. "Dallas," number one in the 1984-85 season, fell to sixth place in 1985-86, and "Dynasty" dropped from second to seventh. "Knots Landing" slipped from ninth to 18th and "Falcon Crest" was kicked out of the top ten and landed at 24th.

In daytime scheduling a significant program development came with the decision of CBS to end production of its low-rated "CBS Morning News" by its News Division and turn the valuable early A.M. time period over to a two-hour show to be produced by a company unit that is not part of either the Entertainment or the News Division. This program started the first of 1987.

The creation of the new production unit is a watershed in the history of CBS News—long held in high esteem as the best in the industry. How the new show does will be closely watched by the industry.

Government Film Bureaus

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE:

U.S. Department of Agriculture Video & Film Division, Washington, D.C. 20250. Larry A. Quinn, acting chief, Video & Film Division.

USDA films are available through the cooperating extension libraries of the Land Grant Universities and are included in their respective catalogs. (USDA no longer issues a film catalogue.) Prints of the USDA films or replacement footage can be purchased from the National Audiovisual Center (NAC), General Services Administration, Washington, D.C. 20409. Contact NAC Sales Branch for prices and ordering procedures at (301) 763-1891. NAC rents 16mm films for a nominal fee and offers preview prints of selected titles. The Reference Section will direct inquirers to the closest free loan source, either commercial service or regional Federal agency loan library. NAC will also provide specialized research, using master data files of all available AV materials produced by the U.S. Government. Printed information lists, brochures, and catalogs listing titles by subject, media, or Federal agencies, are available. Call (304) 763-1896.

Home Video

Statistics

Freedom of choice—the control of one's own viewing habits—has been the major impact of home video on the leisure-time industry in America. Owners of videocassette recorders can view what they want when they want and are no longer subject to the programming schedules of the television networks and cable stations. The VCR owner is able to watch yesterday's motion pictures today (by renting or owning vintage Hollywood films, foreign features and television product, as well as films released theatrically as recently as six months ago) and today's television programming tomorrow—along with how-to tapes, music videos and home movies.

Time shifting, the ability of the viewer to tape a show for later viewing (as well as eliminating commercials—by editing them out or fast forwarding past them) is the most common usage of VCRs. One can watch one program while taping another, or tape with the tv set off and nobody home. One can select entertainment or instruction from the more than 50,000 pre-recorded tapes now available from the more than 30,000 video specialty stores, supermarkets, hardware stores and libraries. There are more than 40 brands of VCRs with 150 models now available. Home video has had a revolutionary effect on the entertainment habits of the nation.

Video History

1923: Though the patent for a video-camera-like device was filed in Germany one hundred years ago, the first practical product was devised by Vladimir Zworykin, a Russian/American immigrant in 1923.

1938: A primitive video disk was on sale in Selfridges of London.

Post World War II: With the development in the early 1930s of an electronic television signal and the audio tape recorder, and their coming into broadcast use in the mid-1940s, it was not long before experiments (by Ampex and RCA in the US, and BBC and Decca in Great Britain) in recording television shows and playing them back were made in earnest. Freeing directors to edit or re-shoot and attempting to loosen the stranglehold live television broadcasting imposed on the medium, the first recorders were longitudinal machines that looked like audio recorders and used large reels of tape at high speeds.

Early 1955: BBC went on the air with its VERA (Vision Electronic Recording Apparatus) with a head gap of 20 microns and a tape speed of 200 inches per second. A reel about 5 feet in diameter was needed for taping a half-hour program.

April 1956: An American company, Ampex, produced the first working video recorders for broadcast use, using four (quad) recording heads on a rotating drum, and two-inch wide magnetic tape which was reusable. They were first used over the air at CBS's Hollywood studios in November, 1956. (A more portable system using narrower tape and a helical scan system had been patented in Germany in 1953, but the prototypes were far too expensive and difficult to use; a tape could be used only once, and each time it was used the machine had to be cleaned of tape particles.)

1967: A Japanese company, Sony, introduced the first transportable video system which used reel-to-reel tape and recorded in black and white only.

1970: Home video arrived when the first video cassette systems were produced, in the Philips Video Cassette Recorder or VCR. (Philips had also developed and licensed the compact audio cassette.) Sony introduced its 3/4-inch U-Matic format intended for professional use in the film and television industries.

1972: Philips launched its N1500, the first video recorder with a tuner-timer, making domestic video recording a reality.

Late 1975: Sony introduced the Betamax system, utilizing narrower 1/2-inch tape (the narrower tape size resulted in lowered costs of recording and recorders). An optional timer was included to enable a viewer to tape even when he was not at home and offered the capability of recording one program while watching another. The cost was approximately $2,200 for a recorder with TV set. Blank tape cost $20.

1976: Cartrivision, V-Cord, and VHS (Video Home System) introduced systems incompatible with Betamax machines. The first two fell by the wayside while VHS (backed by Matsushita Electronics Corporation) emerged as the challenger to Sony's Betamax by making it possible to record up to 2 hours of broadcast material for the first time. Magnavox came out with a video disk machine, strictly a playback system which used a disc similar in size and substance to a record album that is "read" by a laser beam. RCA manufactured a rival, incompatible videodisc system.

1977: The video software market was born when a small midwestern company called Magnetic Video Corporation licensed 50 feature-length films from 20th Century-Fox and released them for sale on Beta and VHS formats at retail prices of $49.95 to 79.95.

1983: Paramount Pictures paved the way for burgeoning cassette sales when it lowered the price of some of its strongest titles to $39.95 from $79.95. Other prerecorded cassette distributors soon followed suit.

Jan. 1984: United States Supreme Court, after lengthy consideration of a suit brought by MCA Inc and Walt Disney Productions against Sony, ruled that home taping of broadcast programming is not a violation of copyright laws, in effect legitimizing what viewers were already doing.

Facts and Statistics

- While the Japanese and Koreans dominate the hardware market of the video industry, American producers, distributors, and marketers and retailers fill the programming needs of the ever expanding industry.
- Estimates regarding the number of United States households that currently own a VCR vary between 33% and 40%. Media analyst Paul Kagan anticipates that by the early 1990s, 70% of US homes will have a VCR.
- Electronic Industries Association (EIA) figures show that 11.5 million VCRs were sold in 1985, while 7.62 million were sold in 1984. The EIA calculates that 50 million prerecorded video cassettes were sold in 1985, up 127% over 1984's 22 million units.
- Prerecorded videocassettes doubled both in dollar sales ($8 billion) and unit sales (53 million) in 1985 and were expected to rise again in 1986 to 75 million units worth $2.3 billion; blank videocassette sales, after climbing 20% in 1985 to $925 million, were expected to pass the $1 billionmark in 1986 with 220 million units sent to dealers.
- Camcorder sales were expected to rise nearly 90% to 750,000 units in 1986 while sales of color video cameras fell 18% to 405,000 units in 1985 and are expected to fall again to 350,000 units in 1986. (EIA)
- A 1984 A.C. Nielsen survey revealed that the average user spends 6 to 9 hours a week recording and playing back programming off the air. Soap operas are the most frequently taped shows (accounting for 27.2% of the total recording time) followed by movies (17.1%), dramatic shows (14.5%), and comedy (8.9%).

- The May 1986 A.C. Nielsen report indicated that recording with the set turned off is responsible for the greatest portion of total VCR recording. Viewing and recording the same channel simultaneously accounts for less than one-third of total recording time. Approximately 15% of all recording is done while viewing one channel and recording a different channel.

- While film companies are enjoying healthy growth from selling videocassettes, they are prohibited by law from garnering any of the rental revenues. The First Sale Doctrine states that once the cassette is sold to the retailer, the merchant can rent the cassette as many times as he can without giving back any royalties to the producers.

Home Video Outlook

By William Gallagher
President, Home Video Division
MGM/UA Home Entertainment Group

I'm firmly convinced we are all fortunate to be associated with a dynamic growth industry built on a solid foundation and guaranteeing those who are willing to work for it a solid profitable future!

How can I say this so positively? Because I speak from experience and plain common sense.

There are close to one hundred million American and Canadian homes equipped with well over 200 million television monitors—so far, more than 35% of these homes own a VCR—but we all know that without resorting to fancy growth graphs that these numbers are changing dramatically as of now. It is my estimation that by 1987 mid-year, we will have equipped 50% of all North American homes with VCRs—homes and people that automatically become videocassette customers—potential customers for every videocassette that has been released since the early 1980s—that is a solid future for good catalog product! We are guaranteeing relief for the weary North American TV viewers who have been literally saturated with lackluster programs to watch for the past 20 years—the VCR is changing all that—the entertainment starved consumer now knows he can program his own living room with the kind of entertainment he wants when he wants it!

Here's an interesting analogy to the growth of the video industry—the phonograph industry! It provides a perfect comparison.

Edison invented the phonograph record in 1879—then Marconi invented the long wave radio in 1920 which gave the American public automatic access to free music. This meant the end to any future growth in the record industry! Right? Wrong—not so—America heard the music they liked on radio but could only have it whenever they wanted to. Then in the mid-1940s TV arrived and this exciting medium developed artists who were originally recording artists and the record industry continued to have unparalleled growth!

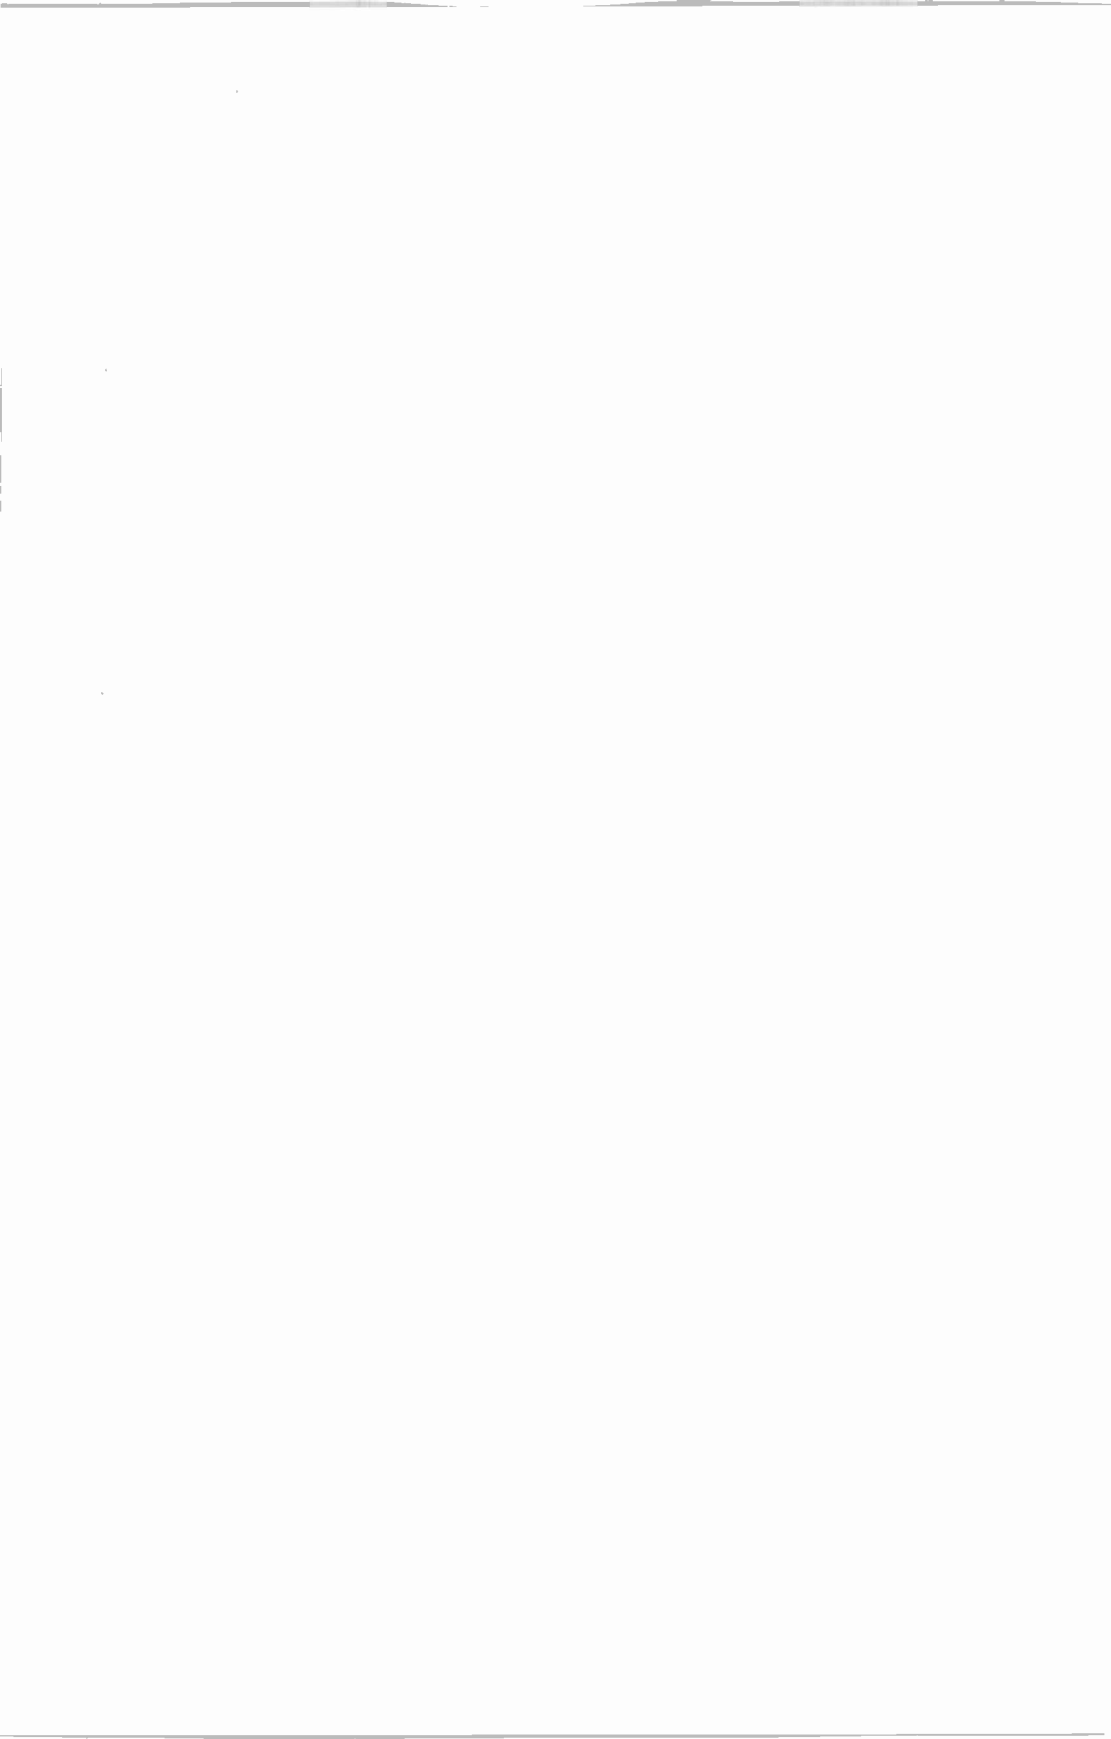

Now there's more new and exciting technology all around us so let them increase the cable audience—refine the Pay-TV program schedules on HBO, Showtime and Cinemax—develop the pay-per-view technology that dealers have been told is a threat to their future—and yet, only if one owns a VCR and a videocassette of “The Wizard of Oz” can he or she enjoy this great program in your living room whenever you wish! The record industry withstood all the challenges of technology and the prognostications of gloom (the financial wizards), and is still a $5 billion industry today—simply offering the music the consumer wants when they want it!

The video industry is built on just as solid a foundation—it has the entertainment you want—when you want it. It must evolve from the currently rental only world to a solid sell through industry and/or rental if you wish for the titles you don't wish to own.

We haven't the space here to examine just how this evolution will come about, but mass production technology will spawn lower prices and mass marketing techniques will inspire the video enthusiast to want to own a collection of his or her favorite programs and exercise their right to rent or buy those titles they want when they want to see them. The future for those with vision is sound.

The Home Video World Market

THE HOME VIDEO WORLD MARKET

AUSTRALIA

Estimates indicate that approximately 30 per cent of the households with television sets also have video cassette recorders.

The following figures showing the number of VCRs sold here each year since 1979 reveal the rapid penetration of the market:

1979	26,000
1980	72,000
1981	150,000
1982	350,000
1983	500,000
1984	685,000
1985	600,000

Major video distributors total nine, while there are some 20 smaller outfits. Nearly all the majors have links to other Australian media groups as well as to leading world-wide film distributors.

For example, the major VCR wholesalers include CBS-Fox, Warner Video, and RCA/Columbia/Hoyts (latter is a leading theatre circuit) as well as CIC Video (film distributor with links to Paramount), Syme Video (media conglomerate with ties to Disney), and PBV (TV station owners with ties to MGM and United Artists). Other distributors are Thom-EMI Video, Video Classics and Roadshow.

CANADA

Canada had a VCR population of approximately 2,000,000 early in 1986, which represents an estimated 28 per cent of television homes. As of then some 1,237,151 machines had been imported into the country (Canada does not manufacture videocassette recorders) compared with 1,265,084 at the end of 1984 and 136,969 during 1981.

Estimates indicate that cassette sales for 1985 were way above—as much as one and one-half times—the theatrical motion picture, gross revenue, which was about $380,000,000 (Canadian) for the year.

Other data recently compiled by A.C. Nielsen of Canada: About 72 per cent VCRs are VHS format.

Films are the most prevalent programs recorded. More than 50 per cent of the usage occurs while the TV set is off, and the same percentage eliminates commercials while recording.

More than 20 per cent of households watch more TV since purchase of a VCR.

Nearly 75 per cent of households sampled cited recording of programs that would otherwise be missed as the chief reason for use.

EGYPT

Number of companies working on recording and distribution of video tapes: 167.

Number of fully registered video clubs: 1725. Besides these there are about 2000 more small shops who rent to viewers for 1.50 E.P. (Egyptian pounds) for each print for a period of 48 hours.

Number of families who own video recorders: 4.5 million. The figure is growing very fast.

General: There's no doubt that video is spreading rapidly in Egypt and is beginning to have a serious effect on theatrical film business. The Indian public enjoys watching films in its own homes at inexpensive prices with all members of the family on hand and the ability to invite friends and neighbors if they wish. Going to a movie theatre is annoying to them for many reasons, including crowded streets, the cost of transportation, and the lack of parking areas.

AHMED SAMI

GREAT BRITAIN

In five years the home video market in the UK has developed from virtually zero to a multi-million pound business. With such a rapid growth business, in some respects the pace has been too fast and inevitably mistakes were made but the all-important video dealer is now losing his tainted image. Nowadays, he is more likely to be more professional and business-like in his dealings with the public and is developing the ability to attract an increasing number of distributors.

Moreover, the industry is recognising the need for continued promotion to attract back their viewers when the initial novelty of owning a video and renting tapes wears off.

Statistically, the home video business continues to expand with weekly software rentals having increased by a million in the past year. A report commissioned by the British Videogram Association (BVA) revealed that the number of VCR owners has also increased along with the number of sales transactions. VCR penetration has increased from 40 to 44 per cent and the number in UK homes is likely to rise to 9.5 million by the end of 1986.

Cassette rentals have jumped from 4.5 million a week to 5.5 million, an increase of 22 per cent, and for the first time the percentage of active renters increased over the previous quarter of 1986 by one per cent. Sales of cassettes to the public, primarily via the sell-through market, increased by £60,000 from £82,000 to £142,000 and the software spend—which at the end of 1985 rested at £306 million—looked like reaching a record £400 million by the end of 1986.

Domestic and export sales for UK video distribution totalled £26.75 million for the second quarter of 1986. BVA director general Norman Abbott claimed this record-breaking performance to "some particularly attractive titles," buoyant hardware sales and increasing professionalism among video retailers.

At the same time the average hire charge for a cassette rental has gone up. On average video library owners are charging £1.21 a night for cassette hire. These figures show that £1.2 million is being spent on video each day. It means that more people rent videos in a year (330 million) than play squash (130 million); attend all football league fixtures (40 million); read paperback books (50 million) or buy record albums (101 million).

Leading distributors of pre-recorded tapes include Warner, CIC, Cannon, RCA/Columbia, CBS/Fox, Rank, Entertainment in Video, Walt Disney, Virgin, Heron, MGM/UA and Guild.

Piracy of video cassettes has sharply diminished since the foundation of the Video Copyright Protection Society (VCPS)—set up jointly by the BBC, the Independent Television Companies' Association and the Society of Film Distributors—and of FACT—the Federation Against Copyright Theft. This has come about most notably since the penalties were greatly increased when the Copyright Act was amended in 1983.

Now the VCPS is turning its attention to piracy overseas. One of the things it wishes to see in a new Copyright Act is a means of curbing the losses which the film and television industry suffers through the illegal export of films and television programmes. Tapes are frequently recorded off-air in the UK and exported overseas where they are duplicated and sold. It is estimated that several millions of pounds are being lost by the film and television industries by lost royalties to writers and performers, to production companies, and in effect all off-shoots.

The VCPS wants the Copyright Act amended to make it an offence to export copies of film and television programmes without authority.

Nevertheless, as with cinemas, the video business is dependent on the studios producing good entertainment and, at the same time, making the consumer aware of the product. Given these factors, there is no reason why the current upsurge in home-video viewing—despite the threat of Cable, Pay TV and Satellite broadcasting—should not continue for some years yet.

GREECE

Home video has exploded in this country as of 1983, invading homes, cafés, and other places. More and more videocassettes are produced every year and new video clubs are constantly opening.

Number of TV sets: 1,800,000

Number of Video Cassettes: it is estimated that about 300 videocassettes are legally produced every month.

Price of a videocassette: It is sold to retailers by the wholesalers for about 4,000-8,000 drachmas who are lending it for 100-200 drachmas.

Number of Wholesalers: There are more than 100 legally-operating companies with a yearly total income of five billion drachmas ($53,300,000) who have libraries of many titles old and new.

Number of Video Clubs (Retailers): 1200

Video Cassette Piracy: There is an extended traffic of illegal video cassette operators who import masters illegally and/or duplicate imported titles or local ones and sell their inferior copies cheaper to regional places. As there was no law against this piracy an organization was established by several producers to protect their interests. It is called "Protection Society of Video Cassette Producers" with Yannius Adam as its president. However, by a recent decision of the Supreme Court of Athens, the illegal reproduction of a video cassette is considered a forgery and the culprits are sentenced to imprisonment and/or heavy fines.

Hardware and Software Dealers: There are many dealers selling hardware and software equipment representing or acting as agents of AKAI, ASA, BAUER, BLAUPUNKT, GRUNDIG, HITACHI, LOWE, MAGNASONIC, MITSUBISHI, NORDMENDE, ORION, PANASONIC, PHILIPS, SANUO, SIEMENS, TELEFUNKEN, SONY, SALORA, etc. Their prices vary from 105,000-320,000 drachmas.

RENA VELISSARIOU

HOLLAND

In the autumn of 1985 1.2 million families possessed a recorder which is six times as much as in 1981. It is expected that in the future this will grow by 30 per cent. The Dutch population being about 14,400,000 now and assuming that each family consists of husband, wife and two children, it means that one third of the Dutch families has a video recorder. Purchase of a recorder is relatively high by those with a good income, mostly by those living in the West of the Netherlands (the most prosperous provinces), those who look often to TV, and by members of the most important TV organizations: A.V.R.O., T.R.O.S. and V.O.O. 70 per cent of the owners of a recorder rent a print of pictures for instance with video companies. There are many stores in many cities and villages. TV programs are often copied (recorded) by 86 per cent of the owners of a recorder.

Because it is so popular to rent a motion picture with a video store price f.5,— to f. 15,— (a Dutch guilder is $0.40, about), for one day, competition with motion pictures is very serious. As a rule the "performances" in homes are often attended by those not possessing a recorder. Attention to TV programs is not influenced: owners of a recorder look more frequently to these programs. Night films on TV are often recorded enabling viewers to see such pictures later at normal hours.

Younger and more educated people are visiting cinemas more than older and less educated people. Younger people don't want to stay home. They prefer to go to a cinema making their own choice: action pictures in general.

Going less to cinemas than in the past has its motives. The owning of a video recorder is an important one. Also: the decision to buy a recorder is also influenced by efforts to reduce expenses—the cost, for instance, of visiting a cinema.

In spite of gross receipts of about 100 million guilders by the videotheques, there has been no growth. The number of them is the same as some years ago. The number of pictures offered to videotheques is enormous. This is the conclusion of a study group of the Rotterdam Erasmus University, in charge of Cannon Screen Entertainment.

The piracy problem is still big, an estimation of 100 to 150 million guilders has been made, gross receipts of piracy. The Dutch film federation Nederlandse Bond van Bioscoop- en Filmdoelstellingen has a close cooperation with the Stichting Video Veilig (=Safe).

On sale here Philips, Blaupunkt and Grundig (West Germany), Sharp, Japanese video recorders (Sony, Akai, Hitachi), practically all VHS system. Prices between 1,000 and 2,000 guilders.

If weather is good in summer it means bad business for videotheques. In May 1986 the Top Ten have been 1. "Rambo First Blood Part 2" (Thorn-EMI), 2. "A View To a Kill" (Warner Home Video), 3. "Beverly Hills Cop" (Esette CIC Video), 4. "Mad Max" (Warner Home Video), 7. "Police Academy 2" (Warner Home Video), 8. "Return of the Jedi" (CBS/Fox Video), 9. "Desperately Seeking Susan" (RCA/Columbia) and 10. "Gremlins" (Warner Home Video), according to Nederlandse Videoverhuur-Top-50. Cassettes cost 13 to 30 guilders depending on playing time, of BETA, VHS and VCC.

Most of the figures and data are derived from research by NOS, Hilversum and from the magazine "Skoop".

PHILIP DE SCHAAP

INDIA

With the expansion of TV networks throughout the country an increasing number of VCRs have made their appearance in Indian homes. A rough estimate puts the total number of VCRs in the country around 700,000. There are well over 40,000 video libraries renting out cassettes. Besides, there are about 50,000 video parlours in the country. In the absence of legitimate cassettes, they have been screening only pirated prints, thus depriving the national exchequer and the film industry of millions of rupees. In addition, there are over 3,000 video coaches and 15,000 hotel rooms having closed circuit TV. Many metropolitan cities have now started having closed circuit TV in buildings and housing societies. A number of clubs, schools, hospitals and other institutions also have regular screening of films on video.

Widespread video piracy has undoubtedly affected the film industry's export earnings. For example: UK, which had nearly a hundred cinema halls showing Indian films, now practically has none. Similar is the case in Canada and USA. In India, however, the situation is different. The number of feature films produced in 1985 shows a marked increase over the previous year. So also the number of film theatres has increased. Colour TV and Video (priced at around Rs. 25,000) has still not percolated down to the middle and lower classes who are the main patrons of Indian films.

Through the film industry's concerted efforts the government has now passed a law against video piracy. Any person who exhibits or permits the exhibition of a video film in any place without proper certification is liable for imprisonment for a period of three years and a fine which may extend to Rs. 100,000. Taking advantage of the stringent laws the producers are now selling the video rights of their films; thus a new source of revenue has been opened to them.

A New Delhi-based company is all set to franchise 10,000 video theatres all over the country. The plan envisages the construction of compact 300 seater theatres in towns and villages where there are no additional cinema halls. With the total capital outlay of less than half a million rupees per theatre, a population of 50,000 is enough to sustain such a theatre.

The government owned TV network Doordarshan has increased its revenue from advertisements and sponsored programmes from Rs. 320 million in 1984-85 to Rs. 550 million in 1985-86. Many of the programmes are 13 part to 104 part serials. Most are shot on video tape consequently giving rise to video studios in the major cities.

B. D. GARGA

JAPAN

The Latin word video, to see, has been adopted for use in our modern world as a term which covers a rather large field in the electronics sector including video cassette recorders (VCRs) or video tape recorders (VTRs), and the compact disks (CDs) using laser beam technology. The Japanese, who don't know one Latin word from another, but are the most skillful people in the world in adapting other peoples' ideas and improving on them, are the world leaders in video manufacturing. At present they make 90 per cent of the world VCRs or VTRs produced, have close to 90 per cent of the most lucrative American market, and perhaps 99 per cent of the market in Japan, where the market consists of 38.5 million households.

Video has an important relationship with television as well as with the movie industry in the past decade in two ways: from legal sales of cassettes or solid disks of movies, and the adverse factor, illegal pirating of copyrighted material or sale to the public, which hurts both producers and exhibitors and is rampant in many countries.

In the past year a new factor has appeared in Japan, about which little has been written though it may affect the movie industry beneficially or adversely. Marubeni, one of Japan's largest companies, has pledged to sell 100 one-man video theatres in the Tokyo metropolitan area and already has 15 operating near supermarkets or train stations, while the Tohokushinsha has opened two 99-seat video theatres on the 7th floor of a leading department store. The laser equipment usually comes from Sony as does the 4.4 by 1.8 meter screen, because both picture resolution and sound is enhanced in comparison to cassettes. The entire system cost comes to $60,000 with construction charges about the same for a 100-seat theatre employing one person who acts as cashier, operator and popcorn seller, plus daily janitorial service. Admission, varying on age and quality of feature, runs $3.10 to $9.35. Some of the earlier video theatres used cassettes.

Jusco Co. reports monthly attendance at their 60-seat Chiba Video Theatre at 5,600 which shows that they are already a threat to nearby legitimate movie theatres. Cinematic Japan Co. already has more than 30 operating in the Tokyo area.

Since film attendance in Japan rose 3.1 per cent to 155,130,000 in 1985 despite the effect of VTRs added to households, there have been no diatribes by cinema importers, distributors, producers and exhibitors in the press complaining of lost revenues due to black market or legal cassettes or compact disks. The reason is that both attendance and overall revenues increased on the whole so complaints would sound incongruous.

While Japan has flooded the world with video exports, the public's use has been nowhere near the enthusiasm engendered in America, and to a lesser extent, Europe. The answer to this lies in the Japanese character and customs. It is true that increasing numbers of Japanese have been resorting to setting a timer to tape TV shows they are liable to miss and want to view later, and there are smaller numbers who tape the shows to send to family members working outside Japan and wish to keep up with what goes on in their homeland. In Japan's cities 31 per cent of households have VTRs, 1 per cent compact disks.

Going to the movies in Japan is either a habit or compulsion for youngsters and a "ceremony" for others and a chance to get out of the home. In general, the average Japanese would hesitate to pay out a goodly sum to purchase a cassette or solid disk for showing at home for his family, though admittedly the male members of the household might invest in soft porn. A Japanese home is not meant for entertaining outsiders so there is no question of inviting neighbors or friends to a viewing. Entertaining is done outside the home and in no way consists of running a VTR for outsiders.

Of course, one cannot say with certainty that in the future these customs may not change and there may be a revolution in the use of VTRs or CDs such as took place in America or Europe. Thus, if there is blame to be handed out regarding competition with movies it still goes to TV.

What then will be done by the cinema industry, especially the exhibitors, if there is an explosive spread of video theatres in the future? Will they fight them or come to some sort of compromise, or even join them? Thus far there appears to be no opposition to them but that could change if box office profits fall and they begin to hurt the movie theatres or any other branch of the industry. Since they normally use imported features, producers and importers from abroad seem not worried.

Japan is foremost in the world in production and export of video tape recorders (VTRs) which now have a diffusion rate in households in the world's major market countries reaching 30 per cent (compared to 40 per cent in Japan's urban areas and 31 per cent nationwide), a phenomena which took only 20 years since introduction of black-and-white in 1964 by Sony and development of a color model in 1966, followed by introduction of its Betamax in 1975 for home use, but since the end of 1985 VTR production in Japan is expected to show a lower rate of gain, partly because of the introduction of laser disks (CDs) now present in only 1 per cent of Japanese households.

Here again is the example of how the Japanese lifted the technological knowhow and research of foreign companies such as RCA and Zenith in America, and Philips of Holland, estimated at costing as much as a billion dollars, and developed them to the advantage of Japanese business in the case of the CDs. The history of VTRs shows the same trends.

What Philips and the Japanese companies are working on now includes an erasable disk, a further improvement—which may control the future.

In 1984 VTR exports increased 44.8 per cent to 22.07 million units, while domestic sales rose 16.8 per cent to 4.27 million units, of which sales to America jumped 119 per cent to 11.90 million units (53.9 per cent of exports), while sales to Europe which are controlled by quotas were 30.5 per cent of export totals declined 19.2 per cent to 3.75 million VTRs. In 1985 total VTR production was 27,124,000.

As for the cassettes themselves used inside VTRs, global demand at present is estimated at 385 million a year of which the US-Canadian market take 131 million, West Europe 108 million, Japan 80 million, and other countries 66 million.

Japanese companies are said to be producing some 1.75 million VTRs in West Europe, in addition to exporting there some 2.2 million under voluntary quotas. What is left in the market goes largely to Philips.

As for the compact disks (CDs) 1985 showed a 5.4 per cent increase in sales numbers to 4,133,000 but in value numbers the increase was only 3.3 per cent since newer models introduced sold at a lower price per unit.

When any discussion of VTRs is made, it is necessary to mention the battle between Sony's Betamax system and the rival VHS systems which are incompatible in that the cassettes are not interchangeable on the other equipment. That battle has resulted in defeat by Sony with only an estimated 12 per cent of the market with 88 per cent for VHS (Video Home System) developed by Victor of Japan.

Sony replied to this by introducing the 8mm single-unit video system, whose recording time is 120 minutes, which VTR makers are already copying. It was also Sony who, when the large American companies decided against putting CDs in production because of the huge capital outlay despite the fact that they had paid for research, went into CD production, along with, on a much smaller scale, Philips of Holland.

In 1970, Sony discovered that Philips of Holland, as well as RCA and Zenith, both American, had spent hundreds of millions of dollars on research and development of a laser diode disk to record, and spent four years unsuccessfully trying to develop a system. In 1978 Philips, after the American companies had written off videodisks as risky because of the expense, came to them with their technological data in order to prevent a second Betamax-VHS video tape problem by producing two incompatible systems competing.

This move was regarded by some as foolish since Sony then picked the ball up and carried it from there, in 1982 producing their first CD system with picture for $800. Other firms followed and now Japan has gone on to dominate not only the American market but also a lion's share of the world market to such an extent that the average person thinks it was Sony and not Philips who invented it. Sony still dominates the US market for CDs with Matsushita Electronics second. Philips has a good piece of the European market, and a very small bit of the Japanese market with Zenith dropping out before production, while RCA only produces some esoteric disk systems for the US government. A third American company MCA sold its factories to Pioneer Electronics of Japan. Apparently no other American companies are interested in trying to buck the Japanese who produced 245,000 CDs last year and expect to produce over 500,000 this year, practically for the North American market. Philips has a subsidiary, Marantz Japan, making CDs in Japan.

In Japan a CD system now costs about $600 (though reports state that they are sold as low as $300 overseas) and the sale of disks (close to 2,000 different titles) increased nine-fold to $212 million as coffee shops, bars and some 300 households purchased movies or other types of programs at prices ranging from $28.95 to $58.35 depending on how many sides (1, 2, or 3) were needed for the complete show, since long features require a 2-sided disk and a single-side disk. It is not clear whether the so-called video theatres existing in Japan are allowed these cheap prices or must pay more, but probably the latter case is true.

There is also the question of pirating video tapes to be considered but so far in Japan the police have only taken action against piracy against Japanese companies and have done nothing about piracy of imported tapes which surely must be taking place, perhaps on a more inconspicuous basis.

The quasi-governmental NHK radio and TV network differs a bit from commercial surveys, stating that 37 per cent of Japan's 38.5 million households now have VTRs or CDs and diffusion in the Tokyo and Osaka regions is at a 40 per cent rate and in rural districts 31 per cent, terming it "the video revolution in Japan."

A. C. PINDER

PAKISTAN

Video has reached almost all well-to-do houses throughout the country. Young generation and cinemas are the hardest hit by video, because there is no censorship of video films, which are smuggled in from different countries in large quantity. Indian films have the biggest viewerships, as their import has been banned in Pakistan for the last 30 years. From the movie fans, hardly one per cent goes to cinema, the remaining 99 per cent watch video films.

The Government is making laws to regulate the Video Cassette Shops (VCS) in the country. Registration of these shops will be made obligatory. The existing copyright act will also be given sharper teeth to prevent the people from "indulging in illegal and immoral practices".

The Government has rejected proposals to ban video businesses to protect the national film industry. There are about 40,000 VCS in Pakistan. Each of these shops has at an average 10 VCRs or VCPs for renting out to viewers, who pay between Rs.50 and Rs.1000 a rent for 24 hours. Every VCS has between 500 and 1,000 video prints of Indian and foreign films. Almost same number (400,000) VCRs are owned privately. There is a license fee of Rs.200 for domestic use of VCR and Rs.400 for commercial use per year. Earlier custom used to charge 80 per cent duty on the import of VCR/VCP; it was reduced to flat Rs.3,000—per VCR in the current budget.

Following the Government decision to extend legal cover to VCRs, investment interest for putting up facilities to assemble and manufacture of VCRs in the country seems to have picked up momentum. Philips Electrical Industries of Pakistan Ltd. have already been granted permission for assembly/manufacture of 25,000 VCR units per annum. Producers of Sony TV, Hitachi TV and National TV have sponsored projects to undertake assembly of 80,000 VCRs per annum in addition to the 25,000 units already sanctioned to Philips. As against this, the official estimates have placed the present demand for VCRs at 40,000 sets which is projected to increase to around 60,000 by 1988. The Industrial Investment Schedule for the sixth Plan has earmarked an investment of Rs.24 million for the establishment of new industrial plants for assembly and manufacture of VCRs.

For the last five years, illegal exhibition of latest Indian and foreign films (uncensored) on VCRs remained the biggest opposition to Pakistan cinema for a number of reasons, including high rate of cinema tickets (Rs.10 and Rs.10 for a balcony seat), strict censorship, poor maintenance of cinema houses, transportation problems, etc.; whereas video prints of latest Indian and foreign films are freely available for Rs.5 and Rs.10 for 24 hours. In thickly populated areas of cities like Karachi, Hyderabad, Lahore, Peshawar, Quetta etc., LEADS are supplied to houses on monthly subscription of Rs.100 or so for one picture a day and two on holidays. Elderly people prefer to enjoy Indian films produced between the 1950s and 1960s, as they are clean and can be seen with family members and pictures made in Pakistan (also clean). Films produced in India in 1970s and 1980s are (self) censored with remote controller by the heads of families, as they possess lots of vulgar and sexy scenes.

Pakistan also exports video prints of her feature films through the National Film Development Corporation to various countries where populations from Pakistan and India work. We earned a foreign exchange of Rs.3,279,475 through the export 169 video prints during 1983/84 and 1984/85.

We also sell popular TV plays in video to a number of countries.

SWITZERLAND

Statistics on Home Video: Number of home video cassette recorders in Switzerland: Every fifth Swiss German household owns by now a recorder; in the French part of Switzerland every fourth and in the Italian part every tenth household has one. By the end of 1986, almost every third Swiss household will have bought one. The yearly sales rate of recorders is ciphered by the wholesalers with 170,000 units. Almost 100 per cent of the recorders sold are the Japanese type Video Home System (VHS). The European device, Video 2000, a co-production of Philips and Grundig, has completely vanished, as well as Sony's Beta-System.

As per a poll effectuated in September 1985 by the national Radio and Television Corporation (SRG) by means of a so-called Telecontrol-Panel, the most passionate video cassette viewers are the inhabitants of the French part of Switzerland, followed by the Italian speaking Swiss and finally the Swiss Germans. Three quarters of the households provided with a recorder view preferably self-recorded cassettes; around 50 per cent prefer action and crime movies. Only the Swiss Italians use their video recorder in the order of 49 per cent for videocassettes. In the remaining regions video games are only scarcely used. Video cassettes loaned by video shops have, in Switzerland, yet a rather small market: 35 per cent of all in the German part, 44 per cent in the French speaking part and only 11 per cent in the Italian part of the country. Almost non-existent so far: the projection on home video recorders of films shot by the recorder-owners.

Governmental subsidy: January 1, 1986, the Federal Department of Culture, Federal Bureau of Cultural Promotion has decided to extend subsidies on Video productions, too, i.e. this authority will grant contributions not only for national film productions but also for VHS- and U-matic video films which have artistic qualities.

Government Departments: Bundesamt fuer Kulturpflege, Sektion Film, Thunstrasse 20, 3000 BERNE 6.

Associations: Schweizerischer Video-Verband, Schwarzworstrasse 7, P.O. Box 2485, 3001 BERNE.

Cable Television

STATISTICS

HISTORICAL DATES

- FIRST OVER-THE-AIR TOLL-TV EXPERIMENTS: 1950, Skiatron system tested over WOR-TV in New York City. 1951, Telemeter system tested over KTLA-TV, Los Angeles; Zenith tested its system over its own experimental station in Chicago.
- FEBRUARY 10, 1955: Federal Communications Commission started proceedings to determine whether it should authorize TV stations to transmit programs paid for on a subscription basis. Study involved 92 docket volumes reflecting the views of over 25,000 persons on legal, technical and policy questions.
- MAY 23, 1957: FCC concluded it had authority to authorize use of TV broadcast frequencies for subscription operations if it found it were in the public interest to do so. Did not define whether this service should be classified as "broadcasting" or some other.
- OCTOBER 17, 1957: FCC adopted its first report on the proceedings and declared it would consider applications to conduct trial pay-TV operations over TV stations provided certain conditions were met.
- MARCH 24, 1959: FCC issued third report saying it was ready to consider any pay-TV application by a commercial TV station conforming with requirements, among which were limitation of three-year trial authorizations to markets where there were at least four commercial TV stations (including the pay-TV one), and one trial system allowed per market.
- JUNE 22, 1960: Hartford Phonevision Co. (later RKO General Phonevision Co.), a licensee of WHCT (Channel 18), Hartford, CT, applied for authority to conduct a three-year trial subscription-TV operation. Application granted February 23, 1961. Operations began June 29, 1962, and concluded in January, 1969.
- JULY 3, 1967: FCC's subscription TV committee submitted a fourth report proposing an over-the-air subscription TV service. Rules were designed to integrate subscription TV into the total TV system so good programming would continue to be available over regular TV stations.
- DECEMBER 12, 1968: FCC formally established over-the-air subscription TV as a regular broadcast service.

Statistics for 1981 (supplied by FCC)*

Operating revenues totaled over $3.5 billion, a 60 per cent increase over 1980 revenues. Total operating expenses were $2.4 billion, leaving an operating income of $1.2 billion or a 33.4 per cent operating margin before expenses of depreciation/amortization, interest and taxes.

Net income before taxes was approximately $40 million and the cable industry's total assets had a book value of $7.91 billion (up 78 per cent from 1980).

Pay cable services yielded revenues of $1.17 billion or 32.6% of total revenues. The percentage of total revenues attributable to pay cable operations increased by 6.9 per cent in 1981.

The national average monthly subscriber rate for basic service was $7.94 in 1981, ranging from an average low of $6.50 in Vermont to a high of $20.01 in Alaska. The national average cable television installation fee was $18.32, ranging from $11.45 in Rhode Island to $40.00 in the Virgin Islands. That national average monthly rate for pay cable TV was $9.56, ranging from $6.00 in the Virgin Islands to $12.93 in Alaska.

In 1981, pay cable services were offered by 2,406 financial entities comprising 9,264 communities in nearly every state. California, New York and Pennsylvania were the leading states in terms of pay cable revenues.

Approximately 12,000 communities with over 23 million subscribers (households) were served by cable television in 1981. These 12,000 communities were consolidated into 3,600 financial entities for reporting purposes. A financial entity is defined as one or more cable TV community systems which report to the Commission as one business entity—upon meeting certain ownership and technological requirements.

Recent Statistics

In 1985 cable television added 4.5 million new homes, bringing the total to 60.4 million, or 71% of U.S. TV households. Pay-TV subscribers grew to 30 million, representing some 42% of U.S. TV homes. Revenues of cable systems had jumped to $8 billion by the end of 1984 and pre-tax profits were estimated at $800 million.

* The FCC ceased compiling financial data on the cable TV industry after 1981.

Catholic Conference (U.S.), Department of Communication

Suite #1300, 1011 First Ave., New York, NY 10022; (212) 644-1898.

SECRETARY OF COMMUNICATION
Richard H. Hirsch

The Department of Communication of the U.S. Catholic Conference (the public policy agency of the Catholic Bishops of America) addresses the Church's apostolate in and through the print and electronic media. It provides advice and technical assistance on more than 100 radio and 50 network television programs a year.

The Department also publishes a weekly guide to current films and television programs that appear in 100 plus papers of the Catholic Press in the United States. In this activity the Department reviews all current nationally-released 35mm films, and provides information about resources for film utilization and education (16mm films, books, magazines, festivals). The critical reviews are addressed to the moral, as well as the aesthetic, dimensions of motion pictures, and are the result of a consensus based on the reactions of the Department's professional staff and Board of Consultants. All films reviewed are also classified according to the Department's rating system. In addition, this weekly service carries information and evaluative studies on trends and issues pertinent to television, with an emphasis on educational material.

The Department also plays a liaison role for the USCC with the film and broadcasting industries, national media, and religious agencies and organizations. It is a member of OCIC and UNDA, the international Catholic organizations for film and broadcasting, respectively. Consultation and information services are also provided for the Pontifical Commission for Social Communications and the communication offices of national episcopal offices throughout the world.

The Department includes the National Catholic News Service. For more than 60 years this agency has been the primary source of news about the Church worldwide for the American Catholic and secular press. NC News also produces a weekly television newscast and "Origins," the well-known documentary service with subscribers throughout the United States and the world.

With staff assistance, the episcopal members of the Communication Committee administer funds raised through the Catholic Communication Campaign, an annual collection. These funds are used to support a variety of media programs, projects, and studies in this country and the Third World.

BRITISH YEAR IN REVIEW

1985-86 was another buoyant period for British commercial television with revenue increases of plus ten per cent. Two factors influencing this trend were the boost in advertising income from the World Cup transmissions and several major stock exchange flotations.

In one month during the summer of 1986, the Independent Television companies' advertising revenue was more than £94 million, an increase of 28 per cent compared to the same period the previous years. Two examples of successful stock market flotations were Thames Television—the London weekday ITV contractors—and TV-am, commercial television's breakfast television service.

With television in 98 per cent of homes here, it has been estimated that British viewers watch more than any nation except Japan and America. Indeed, there is almost saturation in viewing. Research shows that the public on average spend some 28 hours each week watching television.

On the non-commercial front, the British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) which is funded by an annual tax on owners of TV sets, continues to maintain its high standard of programmes and compete at all levels with a diversified schedule. As an example, the BBC's "Eastenders" series at times draws upwards of 23 million viewers compared to ITV's "Coronation Street" audience of 19 million. The BBC's Breakfast Television and ITV's TV-am have reached audiences of 7.5 million and 9.9 million, respectively. During peak time an average of 9.6 million people tune in to ITV, one million up on the BBC's 8.6 million.

At the same time, the vast majority of overseas material on British television originates in the USA. ITV's and Channel 4's quota of overseas material is 14 per cent of total programme output. This comprises theatrical motion pictures, TV films and series such as "The A Team," "Airwolf," "Benson," "Cheers," "Hill Street Blues," "Dallas," and "Dynasty." Estimates of the prices paid by local contractors and the BBC for American TV shows are around $13,000 for half-hour episodes to between $50,000 and $3 million for a feature film.

Traditional broadcast television is a very important user of feature films. In terms of total audience, four billion individual film viewings a year is a reasonable estimate. Much film buying for the independent television companies is carried out centrally and this, taken with the BBC, means that the demand side of the market is essentially a duopoly.

During the first half of 1986, however, there was a fall-off in the audiences for feature films with none among the Top 20 most popular programmes. The three highest feature film screenings during this period, all on the ITV network, were "You Only Live Twice" with a 17.3 million audience, "From Russia With Love" with 17.25 million, and "An Officer and a Gentleman" with 16.35 million. This compares to the British soap opera "Coronation Street" with 19.25 million. It has resulted in a competitive struggle for audiences between the ITV and BBC with the emphasis being put on home-produced dramas.

While the CEA (Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association) maintains its three year TV holdback and a one year cable TV holdback, it has conceded that there will be an automatic exclusion (in addition to that for short and foreign films) which will apply to any cinema film made for an audited production cost not exceeding £1.25 million.

It is a decision prompted by the increasing involvement of the BBC and ITV Programme Contractors to produce material, sometimes in cooperation with the independent production sector, which is indistinguishable from feature films. More and more production companies make both films and television programmes.

Also, it is claimed, this CEA holdback or "window" before a cinema film is seen on television or video, is in the interests of all concerned. This theory is based on the publicity value, for all media, of a high profile cinema release before any other distribution but also to the maximization of revenue from each market in turn. This is essential for the preservation of a healthy production sector which the television and video industries need as much as the cinema.

Satellite Broadcasting, Cable and Pay TV are still in the development stages. Financial and managerial problems have delayed Cable's impact on Britain's viewing habits. The original 11 companies and consortia granted licenses to provide full wideband cable networks are in varied states of development. The IBA (Independent Broadcasting Authority) hopes to make decisions about DBS (Direct Broadcasting by Satellite) before the end of 1986 with the possibility of the service coming into operation by 1990.

The Superchannel pan-European satellite TV service, however, is expected to be launched by the end of 1986. It will be operated by ITV stations and the Virgin group.

On the other hand, the growth of home video continues apace with over nine million VCRs currently in use with an estimated software spend of between £350 and 400 million in 1986.

Perhaps the best summing up of the present state of television in the U.K. is made in the IBA's annual report which states: "Even though technological change has been occurring less rapidly than some observers predicted a few years ago, the 1980s are likely to be seen in retrospect as a transitional period in the history of British broadcasting. The four public service television channels as yet face little competition from other television services."

Also, Channel 4 has been a success story—not least in the rapid build-up of its coverage at a considerably faster rate than for any other U.K. or European television channel. For five years the Independent Broadcasting Authority has concentrated a considerable part of its resources, including almost £50 million on this work. The target is that, as soon after 1987 as possible, complete parity will be achieved with ITV.

INDEPENDENT BROADCASTING AUTHORITY

70 Brompton Road, London, SW3 1EY. Tel: 01-584 7011.

The Authority was created by Parliament in 1954 as the Independent Television Authority, to provide a comprehensive television service additional to that of the BBC. Under the terms of the Sound Broadcasting Act, 1972, the Authority was renamed the Independent Broadcasting Authority and its functions were extended to cover the provision of Independent Local Radio.

The Broadcasting Act 1980 provided for the setting up of the Channel Four Television Company as a subsidiary of the IBA; it started broadcasting in England, Scotland and Northern Ireland on November 2, 1982. A separate Welsh Fourth Channel Authority was also established by this Act; broadcasting on November 1, 1982. The Broadcasting Act 1981 has consolidated a number of Acts relating to the IBA.

The Authority selects and appoints the ITV & ILR programme companies; supervises the programmes provided by the contractors—and the Channel Four Television Company—and their scheduling; controls advertising, and builds, owns and operates transmitting stations. Fifteen ITV programme companies provide programmes in 14 regions of the United Kingdom (two companies operate in London). As a part of its review of the ITV system, the Authority, in December 1980, offered a contract to broadcast a new national breakfast-time television service, which started in February 1983, to TV-AM. In addition, changes were made to some ITV companies.

By July 1985, 44 Independent Local Radio contractors were providing a programme service in areas of the United Kingdom (two companies operating in London).

Both ITV and ILR are financed mainly by the sale of advertising time.

The Members of the Authority are appointed by the Home Secretary and consist of a Chairman and Deputy Chairman and ten other members, of whom three make the interests of Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, respectively, their special care.

BANGLADESH

Pilot station established in 1964 by government. Now includes originating station at Dacca with relay stations at Chittagong, Natore, Khulna, Sylhet, and Rangpur plus two under construction. Address Bangladesh TV, Television Bhaban, Rampura P.O. Box 456, Dacca, 290,000 sets.

BRAZIL

Brazil now has some 20,000,000 sets using PAL. The audience is estimated at about 80,000,000, which makes this country the highest selling and fastest growing market in Latin America.

Brazilian law requires that all owners of radio or TV stations be of Brazilian nationality. A further law stipulates that all foreign films shown on TV be dubbed, and that no station may transmit more than 22 half hours of foreign films for each 72 hours of weekly transmission time. Stations which transmit less than 12 hours per day have a corresponding lower quota. Seven sound studios, four in Rio de Janeiro and three in Sao Paulo take care of the dubbing of all American and some Italian, Argentine and Mexican films that come into the country.

CANADA

Number of TV Sets: Of an estimated 8,857,000 private households, 88.4% in 1984 had at least one color TV set and 17.8% two or more. The latter figure was up from 15.6% in March of 1983.

Number of TV Stations: 211, including 30 Canadian Broadcasting Corp. outlets (owned and operated); 25 independent CTV member stations; and six French-tract TVA outlets based in Quebec.

Cable: 60% of all households, or 5,000,000, subscribe to basic cable TV services. Of those, 31.4% have cable converters rented in 1984 from cable operators or purchased outright. Compared to 1983 the former figure is constant; however, the latter is an increase of 26.3% over the previous year. Cable operators presently take in some $352,200,000 (Canadian) annually.

CHINA (Communist)

Peking TV, opened in 1969, consists of three networks, one purely local and the other two broadcasting by micro-wave to the rest of the country. Color broadcasts began in 1973. Shanghai, China's largest city, has two channels on the air for about 9 hours daily with some 50% of the programs listed as entertainment, 20% movies, news or documentaries, and 20% sports or children's programs, in addition to educational and foreign language-instruction programs. Chinese officials blame the Cultural Revolution for the slow growth of TV and say that after the Gang of Four was ousted in the following decade TV stations were opened in all 29 of China's provinces and private set ownership rose to 52 million tuned to 70 stations and 130 relays. With some 7 million sets being added annually, China is producing 800 TV dramas a year. Twenty percent of all households now have TV sets and by 1990 this number will be doubled.

CCTV began use of International Telecommunications Satellite Organization facilities to reach parts of China where reception is poor to non-existent but only until they set up their own satellite service for which they are setting up 50 ground stations. Some 62% of the country is covered already as far as reception is concerned.

A poll indicates 92% of Peking's residents watch TV regularly while in a nearby suburban area with only 6.7 sets per 100 households, 87% of residents watch TV. CTV broadcasts 30 hours weekly, programming news, instruction, cartoons, variety and drama. Audience estimated at 800 million.

China now manufactures some 7.1 million sets annually and it is estimated that the number of sets will soon reach 60 million, including sets open to the public audience. Total number of nation-wide stations (including micro-wave relay stations) is over 40. Black-and-white sets sell for the equivalent of $370 and color sets for about $1,335 and there is a waiting list for the former. Domestic and imported films are broadcast from time to time, including American feature films occasionally.

Central Broadcasting Administration, Hsin Men, Peking, now offers nation-wide TV commercials at rates ranging from about $625 for a 15-second spot to a full minute for $1,800.

CHINA (Taiwan)

Television began in 1962 by the Educational Television Station which later became the private China Television Service in 1971. There are now three networks: Taiwan Television Enterprise (1962), China Television Company (1969) and China Television Service. All three act as private corporations deriving revenues from commercials. These three stations have 24 transmitters with total broadcasts of about 265 hours weekly for some 5.3 million set owners who pay about $1.50 annually for a license. About 80% of the programs are domestic, with most of the imports from the U.S.A. Over one-third of the sets are color. Taiwan has two communication satellite stations. A new rule states that commercials must not exceed 15% total broadcast time. Movie theatre owners complain that the three imported feature films shown weekly on television hurt their box office.

All three networks broadcast in color. TTV and CTV 6 hours 25 minutes weekdays and 12 hours weekends and holidays while CTS broadcasts 10.15 hours weekdays, 15 hours on Saturday and 17 hours Sunday or holidays. News takes an average of 21%, public service over 10%, culture and education 20%, entertainment 48%. TTV has 10 transmitters, CTV 6, and CTS 8, plus an equal number of relay stations. Sets number 5,100,000.

New rules call for no commercials during programs of less than 30 minutes and all commercials to secure government approval. In the future, 80% of all programs must originate in Taiwan with entertainment programs taking up no more than 55% of broadcast time and 45% or more devoted to educational, cultural or news types.

With relay stations it is estimated that 100% of the island's population of 18 million receives TV reception. About 12% of programs are imports, mostly from America, and these are broadcast in the original English with Chinese captions, which has served to develop knowledge of the English language among the populace.

TV showings of full-length Chinese-language, feature films imported from Hong Kong were stopped following retaliatory action by local cinema interests but the government may step in later and permit such showings, except on Sundays and holidays when the theatres reap their largest harvest. Inquiries should be addressed: Ministry of Communications, Taipei, Taiwan, Republic of China, or to: China Radio/TV Assoc. 6-144 Hsin Shen (South) Rd., Section 1, Taipei, Taiwan, Republic of China.

CONGO

Radio-TV de Congo, B.P. 2241, Brazzaville. One station: 5,000 sets.

EGYPT

Television in Egypt is attached to the Ministry of Information. The President of Egyptian TV is Mrs. Samia Sadek.

The Central station in Cairo transmits about 150 hours a week through two channels. A third channel started on Oct. 6, 1985, transmitting about 30 hours a week. The three channels cover most of Egypt including Aswan, Luxor, the New Valley, Sinai, and Saudi Arabia.

Egyptian TV follows the European technical transmission with an image of 825 scanlines.

The TV receivers in use number over 15 million. The Arabic Department shoots a movie news review weekly and it is sent to 35 stations all over the world with which Arab TV exchange cultural and documentary materials.

ETHIOPIA

Ethiopia Television, Post Office Box 544, Addis Ababa. Two stations: 48,000 sets.

FINLAND

Finland has a two-channel television system that differs considerably from the other countries. There is at present in Finland one radio and television operation licence which has been granted to the Finnish Broadcasting Company, Oy Yleisradio Ab. The existence of MTV, Oy Mainow-TV-Reklam Ab, which is a private commercial TV company, is acknowledged in the same licence.

The basis for official relations between the companies were laid down in more detail in the basic agreement concluded in 1976. Television broadcasting in Finland is under parliamentary control. The Administrative Council of the Finnish Broadcasting Company appointed by Parliament is the highest organ exercising programme policy. It has two functions. The Administrative Council exercises programme policy control over both companies. In addition, as its name implies, it is the highest administrative organ in the Finnish Broadcasting Company.

MTV has its own corresponding administrative council.

As a bilingual country Finland also has programmes in Swedish on both tv-channels.

Some 19 hours per week—out of the total of 75—are sold by Oy Yleisradio Ab to MTV. At the end of 1981 a one-year price agreement was signed, according to which MTV's levy to the Finnish Broadcasting Company is at least 191.2 million marks in 1982. MTV produces nearly 43% of its programmes.

Numbers of color sets is today about 0.9 million (57% of all sets).

The Finnish Broadcasting Company: Head Office, Kesäkatu 2, 00260 Helsinki 26 (Telephone 441141) Broadcasting Center, Yleisradiokeskus, Pasila 00240 Helsinki 24 (Telephone 418811) TV 2 Television Center, Tohloppi, 33270 Tampere 27 (Telephone 445455), MTV, Oy Mainow-TV-Reklam AB, Pasilankatu 44, 00240 Helsinki 24 (Telephone 15001).

FRANCE

Networks: France has three television networks, all state-operated, drawing funds from an annual tax on TV set owners and advertising. (Revenues from spot ads are limited to about 25% of the budget.)

The networks are TF-1, which was created first and led the field in audience numbers until the second channel, Antenne-2, overtook it in 1983. The third regional network is FR-3.

Networks are under the jurisdiction of the High Authority (HA) composed of nine members which has named their presents since 1982, before which the president of the republic made such selections.

Canal Plus has a concession to run for 12 years initially. Its largest investor (40%) is the government-controlled conglomerate Havas. Most of the rest of the shares are held by state companies.

Production Companies: Société Française de Production is the largest production facility in Europe. It is state-owned and has 2,500 employees. It receives no funds from the TV set fee, deriving 80% of its revenues from work for the state networks.

GHANA

Ghana Broadcasting Corporation, Broadcast House, Post Office Broad Box 1633, Accra. Five stations, 145,000 sets.

GREECE

TV is nationwide and the most popular entertainment of the Greek public, to the detriment of all other kinds of recreation, particularly film theatres. There are two TV channels in Athens operated by the National Radio-Television Organization, ERT 1 and ERT 2. Both channels operate in color. TV, like sound broadcasting, is controlled by the state and responsibility for both services is invested in both of these state units. The ERT 1 has a TV relay station in Thessaloniki telecasting the news from northern Greece and another in Patras covering news bulletins from southern Greece. Both channels have many relay towers throughout the country. By a draft law, not debated by the Greek parliament at the time of writing, both channels will merge under one company under state control. The new company will be called Helliniki Radiophonia Tileorasi ERT (Greek Radio Television). It will serve as an enterprise of public benefit open to all trends of the medium.

Each channel airs seven to ten hours of programming on weekdays and ten hours on Sundays and holidays, which are mostly videotaped. About 60% of this programming is covered by news, educational subjects, discussion panels, local movies and series; the rest is covered by foreign films and series. ERT 1 is a full member of the E.B.U. and transmits all important international events via satellite.

It is estimated that more than 1,000,000 black and white sets have been sold in Greece; the number of color sets reaches 800,000, in a population of 10,000,000 people. The ERT 1 office and studio is located at 436 Mesogouon Str., Athens; its town house address is 16 Mourouzi Str., Athens. The president is Andreas Tsouderos and the director general is Theodore Halatsis.

ERT 2 channel is located at 136 Mesogouon Str. and Katakaki, Athens. The president is Alceos Papadopoulos and the program director is Andreas Antoniadis.

TV Commercials: A great number of spots are sold daily by both channels to several advertising agencies. The price per minute varies according to the time and the popularity of the program. The highest price paid so far was before and after each telecast of the World Cup soccer games from Mexico transmitted directly via Eurovision.

Agencies: There are several agencies acting on behalf of various foreign TV companies: Hellas Television International, 96 Academias Str., Athens, representing MGM, Screen Gems, Warner Bros., RAI, Saicis, Paramount, Rank, Titanus, Egyptian TV, Australian TV, Spanish TV, Brazilian TV, World Vision, Romulus, World Fair Communications, Thames TV, Film Marketing Servicing, etc.; Apollon TV International Enterprises, 46 King Constantine Avenue, Athens, representing Anthony Morris, Children's Television Workshop, Embassy Telecommunications, Four Star Entertainment, Corp., Henson International Television, John Pearson International, Lassiss Television, London Films, Marvin Goodman Associates, Metrodome Productions, NBC International NOS, NTA Associates, Orion, P.S.O Samuel Goldwyn, Strenghold Televideo, Mexican TV, Toho, Teleworld, Tristar, etc.; Yannis Triantifyllis, 8 Klisovis Str., Athens, agent of ITV TV, etc.; and Dennis Petropoulos, agent of N.T.A. If Likavitou Str., Athens, Con. Trikoupi I Halkokondyli Str., Athens, etc.

Local TV Production: Both channels produce several telepictures and serials for local use and for export to foreign TV stations. ERT 1, in order to support local film production, is subsidizing some Greek pictures which are also shot as serials.

Other local TV producers are: Hellas TV Productions, 96 Academias

Str., Athens, manager Andreas Lappas; Dennis Petropoulos II, Licavitu Str., Athlens Panos Spyropoulos, 46 King Constantine Avenue, Athens; Andromeda Dyo Epe, 47 Lemnou Str.; Kinimatografiki Epe, 4 Tim Filimonos Tr., Athens; Basil Baros, 26 Democritou Str., Athens; N. GUAM (U.S. Possession)

Guam Television operates one station with two channels for 17 hours daily, servicing an estimated 153,000 sets in the hands of Americans and natives. Owner is Pacific Broadcasting Corp., Agana. Some color is broadcast. The Department of Education, Agana, operates Channel 12, some 14 hours daily.

GUINEA

Radio-Diffusion Guinienne, B.P. 391, Conraky, 7,600 sets.

HOLLAND

The number of TV sets as of Jan. 1, 1986, was 4,574,183. The market is practically saturated. The total Dutch population is almost 14,400,000. Practically every Dutch family has a TV set now; two sets per family is no longer an exception.

TV competition with motion picture theatres and video is strong; the situation in the film business is growing worse every year. In general TV competition is strongest in winter. Younger people usually do not stay home on Friday and Saturday nights.

German and Belgian TV is received well, especially German. (German and Belgium border Holland.) The central antennae system is steadily growing in importance. A color TV set costs, depending on size, 51 cm, 56 cm, 66 cm, from 800 to 1,800 Dutch florins (one dollar was fl. 2.46 at the time of writing). Various shops sell at prices lower than the "official" ones. Philips latest 70 mm set costs fl. 3,000.

There are two channels, with commercials under the name of Ster-Televisie. Commercials are shown every night except Sunday on both channels. A program is never interrupted by a commercial. Sky Channel has been a tremendous success in Holland from the start. A new studio has been opened in the center of Amsterdam in a former cinema.

The Nederlandse Omroep Stichting (N.O.S.) is the central radio and TV organization, but there are eight main subdivision stations: a Roman-Catholic one (K.R.O.); two political ones (left): V.A.R.A. and V.P.R.O.; two Protestant sections, N.C.R.V. and E.O. (steadily growing in importance); and three neutral sections: A.V.R.O., T.R.O.S. and V.O.O. (with a large number of popular youth programs, pop and country music in particular). A.V.R.O. has the largest number of members, closely followed by T.R.O.S. The V.O.O. station is still growing in importance. There are also some minor TV organizations.

Although N.O.S. has an important part of the playing time, the eight stations are completely independent, as far as their activities are concerned. They are, with N.O.S., the most important buyers on the international market. Of the educational and religious stations TELEAC (a series of popular subjects, mathematics courses, etc.) and I.K.O.N. (religious) are the biggest.

A yearly contribution of fl. 158 is paid by the owner of a set to the government. This includes the fee for a radio set.

On an average, feature films are programmed two nights a week, and, in summer, now and then, also on afternoons (films for all ages). On Wednesday nights only if there is no football match. The film industry organization (Nederlandse Bond van Bioscopen en Filmmodernemingen—N.B.B.) now has an agreement with the TV authorities that pictures can be shown only on TV 40 months or more after the first release date in motion picture theatres; exceptions are possible. Although showings of motion pictures on TV on weekends are not included in that agreement, the attitude of the Bioscopbond has become more flexible; there is a regular contact between the federation and TV authorities. The countries of origin of pictures on TV vary, but American and English films are shown mostly, in addition to TV series from these countries. Miami Vice, The Cosby Show, Lou Grant, Me and My Girl, Cheers, Dempsey and Makepeace, The A-team, Love Boat, and Man About the House (reissue) are very popular, as are German thrillers. The quality of programs is good; there are also many comments on the political news.

Radio and TV fall under the Ministry of Welfare, Social Health and Culture (W.V.C.). A conflict between this ministry and the TV companies has declined.

Due to the high standard of living many people can afford to buy a TV with cash. Buying by installment has never been popular since the war, though that system draws more clients gradually, mainly due to the economic situation and high costs of living. Dutch stations are in Hilversum, as is broadcasting. Philips is the most important manufacturer of TV sets. Big imports are from Germany and Japan. The address of the Nederlandse Omroep Stichting (N.O.S.) is 53, Emmastraat, P.O. Box 10, 1200 JB Hilversum, Holland.

Members of the organization of TV cable companies have to pay duties to the N.B.B. and to, among others, the main American companies: author rights of a producer, of a motion picture shown on cable TV.

The big problem is the piracy of motion pictures, which is still very much in evidence. There are also illegal stations regularly captured by the police.

HONG KONG

Established 1957 by Rediffusion (HK) as closed circuit, converted to conventional TV in 1974, Asia Television (ATV) Central P.O. Box 1414, Kowloon, Hong Kong. Additional outlets: Television Broadcast (HK-TVB), 77 Broadcast Drive, P.O. Box 100, Kowloon, Hong Kong; and, Radio TV Hong Kong, Kowloon Central P.O. Box 200, Hong Kong (governmental unit acting as producer for above).

INDIA

At present, there are eight full fledged TV stations located at Delhi, Bombay, Madras, Calcutta, Lucknow, Srinagar, Jullundur, and Amritsar, in addition to several relay stations all over the country.

Apart from these, there are seven relay stations which were set up for the SITE (Satellite Instructional Television Experiment) program which ran for one year, from August 1975. They are in Jaipur, Hyderabad, Gulbarga, Muzaffarpur, Sambalpur, Raipur and Pij, near Ahmedabad. At present, programs for Hyderabad and Gulbarga in Telugu and Kannada are recorded at Hyderabad. Cuttack records programs in Oriya and feeds Sambalpur, Jaipur, Muzaffarpur and Raipur are supplied with pre-recorded tapes in Hindi by Delhi. At Pij recording is done at the SAC (Space Application Centre) studios and telecast for one hour daily. Altogether, these terrestrial stations cover 40% of the viewers formerly covered by the SITE program.

The launching of the Indian National Satellite System (INSAT-IB) in 1984 has completely changed the electronic media scene, opening up new possibilities in mass communication. Already Doordarshan puts its programs over 132 low power and 47 high power transmitters covering 70% of the population. The new expansion program covers 480 million people (260 million rural and 220 million urban). Probably nowhere else in the world has a government undertaken TV expansion on such a vast scale in so short a time.

New installations will cover all towns with a population of 100,000 or above. INSAT-IB has facilitated the national linkage with HPTs and LPTs relating national programs from the Centre (Delhi), and serves the states with educational and area specific programs.

There are an well over 5,000,000 TV sets in the country, with a nightly audience of nearly 60,000,000, in comparison to 13,000,000 viewers that go to the cinema daily. About half the TV sets are concentrated in metro towns but with LPTs now beaming to cover over half the country's population, the growth rate of TV sets is expected to be a staggering three million annually in the next two years. As part of its plan to extend TV coverage to remote parts of the country, the Government will shortly begin the installation of very low power transmitters (VLPT) with a range of about 20 km. These are ideal for relaying programs to hilly areas, remote locations and isolated island that are sparsely populated.

INDONESIA

The government-owned RRI-TV, on the air since 1962, banned commercials in 1981, and in 1984 banned the showing of foreign-made TV series from 1985 on the grounds that the people preferred domestic-made fare. Up to the time of the ban a single American-made TV show daily had averaged an estimated 24 million viewers, a fact that tends to contradict the governmental view.

At present stations are operated on 2 channels in Jakarta, Bandung, Jogakarta, Semarang and Tjirbon, with some 203 relays. Broadcasting hours average above 40 hours weekly with some programs in color to sets estimated to number over 2 million. Programs are 50% entertainment, 25% educational, 25% public service, live 60% of the time, and 40% video-taped. With the departure of imported shows, the government will increase educational shows based on national culture. Indonesia is building 50 relays under its fourth 5-year plan since its 203 relays now reach only 27% of its population of 114 million. Inquiries to TV Republic Indonesia (TVRI), Yayasan Televisi, Senayan Jakarta. 10 stations; 3,000,000 sets.

IRAN

Islamic Republic of Iran Broadcasting, Post Office Box 98-200, Teheran. Sixteen stations, 2.1 million sets.

IRAQ

Iraq Broadcasting & Television, Broadcasting House, Salihiya, Baghdad. Six stations, 725,000 sets.

IRELAND

Teletis Eireann is the official name of the television service in Ireland.

Television, like sound broadcasting, is run as an independent State Statutory body and responsibility for both services is vested in Radio Eireann, the Broadcasting Authority. This Authority, appointed by the Government, consists of nine members serving on a part-time basis under a chairman selected by the Government. The present chairman is T. Andrews.

The Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, who is responsible for the autonomously operated Authority, reserves to himself the duties of fixing and collecting license fees from domestic viewers, licenses transmitting stations, and has a veto on the appointment and conditions of the Authority's top executive. The Director-General, Kevin McCourt, is employed full-time.

The television service began in 1962. It has five main high power transmitters and thirteen satellite "transposers," serving areas outside the range of the main transmitters. Its national coverage is estimated at 98 per cent of the population. The national technical standard is a 625 line one, but programs are also broadcast on a 405 line in the Eastern and Northwestern parts of the country.

The Authority, which has the responsibility of providing programs of suitable cultural and national content, transmits 44 hours per week, with occasional additional programs. In addition, educational programs for schools, two and a half hours per week, are broadcast for 33 weeks of the year on behalf of the Department of Education.

Of the 44 hours of weekly programs, 22 are of home origin. The balance are imported mainly from Great Britain and America.

There are about 350,000 receiving sets in operation, of which about 200,000 are able to receive programs from Great Britain's BBC-TV and Independent TV stations as well as Radio Teletis Eireann.

ISRAEL

Israel television broadcasts daily in Arabic and Hebrew. Arabic programs start at 6:00 p.m. and continue to 8 p.m. Programs include documentaries, round-ups, news, films, variety shows, discussions, games, etc. These programs include, as well, weekly interviews with individuals of the Arab Israeli population who can convey regards to their relatives in neighboring countries, such as Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Jordan through this medium.

At 8:00 the Hebrew programs begin, offering the same variety of broadcast as the Arabic programs. Hebrew broadcasts continue up to 11:30 or midnight. The majority of Hebrew programs are subtitled in Arabic; and foreign language broadcasts, including films, are subtitled in both Hebrew and Arabic. Similarly, most of the Arabic programs have Hebrew subtitles.

Besides the above mentioned programs, television broadcasts every morning (except Saturday) educational programs beginning at 8:00 and continuing to 4:00. This is followed by children's programs which continue to 6:30 and include films, puzzles, games, cartoons, etc.

ITALY

From its inception the Italian television industry was dominated by a public network agency—RAI—but toward the end of the 1970's its dominance was finally challenged by private broadcasting. Prime networks are Canale 5, Italia-1 and Rete 4. The first two are part of the Silvio Berlusconi conglomerate while the third is owned by the Mondadori publishing group.

Overseeing RAI is a parliamentary commission which elects 10 of its 16 directors. The others are elected by IRI (Institute for Reconstruction of Industry) which owns 99.55% of RAI, the rest being held by a publishing association. RAI gets its operating authority from the Ministry of Post and Telecommunications; its finances are reviewed by the Ministry of Finance. RAI is funded by license fees and advertising. (Ads are limited to 5% of airtime.)

RAI operates three TV networks: RAI-1, its main and most successful outlet; RAI-2, an alternate network; and RAI-3, whose viewers are few although it is the only one which does not carry advertising.

RAI has transmitters all over Italy and uses 21 regional offices. It has five production centers and provides the majority of its own programming, including that for a worldwide news service it operates.

Private TV companies are not subject to the same rule as RAI. For instance they carry up to 14-18% advertising in airtime.

Trends: TV in Italy has made tremendous advances in acquiring programming the last several years. It is reported public and private broadcasters have invested close to $500,000,000 in foreign films and TV programs to attract TV viewers.

IVORY COAST

TV Ivoirienne, Television House, Latriille, BP 8883, Abidjan. Operates 11 stations. Sets estimated at 310,000.

JAPAN

Non-commercial TV broadcasting began in Tokyo Feb. 1, 1953, by the quasi-governmental Nippon Hoso Kyuokai (NHK) followed seven months later by the first commercial TV broadcast of Nippon Television Network (NTV). Broadcast time for NHK, which began with only 866 set-owners paying a fee of Yen 200 monthly, was 4 hours a day compared to 6 hours by NTV, which was affiliated with the Yomiuri newspapers. By 1960 NHK possessed 60 stations and there were 47 commercial stations broadcasting, while the number of sets had increased to about 7 million, topping the 10 million mark two years later.

Although commercial networks as they are established in the U.S. are legally forbidden, there came about a nationwide grouping of commercial stations with the Tokyo stations acting as pivotal points and providing tieups and programs. Thus in 1959, 16 commercial stations formed Japan News Network which soon spread to other programming areas, with JOKR in Tokyo, followed by three other such groupings centering on NTV, Nippon Educational Television (renamed Asahi National Broadcasting in 1977), and the Fuji TV key stations in Tokyo. It was then apparent that several newspapers with national sales systems, through capital tieups, were virtually in control of the national commercial networks.

Educational broadcasts were begun by NHK in 1959, followed three weeks later by Nippon Educational Television, which later dropped the "educational" pretense and became a regular broadcaster, as TV Tokyo (JOTX) did later, when it was found impossible to operate a private educational TV station in Japan for financial reasons.

The Tokyo Metropolitan area, which comprises almost 30% of Japan's population of 122.4 million, is served by Channel 1 NHK general network station, Channel 3 NHK educational network station, Channels 4, 6, 8 and 10 operated by NTV, TBS, Fuji, TV Asahi commercial network stations, respectively, and semi-independent TV Tokyo (JOTX) on channel 12 and TVK (UHF) 42 in Yokohama.

NHK's general programming lists 8 regional stations throughout the nation, 45 local stations and numerous relay stations in the VHF range to bring general programming to 3,492 outlets (2,851 UHF outlets). NHK educational facilities comprise 8 regional stations, 37 local stations, 2,207 relay stations for a total of 3,416 outlets of which 2,778 are UHF, including use of mini-satellite relays. It must be emphasized that in most cases (but not all) the general and educational services make use of the same facilities.

There are 42 companies operating both radio and TV stations and 63 operating only TV stations. In the VHF sector some 48 companies operate 486 stations; in UHF 55 companies operate 5,662 stations, plus 9 SHF stations, a total of 6,157.

These four "networks" operate in the 8 key areas of Japan—Tokyo, Osaka, Nagoya, Fukuoka, Sapporo, Hiroshima, Sendai, and Hokkaido—which are 4 commercial-station areas (plus NHK). Other stations located in less populous areas use a cross network arrangement by which programs from plural key stations are received. There is Asahi National Broadcasting with 18 stations, Fuji Telecasting with 27, Tokyo Broadcasting System with 25, and Nippon Television with 29 stations. In addition several independent stations have ties and non-commercial NHK covers 30 million of Japan's 37 million households.

In 1984 NHK launched its direct broadcasting satellite which beams two TV channels to people living in mountainous areas and remote islands who until then had had trouble receiving TV programs, bringing protests that an organization in the red would make so huge an expenditure for some 420,000 TV sets.

While NHK collects monthly fees from 31,400,000 registered sets, the Home Ministry estimates the total number is 62,495,000 (including households with more than one), of which 9,423,000 are black and white and 53,072,000 are color. Some 98.5% of registered households possess one or more color sets for which they are assessed a flat $6.50 a month versus $4.25 for black-and-white sets. Thus, it is no surprise that NHK is by far the wealthiest broadcasting corporation in the world with 16,000 employees, which it has promised to reduce to 15,000, and a 23-story headquarters in Tokyo. With revenues of over $2.113 and expenses of $2.053 billion, it predicts deficits in 1987.

With 36.2% of the national advertising budget, TV is the leading advertising medium with designated prime time from 7:00 to 11:00 p.m. and ad spot buying rates determined on the gross rating point though, with a seller's market, card rates are often disregarded. Top rate for a 60-second network spot is $48,000 and a 54-minute program for a month about $1.4 million; generally contracts are for 6 months but recently 3-month contracts became available, there being waiting lists for sponsors. Sporting events, especially baseball, in non-prime time bring top prices due to good results. Though rules call for not more than 18% of broadcast time be devoted to commercials, this rule is only loosely followed. In addition some stations persist in intensifying audio volume for favored commercials. TV ad expenditures increased 2.3% to $5.8 billion (this figure in dollars increased considerably because of the appreciation of the yen relative to the falling value of the dollar). Advertising for household appliances and supplies, automobiles, department stores, cosmetics and detergents gained while pharmaceuticals, and entertainment industries waned.

The largest TV advertiser, the food-beverage industry, which is allowed to advertise high alcohol beverages including whiskey, took 28% of TV ads.

Although an agreement was once reached to restrict broadcasting hours to 16.5 a day to conserve energy, many commercial stations are broadcasting past the midnight deadline; NHK signs off by midnight. While TV is undoubtedly the most influential medium for both young and old, various polls disagree when attempts are made to determine the average daily time a Japanese watches the tube. NHK says the average Japanese spends 23 hours 19 minutes a week watching TV. Nielsen gives the Tokyo viewing time as 8 hours 12 minutes daily, taking into consideration the viewing by each household member. Favorite shows have veered from soap operas to various kinds of emceed shows, especially quiz shows. Men prefer sports shows, including baseball, sumo wrestling, golf, and, recently, American-style football, though old-type samurai dramas are still popular with both sexes. The younger audience spends much time watching cartoons before graduating to teen-age singing shows, contests or quizzes. In the past year some 800 full length feature films and some 300 Japanese-made films were broadcast, almost all from America and the rest from Italy, Britain, France, Germany, Hong Kong and other nations. These imports, especially those from the U.S. tend to be grade B films or films made in America especially for TV. These are almost always dubbed into Japanese but a few are available in the original language on a different wavelength for the benefit of TV sets equipped with multiplex receivers. Each network averages about 5 movies weekly and imports occasionally break into the top 30 weekly programs.

Current American TV shows, none shown in prime time, include "Kojak," "The Fugitive," "Hawaii Five-0," "Ironhorse," "T.J. Hooker," "60 Minutes," "The Little House on the Prairie," "The A-Team," "McCloud," "Lou Grant," "The Greatest American Hero," "Moonlighting," "The Hangman," "The Unexpected" and other oldies in which the Japanese audience has only mild interest, at best.

A survey indicated imported feature films shown on TV cost more than domestic movies but are shown more often so tend to dominate the medium, so it must be assumed their frequency on TV reflects a response to demand, even taking into consideration the reluctance of Japanese movie studios to contribute to the prosperity of what they consider a dangerous competitor to their own industry.

As with the old TV programs purchased from abroad, Japanese buyers insist on rock bottom prices, the result being a formidable collection of full length feature films which, due to their age and caliber, are mostly trash. With few exceptions, they can only be characterized as mixed second- and third-rate. Despite that films are repeated year after year. Once dubbed into Japanese, some Japanese say, it does not make much difference if the film is good or not. Sellers abroad are advised when contracting to provide a special clause on re-runs without compensation.

NHK general stations average 18 hours daily, 37.3% devoted to news and commentaries, 21% to entertainment, 27% to culture, and 14% to education. Commercial stations average 20.3 hours with entertainment 40.6%, cultural 23.9%, news 16.4%, education 12.1%, sports 5.6% and announcements .6%. Of this broadcasting average over 17 hours consisted of sponsored programs and 3 hr. of sustaining programs. Although broadcasters claimed that advertising commercials (including a daily average of 241 spot announcements) took only 6% of total broadcasting time of each station on the average, anyone with a stop watch knows that this is not true. Over 60% of Japanese polled indicated an opinion that there were far too many commercials, while 50% objected to the ads shown in conjunction with kiddies' programs and thought such programs should carry no ads.

Sponsors of a 30-minute prime time show pay about $8,000 on a Tokyo station with other spots going for $3,500 per sponsor.

Production cost for a one-hour program is only $80,000, about one-fifth of the cost in the U.S. Payments for authoring a 30-minute script is $300 at NHK and as low as $150 at commercial stations. However, writers with a national reputation get much more.

A study of 107 commercial TV stations reveals that although the UHF outlets located in the periphery of the large cities are doing only moderately well as regards operating profits, the older-established VHF stations, particularly those affiliated with networks and in Tokyo or Osaka, enjoyed a good year.

Japan exports very few TV programs of its own but it is the world's largest exporter of TV sets and in addition sells TV equipment, complete broadcasting studios and nationwide setups abroad.

While a critic would rate Japanese TV in general as somewhat below the not very high American standard, and take umbrage at the great percentage of time taken by commercials on all stations except those of NHK, the average Japanese is satisfied with it. Lately, the government tried steps to prevent further intensification by stations of audio volume for commercials and limited them to 18% of total program time.

Quiz games have the highest average ratings followed by prime time cinema feature films. Then comes sports, samurai or home dramas, action dramas, kiddie and cartoon shows, musical, news, imported TV shows, and finally educational broadcasts.

There are no national cable TV systems but 38,221 cable TV stations feed to 4.3 million households where TV reception is poor or non-existent. In the cities, cable TV is piped to hotels (usually in English) and to some high-class apartment houses, and to a few private subscribers. In the suburbs some multi-storied housing complexes have their own cable TV. Very few dishes used for satellite reception now exist though the first private satellite broadcasting company promises it will be in full operation by 1980. Since 1985 NHK and private telecasters have had contracts to use Intelsat and a European satellite on a 24-hour basis but ordinarily they take only a few extra bits daily for inclusion on news broadcasts since they are not too interested in outside world news unless it affects Japan. In fact, this is also true as regards imported TV shows; they prefer their own, and imports are shown only on non-prime time and the late night hours. As for cinema features, usually each station shows one weekly on prime time. Most of the rest are late shows or late-late shows.

Addresses of the commercial networks can be found in the World TV Broadcasters list in this volume and additional information can be obtained from National Association of Commercial Broadcasters in Japan, Bungei Shunjusha Building, 3 Kioi-cho, Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo, All Japan TV Production Companies Assoc., Akasaka White House, 4-1-6 Akasaka, Minato-ku, Tokyo 107, or from Advertising Association of Broadcasters in Japan, 8-10 Nishi Ginza, Tokyo. For non-commercial TV information one should address Nippon Hoso Kyokai (NHK), 2-2-1 Jinnan, Shibuya-ku, Tokyo 150.

MADAGASCAR

Television Madagascar, P.O. Box 442, Tanarive, Madagascar, operates a single station and three relays. 80,000 sets.

MALAYSIA

TV Malaysia was established in 1963 and now serves an estimated 885,000 sets on an average of 6 hours daily, half of broadcasts are in color. Originating station is at Kuala Lumpur, serving three networks on the main peninsula. One network extends to Sabah, where there is also a secondary station at Kota Kinabalu, which operates a small network of its own, extending to Sarawak. Inquiries to TV Malaysia (RIM), Broadcasting Dept., Kuala Lumpur 22-10.

Malaysia opened its first commercial TV channel in December, 1985.

MEXICO

Television began in 1950. It is estimated there are now 6,500,000 sets. In Mexico City there are six over-the-air channels, of which four are run by the privately-held Televisa under government concession on the other two by the government. There are five cable channels in Mexico City, all under control of Televisa. In addition there are 29 independent stations around the country.

MICRONESIA

Micronesia Broadcasting Corp., Taga Hotel, Saipan, Mariana Islands, comprises two stations broadcasting 16 hours daily on a commercial basis.

MONGOLIA

This Communist bloc nation established Radio-TV Mongolia in 1970 and now consists of two stations with satellite connection with Soviet Russia. Located in Ulan Bator, broadcasting to 30,000 sets.

NEW CALEDONIA

Societe Nationale de Radio-TV, P.O. Box G3 Cedex, Noumea, broadcasts on 4 channels in color to an estimated 40,000 sets.

NEW ZEALAND

The state-owned and operated Broadcasting Corp. of N.Z. television service operates two national networks in color—the TV1 network which originates programs from the Avalon television complex in Lower Hutt (near Wellington), and the TV2 network which originates programs from the Auckland studios. TV1 transmits some 88 hours of programs a week, and TV2 about 71 hours. Five days are commercial. Sundays are non-commercial on each network. Fridays are non-commercial on TV1, and Saturdays non-commercial on TV2.

Locally made programs are estimated at about 3,000 hours annually, which includes drama, news and current affairs, light entertainment, religion, service programs and sport. The balance of program output is purchased from overseas, mainly from Britain, the U.S. and Australia. Use of satellite links permits same-day presentation of world news items and live telecasts, particularly of sports. There are 956, 200 sets.

NIGERIA

Western Nigeria TV Service, Television House, Bompai Road, Kano. Ten stations, 4,200,000 sets.

NORTH KOREA

Experimental telecasting, using Russian equipment since 1960s, followed by establishment of a national network of 20 stations with regional stations and relays. Korean Central Broadcasting Committee, Television Section, Pyongyang, Democratic Peoples Republic of (North) Korea.

OMAN

Oman Color TV, Ministry of Information & Culture, P.O. Box 600, Muscat, Oman. Three stations and 1 relay for 150,000 sets.

PAKISTAN

Television came to Pakistan in November 1964, when the first station at Lahore went on the air. There were hardly 500 sets then. In May 1967, Pakistan Television Corporation Ltd., a public limited company was formed with an authorized capital of Rs. 5 crores and a paid-up capital of Rs. 3.19 crores. All shares of the corporation are held by the government of Pakistan. It now runs all five TV centers in the country. These stations are in Karachi, Lahore, Rawalpindi/Islamabad, Peshawar and Quetta and transmit five to eight hours of programming, including canned foreign films.

Out of 96 million, 77.11 million or 81.77% of the population of Pakistan sees PTV color programs, transmitted by 5 full-fledged production centers and 23 transmitters. When started in 1964, only 9.32% of the population could view black-and-white PTV programs.

There are at present approximately 1,815,804 licensed TV sets; the number of unlicensed sets is around 30%, or 544,741, or the sets in the country. Average viewership per TV set is estimated at 8 persons.

The area under the umbrella of TV signals has steadily risen from 8,029 square kilometers in 1964 to around 280,588 square kilometers by mid-1985, 35.25% of the total area of the country excluding the disputed territory of Jammu and Kashmir.

The amount of broadcasting is about an average of 56 hours a week, excluding special transmissions. Most of the programs are telecast on the national network. The main sources of income of PTV are commercials and license fees of Rs. 200 per year per domestic and Rs. 400 per commercial set, which comes to around Rs. 30 crore (license fees only).

A major breakthrough in the field of TV communication occurred in the mid-1970s when Pakistan was linked with the outside world through satellite. On July 24, 1981 PTV for the first time showed an interview with the Pakistani ambassador to Britain (in London) which was taken live from Karachi via satellite. Now all Pakistani viewers can see live programs (if PTV wishes) from abroad, as all TV stations have been linked with the national microwave network. Most of the international events, such as Islamic foreign ministers' conferences, cricket matches, tennis, soccer, boxing, the President and Prime Minister of Pakistan's foreign visits, Mehfil-e-Qirat, Haj, important speeches at the United Nations, reports from the war fronts of Lebanon, Iran, Iraq, Afghanistan, etc. are telecast with the cooperation of ABC, CBS, NBC, etc. live through satellite. Some Middle Eastern programs, including those from India, Oman, Dubai, Saudi Arabia, and Abu Dhabi, etc. are clearly visible in parts of Pakistan with the help of boosters in high antenna. Indian (Amritsar) TV is clearly seen in Lahore and surrounding areas even without the help of boosters.

One of the major goals of PTV has been to extend its service deeper into rural areas. PTV has been successful in achieving this to a high degree by setting up 23 powerful boosters/transmitters which act a rebroadcasting stations and are linked to the five main TV transmission centers. Meanwhile over 100 cities and town and thousands of villages are covered by telecast. As already mentioned, 81.77% of the population, or 77 million people, can see programs; nearly 62 million of these in electrified areas. Programs of special interest to rural folk such as waterlogging, fertilizer usage, improving seed methods, cooperative measures, etc. are regularly telecast. 14.73% of playing time goes to news; 13.45% is devoted to foreign films.

Surveys have showed that color TV has reached most well-to-do houses throughout Pakistan and black-and-white TVs have been installed in most average houses. PTV is run as a commercial service. Advertisements, which are shown in breaks and between programs, average 3.05% of broadcast time. The 15% increase in the rate of commercials under Islamic laws have slightly affected the business.

News readers and announcers (women) have to wear full sleeve shirts and cover their head and start the bulletin with the name of Almighty Allah and "Assalam-o-Alaikum" (Hello).

Pakistan manufactured 121,005 TV sets in 1984. At present PTV extends technical cooperation to Uganda, Libya, United Arab Emirates and International Telecommunications (ITC).

Color programs were introduced on PTV on December 20, 1976. Today there are five full-fledged color centers in Karachi, Lahore, Rawalpindi/Islamabad, Peshawar, and Quetta. The Quetta center covers the most territory. It also has a technical institute. Seven new boosters/rebroadcasting centers are scheduled to be installed in the next three years. These boosters will not only take TV signals in the less developed regions of the country, but will also meet the needs of remote areas of the NWFP, Baluchistan, Axad Kashmit, and Northern Areas. Most canned and domestic programs are telecast in color daily from all stations/centers. PTV has continued to add modern equipment to introduce new techniques. Electronic News Gathering (ENG) was adopted for action news and location coverage last year. Lately teleprompters frame synchronizer and character generator, having Arabic and English prints have been added at TV-Rawalpindi/Islamabad for news and the subtitling of programs in Arabic.

There are estimated to be between 500,000 and 600,000 color sets throughout the country. The government charges an 80% duty on black-and-white and color TV sets brought into the country as personal baggage. However, there is no duty on locally manufactured black-and-white or color sets. However, a 10% duty was introduced for the new budget for 1986-87.

A number of PTV programs have won international awards, including the Japan Prize Contest at Sapporo in 1972, the Shiraz Film Festival in Iran in 1973, the Federal Republic of Germany in 1974, the Hollywood Festival of World TV in 1974, Golden Prague, the Asia Pacific Broadcasting Union Prize Competition in Colombo, Sri Lanka in 1980, the "Special Commendation" Prix Futura in Berlin in 1981, the Asia Pacific Broadcasting Union in Manila in 1981, the Asia Pacific Broadcasting Union in Singapore in 1982, the Raduga Festival in Moscow in 1983, the "Transtel Prize" at the 8th Prix Futura in Berlin in 1983, the Seoul Prize at the International Television Programs Contest in Seoul in 1984 and in 1985.

PTV made a profit, for the first time, of Rs. 145 million during 1983-84, a remarkable achievement. Since then it has been a profit-making corporation.

PTV has important plans to increase coverage even further with special emphasis on remote and less developed areas and to establish a second channel for educational television during the current financial year. Highlights of the plan, expected to be completed during the next few years are:

1. To extend the range of TV signals to cover 95% of the population, 87% of the area.

2. To establish a second channel exclusively for the educational television service, initially from Karachi, Lahore, and Islamabad (by the end of 1986). At present one hour of educational programs is presented from Karachi and Lahore daily.

Currently about 2,500 creative technicians, including producers, cameramen, designers, editors, engineers and other technical staff, work for PTV. Artists and performers are not on the permanent staff; they are paid daily wages according to their work in the programs. The highest remuneration paid to a performer is Rs. 26 a minute; the lowest, for a minor role, is Rs. 3 a minute. About 3,000 outside talents, including composers, singers, actors, announcers, instrumentalists, writers, etc. participate in PTV programs. A training institute for the artists and technicians has been completed at Islamabad; a second is likely to start this year at Quetta.

The government of Pakistan has approved a project of Rd. 100 million for a ground receiving station to receive satellite pictures directly. Accepting the space age concept of viewing TV programs directly from satellites, official clearance has been given to a plan for manufacturing special sets for this purpose. Initially, only institutions and organizations involved in scientific academic work of the media will be allowed in this facility. The set, called Direct Broadcasting Satellite Receiver (DSBR), has been tested by SUPARCO, Pakistan's space agency. With the introduction of DSBR, Pakistan will be the first country in the world to introduce this technology at an official level.

PHILIPPINES

Broadcasts began in 1953 by DZAQ-TV then owned by Alto Broadcasting. At present 40 stations are on the air for commercial broadcasting and one government station; most are located in Manila. The number of sets is estimated at over 4,000,000. ABS-CBN was replaced by KBS. Others are Associated Broadcasting, Inter-Island Broadcasting, Metropolitan Broadcasting, Philippines Broadcasting, Radio Mindanao Network, Republic Broadcasting and Southern Broadcasting. More provincial outlets are planned.

Commercial ad revenues have averaged 30.8% gains over the past 10 years and now 46% of all advertising money spent is for TV compared to 29% for newspaper ads.

PUERTO RICO

Television started in 1954, and there are about 750,000 sets in Puerto Rico. Most public places, such as restaurants and clubs, have television sets for their patrons; the medium is available in local hotels upon request.

Even though most Puerto Ricans know English, and the number of persons who will acquire a working knowledge of English will increase considerably through intensification of English instruction in public schools and the migration of Puerto Rican families to the United States, and workers who come back from the States with more knowledge of English. Television programming is in English and Spanish. WKAQ-TV, owned and operated by the newspaper El Mundo, on channel 4, has 30% of its programming in English of which 10% have Spanish sub-titles. There are 10 private stations in all.

Kinescope versions of top North American television shows are shown on both stations.

Cable television is on the rise here. The largest operator is Cable TV of Puerto Rico. It is owned by Harris Cable of Los Angeles, which bought the San Juan franchise in 1976, starting with some 8,000 customers.

Cable programming is also being expanded. At first the cable company offered only HBO and Virgin Islands stations. Receiving stations were built to bring in programs by satellite and by 1980 programs were being funneled from the states. Puerto Ricans now have a choice of 21 cable channels.

Cable TV charges its subscribers $11 a month for a basic package of 12 channels. HBO and Galavisión cost $9.95 each additionally. Cable currently reaches greater San Juan, Bayamon, Carolina, Trujillo Alto and Guaynabo, which have an estimated 300,000 homes.

QATAR

Qatar TV Service (governmental), Ministry of Information, P.O. Box 1836 Doha, Qatar. Color since 1973. One station and relay; 120,000 sets.

SAMOA (AMERICAN)

Three TV stations serve some 42,000 sets on the American part of this Pacific island as well as a number of sets on the part administered by New Zealand. The station is also used daily for educational instructions to local schools. Address: Television of Samoa, Pago Pago. There are six channels.

SAUDI ARABIA

Established 1957, now 56 stations and 2 networks. General Directorate of TV, Ministry of Information, P.O. Box 570, Riyadh, Saudi Arabia; ARAMCO-TV, Box 96, Dhahran, Saudi Arabia. 1,900,000 sets.

SOUTH KOREA

Commercial TV broadcasting began in 1956, but the station burned three years later and it was not until 1961 when the government established the Korea Broadcasting Service (KBS-TV) network. The commercial network of Tongyang Broadcasting Co. (TBC) began in 1964 and was followed by the commercial Munwha Broadcasting Co. (MBC) in 1969. The American Forces Korea Network (AFKN-TV) was also established to serve American troops, and now comprises 6 stations.

KBS, which is entirely government-owned, and collects a monthly fee from each household with a TV set, is somewhat unique since it takes commercial advertising, unlike most governmental networks. Political opponents of the regime are rarely mentioned on broadcasts; this one-sided coverage had led to a boycott by some of the public who refuse to pay fees. KBS also holds a controlling 65% interest in the only other commercial broadcaster, Munwha Broadcasting. Under the present regime, other stations were compelled by the government to merge with KBS, except for the Christian Broadcasting System which has been restricted since 1980 to broadcasting only religious programs. The government uses KBS profits from advertising revenues for education scholarships and expenses of newsmen traveling abroad.

KBS-TV has its key station in Seoul and 21 local stations, with other local stations, making a total of 33 TV stations, including those operated by MBC and the former TBC. Color broadcasting started in 1980. Almost 10 million sets are in operation, covering almost every household. If armed forces of USA are counted, the total stations number 33.

Korean broadcasts are limited to 6.5 hours of evening time and 4 hours mornings on weekdays, 11 hours on Saturday and 17 on Sunday. Monthly fees of about $1.00 are collected and advertisements are accepted.

On Saturdays and Sundays between 8 and 9 p.m. it is estimated that 60% or more of the population gather before their sets to view commercial station MBC's soap opera "Love and Truth" which is far beyond the average 30% viewing for such shows and above the 50% for previous "smash hits."

In 1981 the Republic of Korea "consolidated" all news media and took over the private stations, so daily listings read: KBS-1 TV (7 cities), KBS-2 TV (2), KBS-3 TV-UHF (6), MBC-TV (6). Korean Broadcasting Advertisement Corporation handles all TV and radio advertising.

SIERRA LEONE

Sierra Leone TV Service, New England, Private Mail Bag, Freetown. One station, 30,000 sets.

SINGAPORE

TV Singapore went on the air in 1963 and now serves an estimated 750,000 sets on four channels in four languages. One channel broadcasts 66 hours weekly the others 40 hours; of this total about 146 hours weekly are in color. Inquiries to Radio-TV Singapore, P.O. Box 1902, Singapore 11.

SOUTH AFRICA

South African Broadcasting Corp., P.O. Box 8606, Johannesburg 2000, started broadcasts in 1976 and now has over 80 stations with four services broadcasting 7 languages over 3 channels to over 2.2 million sets. From 1978 advertising was accepted.

Associated South West African Broadcasting, P.O. Box 321, Windhoek, Namibia, South West Africa, an autonomous statutory body, broadcasts 5 hours daily from Windhoek.

SPAIN

The first time Televisión Española—(now Radio-Televisión Española, RTVE)—transmitted on a regular basis was October 29, 1956, on a scan system of 625 lines at 25 frames per second. That program lasted three hours with a range of 70 kilometres, broadcasting for about 400 sets. The First Channel (VHF) was followed by a Second Channel (UHF) in 1967, complementary at first, but then somewhat competitive and with a clearer trend towards "culture." Channel 1 covers now all of Spain, including the Balearic and Canary Islands. Channel 2 reaches 80% of national territory. According to the Director of Television, Channel 2 has a ceiling of 85% of territory, since the investment costs double when the 70% level of coverage is reached.

RTVE is now an autonomous agency under the Ministry of Culture, Paseo de la Castellana 109, Madrid 16. All programs are controlled by a Censorship Board. Drama, films and episodes of series are classified according to ratings: "general" (no sign on the screen), "older than 14" (a small lozenge), "older than 18" (two small lozenges).

The official number of sets was 10,960,000 at the beginning of 1984. There are no official figures for color sets (German PAL system). They are gradually replacing old black-and-white ones which no factories produce now, except for small, portable battery sets.

In 1984 the production of programs will be entirely financed by advertising and tie-in merchandising, since the government withdrew the annual subsidy. Both channels carry ad spots. Due to nocturnal habits of Spaniards, the costliest time comes around 10:30 p.m. The ad spots appear on the screen at regular half-hour or one hour intervals, till 7 p.m. Later the spots rhythm accelerates, mainly during feature films in spite of audience and film directors' protests.

Staff and Studios: Director General of the Autonomous Agency RTVE (officially called "Ente", Italian style) is José María Calvino, the target of constant attacks from the right-wing opposition party. Director of TVE is Antonio López.

The ruling Socialist Party controls the TVE Council, a multi-partisan body which applies the 1981 Statute of Television. Home rule in Catalonia and the Basque provinces opened the door to regional independent TV centers. Even the Andalusian parliament asked for a Third Channel covering the south of Spain.

RTVE built in Madrid a 210 meter high tower ("Torrespaña") for news and live broadcasts. This "Towerspan" is now one of the landmarks of the capital.

TVE has ten news broadcasting stations in provinces. The Canary Islands set up their own programming. National Headquarters are at Prado del Rey, Madrid 24, with general offices and nine studios with total area of 3,000 square meters. Additional studios are in Barcelona.

Fixed, salaried personnel is about 2,300, with other estimated 5,000 contributing freelancers. An important group of steady contributors got permanent status by sentence of the Supreme Labor Court.

Programming Schedule and Contents: Channel 1 broadcasts 76 h 45' weekly, with accent on week-ends. Same happens with Channel 2, which broadcasts 46 h 45' weekly. Total of weekly broadcasting time: 123 h 30'. Special programs such as prize boxing bouts, sports championships, bullfights, royal and political messages, etc., move or remove normal programming.

Many broadcasting hours consist in theater movies (about seven features weekly) and filmed foreign production, including American series as "Flamingo Road", "Winds of War", "Masada", "The Martian Chronicles", etc. TVE broadcasts too many debate and panel shows, too many heavy music meetings, but lacks comedy fare. From 1982 the Ente has invested in prestige Spanish features, which first are being shown in theaters and then will be adapted to television as miniseries. Many of them have won awards at international film festivals.

Price range for half hour of screening time is $1,500-$2,000. One-hour series generally brings twice the half-hour price. Price range for feature films is $7,800-$17,000, dubbed into Spanish at Madrid studios. Only "Film Society" screenings (Channel 2) accept foreign prints with Spanish subtitles.

Foreign Markets: The estimate of TVE foreign sales for 1985 surpasses $5 million, the estimate for 1984 is $3,860,000. The whole TVE sales team goes in force to world markets like MIP-TV. But the main problem in Spain is the proliferation of video-recorders and the underground market of bootleg cassettes, in spite of frequent raids by police and Justice officers. Cable TV is not even mentioned here, and for the time being the Socialist government has ruled out private TV networks.

SWITZERLAND

As of April 30, 1986, there were 2,205,713 TV sets in operation in Switzerland and 1295 transmitters and boosters on the air. The French language station schedules about 87 hours; the German language station about 78 hours; and the Italian language station about 66 hours of programming weekly (without Eurovision/European TV Programme exchanges).

Commercial TV was introduced on a limited basis on February 1, 1965. From January 1, 1974, 20 minutes weekly, only on workdays, were allowed; the cost per minute as of January 1, 1986, was 19,800 Swiss francs. On October 1, 1982, the cost of annual licenses was fixed at 174 Swiss francs for private sets. As of December 1985, 91.6% of all Swiss households had color TV sets.

Swiss Italians are the more fervid TV fans, with a daily 2 hour and 31 minute presence in front of their TV sets; Swiss French total 2 hours and 12 minutes, while Swiss Germans switch on the set only 2 hours and 6 minutes every day.

Swiss Italians only tune in a national channel 33% of the time their set is switched on; 67% of the time they watch foreign channels, especially Italian ones. The Swiss channels are more favored by Swiss Germans and Swiss French: 40% for the former, 41% for the latter. For the remaining 60%, Swiss Germans tune in the channels of neighboring German, while the French Swiss watch French channels.

Festival: In 1983, during the International Film Festival Locarno (August) for the first time about 100 TV movies from a great number of European and overseas countries were shown in a special section called "TV-movies." The 1986 edition of the TV-movies offered a program of 120 movies from 24 countries, 14 of which shared in a special award, The Eye of the Leopard.

TAHITI

Office of Radiodiff-Télévision Française, Papeete, operates four channels 34 hours weekly to serve the estimated 24,000 sets of this French possession. It is owned by the government and buys canned programs in Paris.

THAILAND

Thai Television Company (government-owned) opened its first station in 1955 and there are four stations (two using color) and 8 relays on a commercial basis. Stations are also operated under names of Bangkok Broadcasting & TV, Bangkok Entertainment Co. and Mass Communication Organization of Thailand, all located in Bangkok. Sets are estimated at 3,743,000, some color.

In 1980 a ban on broadcasts from 6:30 to 8:00 p.m., as a power-saving measure, allegedly improved "family relationships," so at present broadcasts are limited to 8 hours on weekdays, and 16 hours on weekends and holidays.

TURKEY

Turkish Radio Television Corp., P.O. Box 98, Kizilay-Ankara serves 5.5 million TV sets via 37 stations.

UNITED ARAB EMIRATES

Established 1969 by Thompson TV International and Abu Dhabi TV Service. In 1971 United Arab Emirates TV Service, P.O. Box 637 Abu Dhabi established separate facilities which now consist of three stations and three relays. Dubai Radio and Color TV, P.O. Box 1695, Kubai, now broadcasts on two channels from 1 station and 1 relay in Arabic, French and English. 100,000 sets.

VIETNAM

Since 1968 the Government Information Department of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam has operated one non-commercial station in Hanoi. Number of sets is about 760,000.

A second station was added in Saigon (now known as Ho Chi-Minh City) when South Vietnam was "liberated" and the divided country became one.

Hanoi has initiated use of a Russian satellite and 7 hours of color telecasts on weekdays and all day Saturday and Sunday, compared with the previous 4 hours a day in black and white.

WEST GERMANY

TV Households: Out of approximately 24,000,000 German households, 23,000,000 have at least one television set. Of these, about 16,000,000 have at least one color set. Some 23,000,000 households have at least one radio. Total TV set sales per year: about $2.2-billion.

TV Networks: Germany has no networks similar to those in the U.S. In fact, there are no privately-owned commercial TV stations; all telecommunication is state-owned. Basically, the two national TV outlets are: ARD, the national hookup of nine regional stations; and ZDF or second channel, a single nationally-beamed station based in Mainz near Frankfurt. ARD's nine stations each contribute to one joint national broadcasting operation, five regional channels and several radio channels. ARD has a budget of about $1,640-billion; ZDF, $556,000,000. Commercials are aired on both stations in sharply limited timeslots. Stations are supported largely by $6.50 monthly license fees paid by TV set owners.

YEMEN (Arab Republic)

San'a Television, Ministry of Information, San'a, established in 1977, currently broadcasts on 3 channels to some 120,000 sets.

YEMEN (People's Republic)

Established in 1964, People's Democratic Republic of Yemen, P.O. Box 1264, Aden, broadcasts on 3 channels to an estimated 55,000 sets.

ZIMBABWE

Established in 1960 as Rhodesia TV, and now named Zimbabwe Broadcasting Corp., P.O. Box H.G. 200, Highlands, Harare, its 6 stations serve some 560,000 sets.
