Weather Phone

benefit from these improvements."

The Speed of Lightning. Since the President's October announcement, the benefits have been largely those of time.

"We are presently achieving an active speed-up of raw facts from one to five hours," says Dr. White of the Weather Bureau. "All weather forces depend on data from large geographical areas. Meteorology is the international science par excellence. The weather affecting one part of the world today affects the other part tomorrow. Everybody needs all the information. The sooner we get this information, the better are our prognosis maps."

Dr. Hollomon, who made a trip to Russia after the line was activated, reports that the American weather maps received on the Soviet side are extremely clear and detailed. While in Moscow, he visited the Central Forecasting Institute, now designated as the first World Weather Center.

"Tremendous excitement was exhibited by Russian weathermen I met about the speed with which information is transmitted on the line," explains Dr. Hollomon. "They have many more people on their weather staff than we. Thus, many of their maps are drawn by hand, while ours are done by computers. The Russians are very capable people. Technologically, they can do anything we can do."

Anyone who has followed the chain of events leading up to the new U.S.-Soviet weather line and the international plan for a World Weather System might well agree with Dr. Hollomon.

Both ideas have piqued the imaginations and spurred into action not only Russian diplomats but also three American Presidents—Eisenhower, Kennedy, and Johnson. Speaking to the United Nations, late in his term of office, President Eisenhower proposed that ". . . we press forward with a program of international cooperation for constructive peaceful uses of outer space under the United Nations. Better weather forecasts, improved world-wide communications . . . are but a few of the benefits of such cooperation."

President-elect John F. Kennedy, in November of 1960, also began to think about the weather and what he could personally do about it. His State of the Union message reflected his personal enthusiasm for the first two TIROS weather satellites orbiting the earth and sending back helpful photographic data.

"I now invite all nations . . . including the Soviet Union . . . to join with us in developing a weather prediction program," he said.

John Kennedy's hopes for international cooperation in meteorology became a growing plan 11 months later when, in December, 1964, the U.N. General Assembly unanimously approved Resolution 1721, embodying a Kennedy-proposed four-point program of space cooperation. It was this resolution that sent the World Meteorological Organization into immediate action.

Expanding the Weather Eye. The WMO's first report in June of 1962 recommended the creation of a World Weather System, which itself became a working blueprint in the spring of 1963. Long-range studies to bring improved weather services to all nations of the world were started at that time. A special research and development fund for improvement of facilities, education, and training was established. The system was planned to focus on three World Weather Centers, one to be located in Moscow, another in Washington, and a third in the Southern Hemisphere.

In addition to gathering, processing, and disseminating global weather observations from satellites and other sources, the Centers would also train meteorologists, study large-scale weather systems, and archive weather information for research purposes.

Now, three years after WMO's first report, Russia has the first Center, and a new weather line links Moscow to Washington. Thus, the Northern Hemisphere benefits daily from very high-speed facsimile communications over the new 5,000-mile transcontinental circuit. Photos are also received and transmitted at twice the speed usually used on international circuits.

While Moscow and Suitland are the only two transmitting points on this first link, plans are being made to offer the weather data on a receive-only basis to countries that may wish to participate by payment of a proportional share of the cost.

On December 31, 1964, the Weather Bureau's Suitland operation was officially named the second World Weather Center. Although Drs. Hollomon and White refuse to name the third, informed sources in Washington wager that it will be in Australia—and by 1968. ■

WHITE'S RADIO LOG

An up-to-date Broadcasting Directory of North American AM, FM and TV Stations. Including a Special Section on World-Wide Short-Wave Stations

This is the third and last part of White's Radio Log, now published in three parts twice each year. This format presentation enables the Editors of RADIO-TV EXPERIMENTER to offer its readers two complete volumes of White's Radio Log each year, while increasing the scope of the Log and its accuracy.

In this issue of White's Radio Log we have included the following listings: U. S. AM Stations by Call Letters, U. S. FM Stations by Call Letters, Canadian AM Stations by Call Letters, Canadian FM Stations by Call Letters, Cuban and Mexican AM Stations by Call Letters, and the World-Wide Short-Wave Section.

In February-March 1966 issue of RADIO-TV EXPERIMENTER, Volume 45, No. 1, the Log will contain the following listings:

U. S. AM Stations by Frequency, Canadian AM Stations by Frequency, U. S. Television Stations by States, Canadian Television Stations by Location and the World-Wide Short-Wave Section. In the event you missed a part of the Log published during the last half of 1965, you will have a complete volume of White's Radio Log by collecting any three consecutive issues of RADIO-TV EXPERIMENTER during the first half of 1966. The three consecutive issues are an entire volume of White's Radio Log that offers complete listings with last minute station change data that are not offered in any other magazine or book. World-Wide Short Wave Stations

The World-Wide short wave stations section of White's Radio Log is, as its name implies, a log, that lists stations actually monitored by listeners in the United States, Canada and overseas. It is not intended to be a listing of all shortwave transmitters, licensed as such listings contain numerous inactive transmitters, and low powered stations which are rarely heard by DX'ers. The stations listed here, therefore, are those most often reported and consistently heard during the past few months. Many have been monitored by DX CENTRAL, the official RADIO-TV EXPERIMENTER monitoring post in New York City.

Because of the fact that this log represents actual monitoring reports rather than data taken from published program schedules received from the stations, you may find that frequencies (and operating times) given here differ from official listings. This is because foreign short-wave stations frequently operate several kilocycles away from their assigned (and announced) frequencies. In addition, the schedules of these stations are often changed and the changes are not published in the schedules until many months later. We feel that the type of log which White's Radio Log is presenting represents a very realistic picture of the current status of short-wave broadcasting, and is something which cannot be obtained elsewhere.

Let Us Know. Listeners are invited to submit their loggings to us for publication in the Shortwave section of White's Radio Log. Be sure to include the following information for each station you report: approximate frequency, call sign and/or station name, city and country, and time heard in Eastern Standard Time, 24 hour clock. Address your reports to: DX CENTRAL, White's Radio Log, c/o RADIO-TV EXPERIMENTER, 505 Park Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10022, U.S.A.

Time To Listen. All times shown in White's Radio Log are in the 24 hour EST clock system. For example, 0800 is 8:00 AM EST, 1200 is noon EST, 1800 is 6 PM EST, and so on. For conversion to other time zones, subtract 1 hour for CST (0800 EST is 7 AM CST), 2 hours for MST, 3 hours for PST.

The following abbreviations are used in our listings: BC—Broadcasting Company, Corporation, or System; E—Emissora; R—Radio or Radiodiffusion; V—Voice or Voz.

BUILD YOUR OWN PHONE/CODE TRANSMITTER

This is just one of seven training kits programmed into NRI's Complete Communications course. You get actual practice in building your own crystal-controlled, phone/code transmitter and putting it on the air. You experiment with modulation, "clamping" circuits, key filters, other aspects of commercial transmitter operation. Can be put on the air simply by attaching an antenna and complies with FCC regulations. As with all NRI training kits, you get the most modern features and parts.

BUILD ACTUAL ANALOG COMPUTER CIRCUITS

Industry, business offices, the government and military all need trained Electronics Technicians. NRI's Industrial Electronics course prepares you. You progress through 10 carefully designed training kits, topping off your practical experience phase of training by experimenting with feedback control systems, analog computers and digital computer elements. You actually solve problems on this analog computer you build yourself. This is the practical, fast way to a good paying, career position.

BUILD A CUSTOM-ENGINEERED TELEVISION RECEIVER

Want to earn $3 to $5 an hour in spare time? Want your own part-time or full-time business? You build it yourself, become familiar with components and circuits, learn servicing procedures . . . and earn extra money as you train. National Radio Institute, Washington, D.C.
